delight parades as massive Vietnam Moratorium Day demonstrations got under way.

In Washington, an all-night House session planned by a group of congressmen in support of the nationwide antiwar protest ended short of its target when adjournment was voted shortly after 11 p.m. EDT.

Millions of Americans in cities and towns across the land were expected to participate in demonstrations today despite the objection of President Nixon, who said the protest was undercutting his peace efforts.

In addition to the administration, mounting opposition to the moratorium came from a variety of public officials, veterans' groups and police and firemen's organizations who said the observance was not in the national interest.

Those participating in the protest planned a variety of observances including mass rallies, parades, teach-ins, forums, prayers and the reading of the roll of Vietnam dead.

Leaders of the moratorium movement called for a nonviolent disruption of the daily routine. Most law officials did not express great outward concern although some geared up to handle greater traffic.

Opponents planned to emphasize their view by flying flags at full staff and, in some cases, driving with their headlights on.

On the eve of the moratorium, the North Vietnamese delegates to the Paris peace talks released a statement by Premier Pham Van Dong calling the protest a "worthy and timely rebuff" of President Nixon's policy.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, acting with the President's approval, termed the message a "shocking intrusion into the affairs of the American people by an enemy" and urged protest leaders to repudiate the Communist support.

that the demonstration's only connection with the President was in its design to influence him to immediately terminate U.S. involvement in the war.

"You see," she said, explaining the political theory behind the moratorium, "in 1968, the antiwar movement was so closely connected with the image of President Johnson that when he announced he would not run for re-election, the whole movement dropped dead."

"We don't want to make the mistake of tying it to anybody's personality again," she said. "We want to tie it to the issue. That way the movement will be alive as long as the troops are there, no matter who is president."

At Tuesday's meeting of Hope Kiwanis Club the new officers for the Administrative Year beginning October 1st were inducted by MoArk District Treas. Dean Murphy.

K.G. Hamilton was installed as President, Jon Leim as 1st Vice President, Harry Hawthorne as 2nd Vice President, Bob Dennis as Treasurer, and Teddy Jones as Secretary. Eddie Whitman, Larry Patterson, and Bill Butler, new Directors John Herbert Griffin, Bill Mudgett, and Jack Lowe, carry-over directors. These officers and directors along with immediate Past President, Bob Peterson, comprise the group that will lead and control the activities of the Hope Kiwanis Club for the 1969-1970 year.

Guests at Tuesday's meeting were Jim Cole, Mrs. K.G. Hamilton, Mrs. Guy Grigg and Key Club members Thomas Norvell and Randy Wright. Don Robertson was introduced as a new member.

More Chilly Weather Is Forecast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Cool, crisp air greeted Arkansians again this morning, plunging temperatures to the all-time low in Little Rock for this date, and causing persons throughout the state to crank up heating systems as more chilly weather is in the forecast.

Slightly warmer temperatures were forecast through tonight, but temperatures are expected to drop again as another cold front knives into the state Thursday. A few showers in North Arkansas are expected to accompany the front.

Little Rock recorded 37 degrees this morning, which ties the record low for the date set in 1937 and 1961. Calico Rock, however, was the coldest spot in the state Tuesday night with a 30-degree reading. Scores of other cities reported temperatures in the 30s.

Lows tonight are expected to be mostly in the 40s. Highs Tuesday ranged from 62 at Texarkana to 57 at Memphis.

Overnight lows included 33 at El Dorado, 34 at Fayetteville, 35 at Harrison, 37 at Memphis, 38 at Jonesboro, 39 at Blytheville, Texarkana and Pine Bluff. No rainfall was reported in the state for the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today.

Sunlight streaming through a window left the surface of the sun only eight minutes earlier, according to scientists.

EVERY AGE

you consider what it has done for mankind it certainly deserves the fame accorded to an earlier symbol of the farm—the old oaken bucket that hung in the well.

As the cracker barrel and the pot-bellied stove in the oldtime general store served as the forum of rural communities, the water cooler has become the social center of the business office.

Its job of dispensing water is ordinarily minor to other roles it plays.

Where does the junior executive go to meet the secretary and make a whispered date? To the water cooler. Where does the office hypochondriac go to gulp his many medicines? To the water cooler. Where do the office white collar peasants foregather to tell the latest joke or trade the newest gossip? At the water cooler.

The old-fashioned cooler consisted of a big inverted glass jug that poured its contents down over a chunk of ice that rarely lasted the day. A fellow seeking to escape his desk could waste half an hour there, looking busy, while the water dripped drop by drop into a paper cup held under the faucet.

Everyone dreamed of sometime putting a bottle of gin in the old-fashioned water cooler, but somehow it never seemed to happen.

Your new water cooler, like most of man's latter day gadgets, has become vastly more complicated. It is a sleek monster with shiny stainless metal sides, and it often takes a new employee two days to find whether it works by hand or by foot.

How important is the office water cooler?

"Like the pencil sharpener and the paper-towel machine in the washroom, it is a vital key to office morale," said a veteran personnel manager. "When they all work, everything's o.k. But if the washroom machine runs out of towels, the pencil sharpener breaks down, and the water cooler won't work, you've got a revolution on your hands."

"I'd say, however, that the water cooler is the biggest safety valve. Unless it functions, everybody seems to go a little bit mad."

They kick it, scream out old grudges at each other, and foam all over the place, some go out of their minds so far they even storm into and the boss demand a merit raise."

Grievances Are Discussed at Texarkana

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — The song "Dixie" was one of several issues between blacks and whites Monday night among about 800 persons attending a Texarkana School Board Meeting.

Ricky Smith, president of the senior class at Arkansas High School, presented a list of grievances drawn up by white students, including one calling for continued use of "Dixie."

Grievances submitted by Negro students wanted "Dixie" banished. N. H. Hillard, representing a committee of Negro parents, also sought an end to the use of the song.

At a pep rally last week, fist fights broke out after the song was played. Use of the song in a number of areas of the state has been attacked as demeaning to blacks.

Hillard called for an end to the presence of policemen on campus.

Rev. Fulton Sheen Resigns From Post

By BEN DE FOREST
Associated Press Writer
ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — The Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, known by millions across the land for his former televised religious program, has resigned as bishop of the Rochester Roman Catholic Diocese, it was announced today.

The 74-year-old bishop will be succeeded by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph L. Hogan, 53, pastor of St. Margaret Mary's Church in Rochester.

In Vatican City, the Vatican said Pope Paul had accepted the resignation for reasons of health.

But Bishop Sheen told a news conference his health was "perfect. Thank God. Just marvelous."

Bishop Sheen emphasized that "I am resigning the diocese. I am not resigning work. I am not retiring. I am regenerating."

He said that after the installation of Bishop-elect Hogan he will "return to New York—not to retire, but to spend myself and be spent in any work the Lord sees fit to use me."

Bishop Sheen said that last May 8, his 74th birthday, he had an audience with the Pope. "I begged him to accept by resignation as bishop of Rochester," Bishop Sheen said.

The Rochester diocese embraces 12 upstate New York counties and has a Catholic population of nearly 362,000.

Bishop Sheen was installed as the Rochester bishop in December 1966 after serving as auxiliary bishop in the New York diocese.

Born in El Paso, Ill., Bishop Sheen was one of four sons of a farmer of Irish ancestry. The family later moved to Peoria, Ill.

HELEN HELP US!

TOO LATE SMART

Dear Helen: I am a man, like so many, who saw greener grass. My wife caught me and left me. I was stupid enough to marry the other woman, then found the grass not so green. She seemed perfect—until I knew her better! I saw my Ex a few weeks ago and felt something I never felt for this present woman. She was so beautiful and looked so sweet. Why didn't I realize this before? She is the perfect one. I'm divorcing my present wife, but it's too late. My Ex is getting married soon. I don't deserve any better than I got, but tell me, Helen, what makes a man such a complete fool?—TOO LATE

Dear T. L.: It's easy for romantics (accent on roamin') who glorify women—until they know them better. So long as you expect a wife to be perfect, you'll never find one who compares with the little filly staked out in those "greener pastures."

Why don't you remain a bachelor until you grow up?—H.
Dear Helen: I used to shake my head over those past-40 Casanovas who looked to greener pastures, forsaking a faithful wife and often a family—until I reached that stage myself. Now I realize that the "faithful wife" may have a lot to do with it.

I spent two decades being true to my wife, with off and on conjugal bliss. When the youngest of our children started school, my wife returned to work. Ever since, she's been "too tired" even though I help with the kids and chores.

I try to tell her of my need for her. I want her love, not just an, "Oh, if you must..." Maybe I'm just a typical over-40 libertine, but why should I pass up sex with an appreciative partner when my wife has forsaken me for a career?—FRUSTRATED NO MORE

Dear Frustrated: You're asking the wrong woman. Why don't you lay it on the line to your wife?—H.
Dear Helen: I am pushing 67, active and proud of my age, but I don't like condescension! I consider it condescension when someone I have barely met, who is much younger than I, addresses me by my first name. It's moving in too fast. An example is the apartment manager where I live. She immediately started calling me Dorothy, although she is less than half my age. Maybe she thinks that is being democratic. Maybe she thinks I am like some of the other biddies who can't stand growing old, and enjoy being first-names. Well, that's their cookie, not mine! I have earned the title of Mrs. Smith, and when I want to be Dorothy, I'll tell friends so. Accent on FRIENDS!

The height of rudeness is for a nurse in a doctor's office to call out to an elderly person, "Dorothy you're next!" Yet it's done all the time.
And for a clerk in a store to call me "Young lady," or refer to a group of us as "You girls"—Yeacht! Many of my 60ish friends agree. Would you please alert younger people to the facts of older life?—MRS. SMITH
Dear Mrs. Smith: Certainly will!

Look, youngsters, unless your elders so indicate, don't first-name them until you know them better. Too often it sounds as if you're giving them a condescending pat on the head—and some like it not!—H.
(P. S. of course this doesn't hold for advice columnists.)

Mrs. Arthur Strech went to Waukegan, Ill., Sunday to be with her mother when she had surgery on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. B.M. Hazzard went to Shreveport Sunday to see Mr. and Mrs. James Hazzard and family.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Viewers who enjoy actuality programs more than television's standard evening entertainment had a break Tuesday night. All they needed was patience between the two CBS hours.

The evening opened with "The Mystery of Animal Behavior," the first of this season's four programs made with cooperation by the National Geographic Society. It consisted of remarkable color film shot throughout the world by zoologist-camera-man Heinz Sielmann, a German student of animal behavior.

Among the fish, birds and animals shown in their natural habitats were two Black Forest woodpeckers rearing their young, and sea otters in the Bering Sea rollicking in icy waters, contentedly feasting while floating and smashing clam shells with a stone.

Sequences of duels in mating season by American Elk, big horn sheep of the Rocky Mountains, and Australian kangaroos depicted ritual battles that scientists believe insure survival of the fittest.

The series has a nice, authoritative style of its own and an intelligent commentary.

Ninety minutes of situation comedy and variety later came CBS's bi-monthly "60 Minutes."

Mike Wallace ad a camera crew visited the Marine Corps brig at Camp Pendleton, Calif., checking charges of some brutality in the treatment of prisoners—most of whom were charged with being AWOL.

Unable to talk to current inmates, Wallace interviewed some former prisoners—who told of their experiences—being beaten, punched or, as one young man explained, signing a false confession after a beating.

Wallace interviewed several officers who talked of improved conditions and slid over the charges. Wallace concluded by stating he believed that improvements were real. The feature suffered considerably because Wallace's accusing narration sounded more sensational than anything seen or heard.

The producers failed to solve the mystery of the disappearance of Donald Crowhurst from his small sailing ship last summer. He left behind the ship's logs, voice recordings and film, all of which the program used in most engaging fashion and which serve to heighten the mystery. The British engineer was on a solo voyage around the world but spent almost all his time on a zigzag course around the Atlantic. Films he took were dramatic and in his colorful descriptions of the sea and man's reactions to it, he sounded like a disturbed poet.

The program concluded with Wallace interviewing Sen. Eugene McCarthy who left his future in politics open but pointedly did not remove himself from any part of the arena.

Questions, Answers About Social Security

By KEN HARGE

If you have any questions regarding social security, I invite your letters. Just send them to Social Security, Ken Harge, Box 1319, Texarkana, Texas 75501. Your name will be printed in the Hope STAR unless you request that it be withheld.

Q. I am a woman who never married and I have never worked under social security. A friend told me that since I won't be 65 until 1970, I will need some work credit under social security to enroll in Medicare. Is this correct?

A. Partly. You will be able to enroll for the supplementary medical insurance (doctor bill insurance) whether or not you have ever worked under social security. However, anyone who becomes 65 this year, or later, will need some work under social security to qualify for hospital insurance or be entitled to a monthly railroad retirement or social security payment. In your case, since you will be 65 in 1970, you will need 2 1/2 years work under social security to qualify for hospital insurance.

Q. I am a railroad annuitant and enrolled for Medicare with the Railroad Board. I later qualified for social security payments and the Medicare premiums are being deducted from both my railroad and social security checks. Is this correct?

A. No. Since you qualified for your railroad pension first, the deductions for Medicare premiums should come out of your railroad check only. Please get in touch with us so we can make the necessary corrections and send you a refund.

Q. I understand the retirement age for women is 60. Can my wife apply for benefits on my account when she becomes 60 next month?

A. No. A widow is eligible for widow's benefits at age 60, but the retirement age for a woman worker or the wife of a beneficiary is still 62.

Q. My mother requires a

Mothers of Mongoloids Organizing

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An organization of mothers of Mongoloid children has mounted a national letter-writing campaign, protesting what it terms a threat to a promising research program against Mongolism.

The program is reported to be the only one of its type still in existence in the United States.

Mrs. Donald G. Wyman of Alexandria, Va., mother of a 4-year-old Mongoloid boy, and spokesman for the organization of 25 Washington-area mothers called "Mothers of Young Mongoloids," is leading the fight.

Mrs. Wyman said in an interview her group is concerned that a "proposed cut" in appropriations to the government's National Institute of Neurological Diseases and Blindness. She said this would "effectively close down" a human experimental drug program against at least one aspect of Mongolism being conducted by Dr. Mary Coleman of Children's Hospital in Washington.

special nurse during her illness, will this be covered by Medicare?

A. Ordinary nursing services which are received while a patient in a hospital are covered by the hospital insurance. However, we assume that you are referring to a private duty nurse, and this expense is not covered.

Q. I am covered by Medicare and am regularly employed. If I am hurt on the job, my medical expenses will be paid under the Workman's Compensation law. Will Medicare also pay?

A. No, because this would be a duplication of payment.

Key College Games Are on Tap Sat.

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets and Baltimore Orioles aren't the only ones involved in important action this week. College football has some key games on tap Saturday.

For openers, there's third-ranked Southern California against No. 11 Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. Then there's fifth-ranked Penn State at Syracuse, with the winner a good bet to capture the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of Eastern supremacy.

Seventh-ranked Tennessee and Alabama, No. 20, have a crucial Southeastern Conference clash at Birmingham, California faces eighth-ranked UCLA in Los Angeles with the loser becoming a Rose Bowl spectator and Michigan, ranked 13th, is at Michigan State and very little has to be at stake for that one to be a thriller.

Whoever said quit while you're ahead has our thanks, after a 43-13 week, best of the season. But we can't, since there's still more than a month to go.

Notre Dame over Southern California—Both teams walloped Northwestern, USC by a 48-6 count and Notre Dame by 35-10. But ND's Joe Theismann has come of age as a quarterback while USC's Jimmy Jones and Clarence Davis have never played in the South Bend snake pit.

Penn State over Syracuse—Syracuse ranks sixth nationally in total defense. Penn State doesn't care about the numbers—just about its own defense, which put the clamps on high-powered West Virginia last Saturday.

Alabama over Tennessee—Bama may have been looking ahead during last week's incredible loss to Vanderbilt. Bear Bryant will make sure the Crimson Tide is looking in the right direction this time.

UCLA over California—Dennis Dummit, Greg Jones and Mickey Cureton lead Bruins' potent offense past Cal's sticky defense.

Michigan over Michigan State—Wolverines smell roses, the Pasadena, Calif., team, after last week's 30-21 upset of Purdue.

Ohio State over Minnesota—Merrily werollalong.

Louisiana State over Kentucky—Kentucky only wins on alternate weekends, and this isn't one of them.

Florida over North Carolina—Gators have only beaten the Tar Heels once, but super sophs John Reeves and Carlos Alvarez don't know that.

Oklahoma over Colorado—Sooners lost a tough one to Texas, and Colorado will pay for it.

Missouri over Oklahoma State—State had last week off, and this will be an off-week, too.

Post Keeps Rushing Lead in the AFL

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Post, the speedy San Diego Chargers running back, maintained his American Football League rushing lead, according to league statistics released today.

However Floyd Little of the Denver Broncos, who gained over 100 yards for the third time Sunday, has edged to within eight yards of Post. Little ran for 102 yards and a total of 364 for the year. Post, held to 31 yards in 14 carries, has 372. In the three other major offensive categories the leaders remained unchanged.

Rookie quarterback Greg Cook of Cincinnati is the No. 1 passer with 34 of 61 pass completions good for 601 yards and six touchdowns. Oakland's Fred Biletnikoff leads the pass receivers with 29 catches for 391 yards and four TDs while Jim Turner of the New York Jets has accounted for the most points with 45 on 11 field goals and 12 extra points.

Other leaders are: Paul Maguire, Buffalo, punting, 48.4 average; Butch Byrd, Buffalo, interceptions with six; Mercury Morris, Miami, kickoff returns, with a 33.1 yard average; and Nolan Smith, Kansas City, a 14.2 average on six punt returns.

Can't Vision Mets as Team of Destiny

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles haven't been swept along by the emotional tide of enthusiasm shown by New York fans for their darling Mets.

The Orioles don't look on the Mets as a team of destiny, a bunch of supermen, or even a ball club with momentum.

But, unless they break out of a horrid hitting slump, the favored Orioles could lose the 1969 World Series. After dropping a 5-0 decision Tuesday, Baltimore fell behind 2-1 in the best-of-7 series.

"When I walk past them, I hear them breathing," Baltimore right fielder Frank Robinson said. "So I know they're human. When one of them takes off and flies, I'll believe that superman stuff."

"Team of destiny?" Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said after Tuesday's game. "It wasn't destiny today. It was Agee's good legs and fielding ability. It was the good arms of Gentry and Ryan."

Tommie Agee, who belted a home run leading off the New York Mets first inning, made two spectacular catches in the outfield to prevent five Baltimore runs from scoring.

Rookie Gary Gentry, a winner in his first World Series start, allowed Baltimore three singles in 6 2-3 innings, and Nolan Ryan yielded an infield single in relief the rest of the way.

The Orioles left 11 runners stranded, twice being retired with the bases loaded, as their team batting average for three games dipped to .133. They have had six singles in the last 22 innings.

The Mets, with only a .194 average, have made the most of their few hits and have come up with the big defensive plays to throttle Baltimore threats.

Agee snared a drive to deep left center by Ellie Hendricks with two on and two out in the fourth inning Tuesday, and made a diving catch of Paul Blair's bases-loaded five with two outs in the seventh.

"Our players aren't down on themselves," Robinson said. "I can see that. They aren't hanging their heads, feeling sorry for themselves, cursing the other team and hollering 'lucky guys.' We're just giving credit to the Mets for good plays."

"They don't have momentum," Weaver said in answer to a question about the Mets' comeback after losing the opening game.

"If (Mike) Cuellar one-hits them tomorrow and we score one run on two hits and win, does that give us the momentum?" he asked rhetorically.

"We've snapped out of hitting slumps before," Weaver said. "We had two tough games in the playoffs against Minnesota, and then we got 18 hits in the third game."

Cuellar, the left-hander who won the first game 4-1 on a six-hitter, will again be matched against Tom Seaver. Cuellar won 23 games during the regular season and Seaver won 25.

"Good pitching is tough, no matter who you are," Weaver said. "But I think we'll do better these pitchers the second time around. We have some good hitters who are due to break loose."

Weaver, who has maintained all along that he respected the underdog Mets, said he has had only two surprises so far.

"The biggest surprise," he said, "is that Gentry is a much better pitcher than I had been told."

"I also expected more excitement out of the New York fans. I thought they were rather subdued."

Michigan End Is Lineman of the Week

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Preseason promotion billed Michigan tight end Jim Mandich as a prime All-American candidate.

Weakened by flu, the senior captain of the Wolverines played a poor opening game. The next week he got better and the week after that stayed about the same.

But last Saturday Mandich lived up to his billing when he caught 10 of Don Moorhead's passes for 156 yards and a touchdown as Michigan upset ninth-ranked Purdue 31-20.

He also set up two other touchdowns and a field goal with his sure-handed receiving, earning him Lineman of the Week honors from the Associated Press.

"It's a great honor," he said. "But most of my interest now lies with the team. We're well on our way to a Big Ten championship."

Those are confident words for a member of a team that has only played one Big Ten game this season. But the feeling at Ann Arbor is that the Purdue game could have been the biggest hurdle of the season towards a Rose Bowl trip.

"As far as pass receiving goes, I would have to say Saturday was my best game so far, although I have blocked better," Mandich said, admitting fine play and criticizing himself in the same breath.

He said he felt the game untracked him and the team and gave "a tremendous boost essential for any Big Ten championship hopes."

The dark-haired economics major, who is a look-alike to all time great All-American half-back Willie Heston of Michigan (1901-1904), has grabbed 20 passes this season for 262 yards and two touchdowns. Purdue coach Jack Mollenkopf summed up the story of his team's first loss this way: "We couldn't stop Mandich from catching the ball."

"He's a very reliable receiver," said U-M coach Bo Schembechler, who is not one to heap individual praise.

The record book proves Schembechler right. Mandich ranks second in career receptions at Michigan with 89 to Jack Clancy's 132 and third in yardage with 1,094, although he should pass Lowell Perry for second place in a week or two.

The 6-foot-3, 220-pound Mandich, who is from Solon, Ohio, threw the football into the stands after his TD Saturday and the Wolverines drew 15-yard penalty as a result.

"I can't forgive him for throwing the ball in the stands," deadpanned Schembechler. "But," he added, breaking into a grin, "I love that guy."

Basketball on Scene in Conference

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Play for keeps doesn't start until Dec. 1, but Southwest Conference basketball teams will edge into the sporting scene today with the opening of fall workouts.

Texas A&M's defending SWC champions will be trying to fill three big gaps—the losses to graduation of Ronnie Peret, Billy Bob Barnett and Sonny Benefield.

Coach Shelby Metcalf will have senior forward Mike Heilmann and seven-foot center Steve Niles returning. Other lettermen reporting include seniors Bill Brown and Oliver Biggers, juniors, Bill Cooksey, and Roddy McAlpine.

Second-place Baylor returns two-time All-SWC forward Tommy Bowman and the No. 4 scorer in the conference last year, Larry Gatewood.

Baylor's 10-4 record last year was second to A&M's 12-2. Along with David Sibley, Baylor has outstanding potential.

Only five of last year's top 12 scorers return. Besides the Baylor duo there's Gene Phillips of SMU (the leader at 21.3 points), Wayne Doyal of Texas (9th) and Tom Myer of Rice (12th).

Bob Bass will have 10 letter winners, including four starters, on hand for his first season at Texas Tech. Steve Hardin is the only senior in the group.

Besides Doyal, Texas returns four lettermen. However, the Longhorns draw off an outstanding 1969 freshman team and expect help from Lynn Howden and Terry Mullins.

Texas Christian returns guards Rick Wittenbracker and Jeff Harp, along with forwards Doug Boyd and Norm Wintermeyer. TCU's Johnny Swain also looks for help from 6-foot-7 Steve Spelya a star at Bakersfield, Calif., Junior College last season.

Arkansas boasts promising newcomers Almer Lee, who averaged 25 points in junior college last year, and Vernon Murphy, who set a school freshman scoring record. James Eldredge, Arkansas boasts promising newcomers Almer Lee, who averaged 25 points in junior college last year, and Vernon Murphy, who set a school freshman scoring record. James Eldredge, Rick Tanneberger and Robert McKenzie return.

Rice has four regulars off last year's 6-8 club, plus hot-shooting freshmen Ted Melady and Don Snyder.

Sturgeon Caught in File Net

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — End zone tickets, usually sold for $6, will be available at $1 each to high school and junior high school students at the Arkansas Razorbacks' remaining Little Rock games this year.

Free-running Dog Ban Is Lifted by G&F

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — The state Game and Fish Commission voted 4-2 Tuesday to end its ban on free running dogs.

The vote was part of a compromise which included an agreement by the Arkansas Fox Hunters Association to drop a suit challenging the power of the commission.

The suit is pending before the state Supreme Court. The association has been one of the fiercest opponents of the regulation against free running dogs.

The commission also agreed to provide $155,000 for a four-year study to determine the status of free running dogs.

The 4-2 vote came on a motion by Commissioner Joe D. Scott of Nashville. Voting for it were Scott, Newt Halley of Rogers, Ed Gordon of Morrilton and Ralph Griffin of Jonesboro.

Those who voted against the motion were Tom Pugh of Portland and Raymond Farris of Bliscoe. Commissioner Lloyd McCollum of Stuttgart abstained.

McCollum and Farris tried to persuade the other commissioners to delay a vote until those who approve of the regulation had a chance to give their side of the issue.

Razorbacks Work Out in Sweat Clothes

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Coach Frank Broyles put the Arkansas Razorbacks through a 90-minute workout in sweat clothes Tuesday and said they would work in pads the rest of this week.

Arkansas doesn't play this weekend. Its next game will be Oct. 25 in Little Rock against Wichita State, which has a 1-4 record.

Broyles said Dick Bumpas, a defensive tackle, and Cliff Powell, a middle linebacker, looked good in films of Arkansas' 21-7 victory over Baylor last week.

Bumpas made 2 tackles and six assists and Powell made 15 tackles and six assists.

Hope Hasn't Beat Cards in 3 Years

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

About 48 hours from now, Hope and Camden Fairview will clash once more on the football gridiron. The stakes are considerable in 4-AA's Western Division for 1969 and statewide Class AA ranking, and nerves are already taut with anticipation.

The Fairview Cardinals are favored with their 4-1 record and an average of five touchdowns a game, and it has been three years since Hope has beaten the Cards.

Physically, both teams rank in a tie as the largest in 4-AA, with 190-pounders and up abounding in both camps.

You would think that Hope would be keyed to a pitch of Grove 7; Warren 13, Smackover fever intensely, but so far this 0; Camden 27, Malvern 16; Fairview has been not so. However, that view 48, Camden Lincoln 0; Arkadelphia 25, Magnolia 8; Crossett 10, Bastrop (La.) 0.

With the attitude and determination to avoid mental letdown, the Bobcats cannot lose, Malvern; Arkadelphia at Smackover; Warren and Magnolia, proud of one of the state's top kicking games and an overflow of depth at the running-back positions.

Artis Martin got most of the headlines earlier as the workhorse, but fellow senior Thomas Lloyd has applied his speed well in accounting for four TD's this fall. Gary Jones has been commended all season for his fine blocking and power running, and Isaiah Hendrix is gaining confidence quickly after a touchdown against Oak Grove and a 92-yard scoring kickoff return Monday night for the "B" squad.

Then there are the pair of sophomores who also start on defense, Ray Wheelington and Rusty Quillin. Ray gained 191 yards rushing in an earlier "B" game and has been returning kicks well, but Rusty has to be the surprise runner.

A lineman for the Bobkittens last fall, Quillin has turned into a smart ball-carrier with a sense for daylight which got him 87 yards and two six-pointers against Oak Grove and 110 yards on the ground in one half for the "B" squad Monday.

Up in the line, the first-teamers have moved the opponent out when the big play or drive was imperative, and the reserves are making much progress with their added experience on Friday nights in addition to the Monday "B" games.

Last year this writer lauded both Hope and Fairview for their tremendous kicking and kick returning and coverages, and what resulted was a night of short punts and fumbles.

Once more this time the two schools boast fine kickers (the same pair, in fact) in the Cardinals' Jimmy Harris and Bobcat David Still, and you have to think that their performing will share a big load on the outcome along with the defensive performing of both teams.

As injuries go, Hope defensive tackles Jim Alford and Lynn Norton should be able to start. Norton, with a broken thumb, will play in a plastic cast while Alford's recurring ankle problem is much better this week.

Fairview lost their best blocking back, three-year starter Perry Johnson, to appendicitis, but Harris is an All-State fullback that can carry the load well.

In an early analysis, both Hope and Fairview hope to be able to move the ball on the ground against a pair of mighty stingy defenses. As passing goes, the Cards' secondary won't match the Bobcats', but QB Lewis Pryor can scramble out of the pocket and be dangerous for the Redbirds if his receivers are covered.

Tomorrow night sends the Year-

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommie Agee's circus catches plucked the Baltimore Orioles' feathers in the third game of the World Series. Little Bud Harrelson has been picking their pockets from the start.

"We're playing our game now — good defense," said Harrelson, New York's sure-handed shortstop, after the Mets trimmed the Orioles 5-0 Tuesday for a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series.

Harrelson handled eight chances flawlessly as the Mets stymied Baltimore's big hitters again with solid defensive baseball. He personally disposed of the Orioles in the fifth inning by gobbling up three tricky ground balls and tossing out the side.

"They tell me that ties a World Series record... me and six million other guys," he joked.

"We didn't play our best in the first game," the 150-pound bantam continued. "We did in the second game and again today. Every time they got something started, we came up with the big plays and took them out of it."

"If Agee doesn't make the first catch they've got two runs. If he doesn't make the second one, it's three more and a whole different ball game."

"They did the same thing to us in the first game at Baltimore. But I'm sure we're making them believe in us now."

Harrelson has had 15 chances without an error in the first three Series games. He also has poked a pair of hits in seven trips to the plate, including a two-out single in the second inning Tuesday that gave pitcher Gary Gentry the opportunity to double home two big runs.

The Mets' shortstop is involved in the game's lone rhymer as well. On first base with a walk in the fourth, he broke for second when Oriole pitcher Jim Palmer's pickoff throw went astray.

Harrelson was awarded second on an interference call against Powell, bringing Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver onto the field for a brief, but heated, argument with the umpires.

"I guess Powell had reached around for the ball and I was going the same way," said Harrelson, who gave away five inches and about 90 pounds in his comic wrestling match with the hulking Baltimore slugger.

"He was a big octopus. I felt like a baby kangaroo in a pocket."

"It was a mismatch," commented Mets skipper Gil Hodges.

Hodges was optimistic about the odds which were stacked against them after the Orioles beat 25-game winner Tom Seaver in the Series opener.

"We're in good shape," he said. "The next step is winning the third one."

Seaver was set to start again today and Jerry Koosman, the second-game winner, will follow on Thursday. "I couldn't plan for anything better," Hodges said.

"The left-handers got us into the Series by beating Atlanta," said Kranepool, who smacked an eight-inning homer for New York's last run. "It looks like the right-handers have got to carry us in the Series."

"This could be the only one I play. I might get one more chance if there's a sixth game. But what's the difference as long as we win it?"

"Winning is everything," added Gentry, who picked up the victory but needed seventh-inning relief help from Nolan Ryan. "I might have felt bad about coming out for a while, but you watch us play all year and see the moves Gil makes, and you know they're never wrong."

Cleon Jones, who batted .340 during the regular season but has had just one hit—a first-inning single in the opener—in 12 Series at-bats, wasn't complaining either.

"I hope my turn comes tomorrow," he said. "But as long as we win I don't need a turn. If we win it, I don't care if I get another hit."

The first known American-born composer of music was Francis Hopkinson, a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Orioles Still Believe They Will Win

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite a suspicion to the contrary, the Baltimore Orioles continue to deny that the New York Mets and the man upstairs have formed some sort of strange alliance.

"You know what somebody told me?" coach Joe Pignatano asked with a laugh in the Mets dressing room after the club nicknamed the Amazing's had been just that in a 5-0 victory over the Orioles Tuesday that gave them the lead in the World Series.

And then he answered his own question: "God is a Met fan."

"We," added Manager Gil Hodges, "certainly picked up some more non-believers with this one."

But they didn't pick up any of the Orioles. "They're not super men," said outfielder Frank Robinson. "They're flesh and blood. The writers want to make it look like somebody's looking over them, but there's nothing to that."

"They tell me," said Manager Earl Weaver, "that man up there likes us all the same. Magic? They don't have any magic. They're just good."

"Heck, if Agee has an ingrown toe nail we got five runs."

Agee is Tommie Agee, the Mets center fielder. He didn't give an ingrown toe nail Tuesday, but he did have a leadoff homer that gave the Mets a lead they never relinquished and two spine-tingling catches that preserved the victory.

The catches and shutout pitching by Gary Gentry and Nolan Ryan pulled the Mets into a 2-1 lead after three games of the World Series and gave them a substantial edge the odds-makers and experts never expected.

With two more games in New York, today and Thursday, and with their aces—Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman—lined up to handle the pitching, they have put themselves in position to complete the miracle that has seen them move from ninth place last year to the top this season.

"Do we have our backs against the wall? No," said Robinson. "When they need only one more than we have our backs against the wall. They have only the advantage of being one-up just the same as when we won the first game."

"But it certainly gives them an edge. It was a pivotal game. They got by it. They're in good shape."

Badgers Only Unbeaten Dist. Team

The Arkadelphia Badgers are the only undefeated team in Div. 4AA football after six weeks of the schedule and their most serious opposition for the balance of the season is Fairview on Nov. 7th and Hope on Nov. 21st.

The Badgers further proved their claim to a top ranking in Class AA ball by defeating Magnolia 25 to 8 this past week.

In 4AA West Hope leads with 1-0 (Arkadelphia has not played a West conference game) but also faces a big test this week when they play at Fairview.

In other action Arkadelphia plays at Smackover; Lincoln plays at Malvern; Magnolia and Warren open.

Other results from last week: Fairview 48 Lincoln 0; Camden 27 Malvern 16; Hope 47 NLR Oak Grove 7; Warren 13 Smackover 0.

Highlights of last week's play included: Hope's Ronny Brown, a guard, scored one touchdown, two field goals, and five extra points for total of 17 points; Fairview's Lewis Pryor scored on a 96-yard kickoff return and a 55 yard punt return plus a three yard sneak for 18 points; Camden's Bill Jordan had a 70-yard scoring run from scrimmage, Arkadelphia had 176 yards passing and 175 yards rushing in a balanced attack against Magnolia.

Jimmy Harris of Fairview increased his lead in the individual scoring leadership. He now has 59 points on seven td's and 17 extra points. Thomas Dancy of Camden moved into second place with 46 points.

Harris of Fairview and Brown of Hope now share the lead in the PAT department with 17 each. Brown takes the field goal lead with two.

Camden has taken over the team rushing leadership with 1,266 yards and Hope is second with 1,235. Fairview continues to lead in Defense against rushing allowing only 269 yards. Arkadelphia leads in Pass Offense with 938 yards and Magnolia on defense against passes with 354 yds. Arkadelphia leads in team scoring with 185 points and Hope gle by Dave May around a pair of walks loaded the bases with two out and put Ryan in jeopardy. But he ended it by getting blair on three straight strikes.

That sends the teams back to Saturday's opening game pitchers for today's fourth game. Seaver starting against Mike Cuellar, Cuellar won that one 4-1.

After that game, no one was talking about someone up there liking the Mets.

But now they are again.

Knicks Out to Ruin Another Coaches' Debut

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK (AP) — Having spoiled one National Basketball Association coaching debut Tuesday night, the New York Knicks are out to ruin another tonight. This one may be more difficult.

The Knicks opened the NBA's 24th season with an easy 126-101 victory over Lennie Wilkens' Seattle SuperSonics. Tonight they go up against the Royals in Cincinnati, with Bob C Cousy, ex-Boston Celtic great and later coach at Boston College, handling a pro team for the first time.

The Knicks trailed Seattle only in the opening minutes as Bob Rule, who finished with 27, scored the Sonics' first 11 points. But Bill Bradley and Willis Reed shot the Knicks into the lead and Reed and Dick Barnett paced a 22-6 burst that opened a 95-63 spread late in the third period.

Reed finished with 28 points, Barnett 22, Walt Frazier 16, Dave DeBusschere 13 and Bradley and Mike Riordan 12 apiece.

The game also marked the return of New York's Dave Stallworth, who suffered a heart attack two years ago. Stallworth scored eight points and grabbed six rebounds.

The Knicks, among the favored teams in the NBA's Eastern Division, discounted their easy triumph as a true measure of their ability.

"Ask me how good we are after we've played 81 games, not one," said Bradley. "Playing Oscar Robertson and Cincinnati will be a good graduated test. We must consider that Cincinnati is a better team than Seattle."

Captain Reed echoed Bradley. "We played very well but the Cincinnati game will tell us more," he said. "I don't mean to belittle Seattle, but Cincinnati is a better organized team and always gives us trouble."

Knicks Out to Ruin Another Coaches' Debut

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK (AP) — Having spoiled one National Basketball Association coaching debut Tuesday night, the New York Knicks are out to ruin another tonight. This one may be more difficult.

The Knicks opened the NBA's 24th season with an easy 126-101 victory over Lennie Wilkens' Seattle SuperSonics. Tonight they go up against the Royals in Cincinnati, with Bob C Cousy, ex-Boston Celtic great and later coach at Boston College, handling a pro team for the first time.

The Knicks trailed Seattle only in the opening minutes as Bob Rule, who finished with 27, scored the Sonics' first 11 points. But Bill Bradley and Willis Reed shot the Knicks into the lead and Reed and Dick Barnett paced a 22-6 burst that opened a 95-63 spread late in the third period.

Reed finished with 28 points, Barnett 22, Walt Frazier 16, Dave DeBusschere 13 and Bradley and Mike Riordan 12 apiece.

The game also marked the return of New York's Dave Stallworth, who suffered a heart attack two years ago. Stallworth scored eight points and grabbed six rebounds.

The Knicks, among the favored teams in the NBA's Eastern Division, discounted their easy triumph as a true measure of their ability.

"Ask me how good we are after we've played 81 games, not one," said Bradley. "Playing Oscar Robertson and Cincinnati will be a good graduated test. We must consider that Cincinnati is a better team than Seattle."

Captain Reed echoed Bradley. "We played very well but the Cincinnati game will tell us more," he said. "I don't mean to belittle Seattle, but Cincinnati is a better organized team and always gives us trouble."

Key College Games Are on Tap Sat.

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets and Baltimore Orioles aren't the only ones involved in important action this week. College football has some key games on tap Saturday.

For openers, there's third-ranked Southern California against No. 11 Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. Then there's fifth-ranked Penn State at Syracuse, with the winner a good bet to capture the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of Eastern supremacy.

Seventh-ranked Tennessee and Alabama, No. 20, have a crucial Southeastern Conference clash at Birmingham, California faces eighth-ranked UCLA in Los Angeles with the loser becoming a Rose Bowl spectator and Michigan, ranked 13th, is at Michigan State and very little has to be at stake for that one to be a thriller.

Whoever said quit while you're ahead has our thanks, after a 43-13 week, best of the season. But we can't, since there's still more than a month to go.

Notre Dame over Southern California—Both teams walked Northwestern, USC by a 45-6 count and Notre Dame by 38-10. But ND's Joe Theismann has come of age as a quarterback while USC's Jimmy Jones and Clarence Davis have never played in the South Bend snake pit.

Penn State over Syracuse—Syracuse ranks sixth nationally in total defense. Penn State doesn't care about the numbers—just about its own defense, which put the clamps on high-powered West Virginia last Saturday.

Alabama over Tennessee—Bama may have been looking ahead during last week's incredible loss to Vanderbilt. Bear Bryant will make sure the Crimson Tide is looking in the right direction this time.

UCLA over California—Dennis Dummit, Greg Jones and Mickey Cureton lead Bruins' potent offense past Cal's sticky defense.

Michigan over Michigan State—Wolverines smell roses, the Pasadena, Calif., kind, after last week's 30-21 upset of Purdue.

Ohio State over Minnesota—Merrily we roll along.

Louisiana State over Kentucky—Kentucky only wins on alternate weekends, and this isn't one of them.

Florida over North Carolina—Gators have only beaten the Tar Heels once, but super sophs John Reaves and Carlos Alvarez don't know that.

Oklahoma over Colorado—Sooners lost a tough one to Texas, and Colorado will pay for it.

Missouri over Oklahoma State—State had last week off, and this will be an off-week, too.

Post Keeps Rushing Lead in the AFL

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Post, the speedy San Diego Chargers running back, maintained his American Football League rushing lead, according to league statistics released today.

However, Floyd Little of the Denver Broncos, who gained over 100 yards for the third time Sunday, has edged to within eight yards of Post. Little ran for 102 yards and a total of 364 for the year. Post, held to 31 yards in 14 carries, has 372.

In the three other major offensive categories the leaders remained unchanged. Rookie quarterback Greg Cook of Cincinnati is the No. 1 passer with 34 of 61 pass completions good for 601 yards and six touchdowns. Oakland's Fred Biletnikoff leads the pass receivers with 29 catches for 391 yards and four TDs while Jim Turner of the New York Jets has accounted for the most points with 45 on 11 field goals and 12 extra points.

Other leaders are: Paul Maguire, Buffalo, punting, 48.4 average; Butch Byrd, Buffalo, interceptions with six; Mercury Morris, Miami, kickoff returns, with a 33.1 yard average; and Nolan Smith, Kansas City, a 14.2 average on six punt returns.

Can't Vision Mets as Team of Destiny

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles haven't been swept along by the emotional tide of enthusiasm shown by New York fans for their darling Mets.

The Orioles don't look on the Mets as a team of destiny, a bunch of supermen, or even a ball club with momentum.

But, unless they break out of a horrid hitting slump, the favored Orioles could lose the 1969 World Series. After dropping a 5-0 decision Tuesday, Baltimore fell behind 2-1 in the best-of-7 series.

"When I walk past them, I hear them breathing," Baltimore right fielder Frank Robinson said. "So I know they're human. When one of them takes off and flies, I'll believe that superman stuff."

"Team of destiny?" Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said after Tuesday's game. "It wasn't destiny today. It was Agee's good legs and fielding ability. It was the good arms of Gentry and Ryan."

Tommye Agee, who belted a home run leading off the New York Mets first inning, made two spectacular catches in the outfield to prevent five Baltimore runs from scoring.

Rookie Gary Gentry, a winner in his first World Series start, allowed Baltimore three singles in 6 2-3 innings, and Nolan Ryan yielded an infield single in relief the rest of the way.

The Orioles left 11 runners stranded, twice being retired with the bases loaded, as their team batting average for three games dipped to .133. They have had six singles in the last 22 innings.

The Mets, with only a .194 average, have made the most of their few hits and have come up with the big defensive plays to throttle Baltimore threats.

Agee snared a drive to deep left center by Ellie Hendricks with two on and two out in the fourth inning Tuesday, and made a diving catch of Paul Blair's bases-loaded five with two outs in the seventh.

"Our players aren't down on themselves," Robinson said. "I can see that. They aren't hanging their heads, feeling sorry for themselves, cursing the other team and hollering 'lucky guys.' We're just giving credit to the Mets for good plays."

"They don't have momentum," Weaver said in answer to a question about the Mets' comeback after losing the opening game.

"If (Mike) Cuellar one-hits them tomorrow and we score one run on two hits and win, does that give us the momentum?" he asked rhetorically.

"We've snapped out of hitting slumps before," Weaver said. "We had two tough games in the playoffs against Minnesota, and then we got 18 hits in the third game."

Cuellar, the left-hander who won the first game 4-1 on a six-hitter, will again be matched against Tom Seaver. Cuellar won 23 games during the regular season and Seaver won 25.

"Good pitching is tough, no matter who you are," Weaver said. "But I think we'll do better these pitchers the second time around. We have some good hitters who are due to break loose."

Weaver, who has maintained all along that he respected the underdog Mets, said he has had only two surprises so far.

"The biggest surprise," he said, "is that Gentry is a much better pitcher than I had been told."

"I also expected more excitement out of the New York fans. I thought they were rather subdued."

Michigan Ends Is Lineman of the Week

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Preseason promotion billed Michigan tight end Jim Mandich as a prime All-American candidate.

Weakened by flu, the senior captain of the Wolverines played a poor opening game. The next week he got better and the week after that stayed about the same.

But last Saturday Mandich lived up to his billing when he caught 10 of Don Moorhead's passes for 156 yards and a touchdown as Michigan upset ninth-ranked Purdue 31-20.

He also set up two other touchdowns and a field goal with his sure-handed receiving, earning him Lineman of the Week honors from the Associated Press.

"It's a great honor," he said. "But most of my interest now lies with the team. We're well on our way to a Big Ten championship."

Those are confident words for a member of a team that has only played one Big Ten game this season. But the feeling at Ann Arbor is that the Purdue game could have been the biggest hurdle of the season towards a Rose Bowl trip.

"As far as pass receiving goes, I would have to say Saturday was my best game so far, although I have blocked better," Mandich said, admitting fine play and criticizing himself in the same breath.

He said he felt the game untracked him and the team and gave "a tremendous boost essential for any Big Ten championship hopes."

The dark-haired economics major, who is a look-alike to all time great All-American halfback Willie Heston of Michigan (1901-1904), has grabbed 20 passes this season for 262 yards and two touchdowns. Purdue coach Jack Mollenkopf summed up the story of his team's first loss this way: "We couldn't stop Mandich from catching the ball."

"He's a very reliable receiver," said U-M coach Bo Schembechler, who is not one to heap individual praise.

The record book proves Schembechler right. Mandich ranks second in career receptions at Michigan with 89 to Jack Clancy's 132 and third in yardage with 1,094, although he should pass Lowell Perry for second place in a week or two.

The 6-foot-3, 220-pound Mandich, who is from Solon, Ohio, threw the football into the stands after his TD Saturday and the Wolverines drew 15-yard penalty as a result.

"I can't forgive him for throwing the ball in the stands," deadpanned Schembechler. "But," he added, breaking into a grin, "I love that guy."

Basketball on Scene in Conference

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Play for keeps doesn't start until Dec. 1, but Southwest Conference basketball teams will edge into the sporting scene today with the opening of fall workouts.

Texas A&M's defending SWC champions will be trying to fill three big gaps—the losses to graduation of Ronnie Peret, Billy Bob Barnett and Sonny Benefield.

Coach Shelby Metcalf will have senior forward Mike Heltmann and seven-foot center Steve Niles returning. Other lettermen reporting include seniors Bill Brown and Oliver Biggers, juniors, Bill Cooksey, and Roddy McAlpine.

Second-place Baylor returns two-time All-SWC forward Tommy Bowman and the No. 4 scorer in the conference last year, Larry Gatewood.

Baylor's 10-4 record last year was second to A&M's 12-2.

Along with David Sibley, Baylor has outstanding potential. Only five of last year's top 12 scorers return. Besides the Baylor duo there's Gene Phillips of SMU (the leader at 21.3 points), Wayne Doyal of Texas (9th) and Tom Myer of Rice (12th).

Bob Bass will have 10 letter winners, including four starters, on hand for his first season at Texas Tech. Steve Hardin is the only senior in the group.

Besides Doyal, Texas returns four lettermen. However, the Longhorns draw off an outstanding 1969 freshman team and expect help from Lynn Howden and Terry Mullins.

Texas Christian returns guards Rick Wittenbracker and Jeff Harp, along with forwards Doug Boyd and Norm Wintermeyer. TCU's Johnny Swain also looks for help from 6-foot-7 Steve Spelny a star at Bakersfield, Calif., Junior College last season.

Arkansas boasts promising newcomers Almer Lee, who averaged 25 points in junior college last year, and Vernon Murphy, who set a school freshman scoring record. James Eldredge, Arkansas boasts promising newcomers Almer Lee, who averaged 25 points in junior college last year, and Vernon Murphy, who set a school freshman scoring record. James Eldredge, Rick Tanneberger and Robert McKenzie return.

Rice has four regulars off last year's 6-8 club, plus hot-shooting freshman Ted Melady and Don Snyder.

Sturgeon Caught in File Net

WELLINGTON, Ont. (AP) — Cecil B. Insley and his son, Bruce, caught more than they bargained for when they went fishing for herring. They landed a 154-pound, 7-foot-4 sturgeon in a file net.

Franklin Pierce was the only U.S. president to retain the same Cabinet for four years without any changes.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — End zone tickets, usually sold for $6, will be available at $1 each to high school and junior high school students at the Arkansas Razorbacks' remaining Little Rock games this year.

The games match the fourth-ranked Razorbacks with lowly Wichita State and Southwest Conference for Texas Tech. Ticket Manager Vera Moody announced the price cut plan.

Free-running Dog Ban Is Lifted by G&F

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — The state Game and Fish Commission voted 4-2 Tuesday to end its ban on free running dogs.

The vote was part of a compromise which included an agreement by the Arkansas Fox Hunters Association to drop a suit challenging the power of the commission.

The suit is pending before the state Supreme Court. The association has been one of the fiercest opponents of the regulation against free running dogs.

The commission also agreed to provide $55,000 for a four-year study to determine the status of free running dogs.

The 4-2 vote came on a motion by Commissioner Joe D. Scott of Nashville. Voting for it were Scott, Newt Halley of Rogers, Ed Gordon of Morrilton and Ralph Griffin of Jonesboro.

Those who voted against the motion were Tom Pugh of Portland and Raymond Farris of Blasco. Commissioner Lloyd McCollum of Stuttgart abstained.

McCollum and Farris tried to persuade the other commissioners to delay a vote until those who approve of the regulation had a chance to give their side of the issue.

Razorbacks Work Out in Sweat Clothes

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Coach Frank Broyles put the Arkansas Razorbacks through a 90-minute workout in sweat clothes Tuesday and said they would work in pads the rest of this week.

Arkansas doesn't play this weekend. Its next game will be Oct. 25 in Little Rock against Wichita State, which has a 1-4 record.

Broyles said Dick Bumpas, a defensive tackle, and Cliff Powell, a middle linebacker, looked good in films of Arkansas' 21-7 victory over Baylor last week.

Bumpas made 2 tackles and six assists and Powell made 15 tackles and six assists.

Hope Hasn't Beat Cards in 3 Years

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

About 48 hours from now, Hope and Camden Fairview will clash once more on the football gridiron. The stakes are considerable in 4-AA's Western Division for 1969 and statewide Class AA ranking, and nerves are already taut with anticipation.

The Fairview Cardinals are favored with their 4-1 record and an average of five touchdowns a game, and it has been three years since Hope has beaten the Cards.

Physically, both teams rank in a tie as the largest in 4-AA, with 190-pounders and up abounding in both camps.

You would think that Hope would be keyed to a pitch of fever intensity, but so far this has been not so. However, that will be the requirement Friday night to beat a loaded and cocky Fairview powerhouse.

With the attitude and determination to avoid mental letdown, the Bobcats cannot lose. Coach Ronnie Higgins can be proud of one of the state's top kicking games and an overflow of depth at the running-back positions.

Artis Martin got most of the headlines earlier as the workhorse, but fellow senior Thomas Lloyd has applied his speed well in accounting for four TD's this fall. Gary Jones has been commended all season for his fine blocking and power running, and Isaiah Hendrix is gaining confidence quickly after a touchdown against Oak Grove and a 92-yard scoring kickoff return Monday night for the "B" squad.

Then there are the pair of sophomores who also start on defense, Ray Wheelington and Rusty Quillin. Ray gained 191 yards rushing in an earlier "B" game and has been returning kicks well, but Rusty has to be the surprise runner.

A lineman for the Bobkittens last fall, Quillin has turned into a smart ball-carrier with a sense for daylight which got him 87 yards and two six-pointers against Oak Grove and 110 yards on the ground in one half for the "B" squad Monday.

Up in the line, the first-teamers have moved the opponent out when the big play or drive was imperative, and the reserves are making much progress with their added experience on Friday nights in addition to the Monday "B" games.

Last year this writer lauded both Hope and Fairview for their tremendous kicking and kick returning and coverages, and what resulted was a night of short punts and fumbles.

Once more this time the two schools boast fine kickers (the same pair, in fact) in the Cardinals' Jimmy Harris and Bobcat David Still, and you have to think that their performing will share a big load on the outcome along with the defensive performing of both teams.

As injuries go, Hope defensive tackles Jim Alford and Lynn Norton should be able to start, Norton, with a broken thumb, will play in a plastic cast while Alford's recurring ankle problem is much better this week. Fairview lost their best blocking back, three-year starter Perry Johnson, to appendicitis, but Harris is an All-State fullback that can carry the load well.

In an early analysis, both Hope and Fairview hope to be able to move the ball on the ground against a pair of mighty stingy defenses. As passing goes, the Cards' secondary won't match the Bobcats', but QB Lewis Pryor can scramble out of the pocket and be dangerous for the Redbirds if his receivers are covered.

Tomorrow night sends the Yer-

ger Junior High Bobkittens back into action at Nashville for the Scrappers' Homecoming, and the rivalry has become intense even on this lower level.

Game time is 7:30 p.m., as Coach Gaylord Solomon's Kittens try to pull out of a disappointing two-game losing string which ended hopes of an unbeaten season.

Davidson's Slade College Back of Week

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Gordon Slade will never make them forget basketball at hoop-crazy Davidson College but he's doing his best to erase the memory of a lot of losing football seasons.

Slade, a possible first-round pro football draft choice, passed Davidson to a 37-7 rout of favored Richmond Saturday, completing 32 of 43 passes for 285 yards and two touchdowns while scoring three times himself.

For that performance he was named College Back of the Week by The Associated Press.

It put the Wildcats in the Southern Conference driver's seat and gave them an over-all 4-0 record for the first time since 1927.

"Gordon's not just a great Southern Conference quarterback, he's a great athlete by any college standards," says Coach Homer Smith of the 6-foot-1, 195-pound senior from Evansville, Ind.

"His leadership means as much to us as his throwing arm. And he's got a marvelous throwing arm, quick and strong. But he relies on a good head as much as on his God-given throwing ability."

"In fact, he's so intelligent it's a challenge to me. He's a joy to coach, but it's also difficult to coach a boy that sharp. He remembers everything you've told him before."

Slade had one pass intercepted Saturday and Smith takes the blame for that.

"Gordon had already decided on a play which would have been the right one, but I sent in another pass play and they picked it off," said Smith.

Slade's outstanding game was last year against Connecticut when he completed 30 of 36 passes, including one on which he shifted the ball from his right hand to his left and shoved a completion that way.

Pro football's gain may be baseball's loss. Slade is an outfielder on the Davidson team, beating .429 as a sophomore and .383 last season and being named to the NCAA District 3 team both years.

For this football season, Slade has connected on 84 of 124 passes for 1,010 yards and nine touchdowns.

Agee's Circus Catches Key to Victory

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Tommie Agee's circus catches plucked the Baltimore Orioles' feathers in the third game of the World Series. Little Bud Harrelson has been picking their pockets from the start.

"We're playing our game now — good defense," said Harrelson, New York's sure-handed shortstop, after the Mets trimmed the Orioles 5-0 Tuesday for a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series.

Harrelson handled eight chances flawlessly as the Mets stymied Baltimore's big hitters again with solid defensive baseball. He personally disposed of the Orioles in the fifth inning by gobbling up three tricky ground balls and tossing out the side.

"They tell me that ties a World Series record . . . me and six million other guys," he joked.

"We didn't play our best in the first game," the 150-pound bantam continued. "We did in the second game and again today. Every time they got something started, we came up with the big plays and took them out of it."

"If Agee doesn't make the first catch they've got two runs. If he doesn't make the second one, it's three more and a whole different ball game."

"They did the same thing to us in the first game at Baltimore. But I'm sure we're making them believe in us now."

Harrelson has had 15 chances without an error in the first three Series games. He also has poked a pair of hits in seven trips to the plate, including a two-out single in the second inning Tuesday that gave pitcher Gary Gentry the opportunity to double home two big runs.

The Mets' shortstop was involved in the game's lone ruckus as well. On first base with a walk in the fourth, he broke for second when Oriole pitcher Jim Palmer's pickoff throw went astray.

Harrelson was awarded second on an interference call against Powell, bringing Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver onto the field for a brief, but heated, argument with the umpires.

"I guess Powell had reached around for the ball and I was going the same way," said Harrelson, who gave away five inches and about 90 pounds in his comic wrestling match with the hulking Baltimore slugger.

"He was a big octopus. I felt like a baby kangaroo in a pocket."

"It was a mismatch," commented Mets skipper Gil Hodges.

Hodges was optimistic about the odds which were stacked against them after the Orioles beat 25-game winner Tom Seaver in the Series opener.

"We're in good shape," he said. "The next step is winning the third one."

Seaver was set to start again today and Jerry Koosman, the second-game winner, will follow on Thursday. "I couldn't plan for anything better," Hodges said.

"The left-handers got us into the Series by beating Atlanta," said Kranepool, who smacked an eight-inning homer for New York's last run. "It looks like the right-handers have got to carry us in the Series."

"This could be the only one I play. I might get one more chance if there's a sixth game. But what's the difference as long as we win it?"

"Winning is everything," added Gentry, who picked up the victory but needed seventh-inning relief help from Nolan Ryan. "I might have felt bad about coming out for a while, but you watch us play all year and see the moves Gil makes, and you know they're never wrong."

Cleon Jones, who batted .340 during the regular season but has had just one hit—a first-inning single in the opener—in 12 Series at-bats, wasn't complaining either.

"I hope my turn comes tomorrow," he said. "But as long as we win I don't need a turn. If we win it, I don't care if I get another hit."

Army Shooter Wins 4th Medal
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Army Maj. Lones Wigger, Carter, Mont., won his fourth straight gold medal Monday in the ninth annual U.S. International Shooting Championships by winning the army rifle match.

Wigger, a long time member of the U.S. Army Marksmanship Unit and a veteran of Vietnam, scored 558 points.

Orioles Still Believe They Will Win

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Despite a suspicion to the contrary, the Baltimore Orioles continue to deny that the New York Mets and the man upstairs have formed some sort of strange alliance.

"You know what somebody told me?" coach Joe Pignatano asked with a laugh in the Mets dressing room after the club nicknamed the Amazin' had been just that in a 5-0 victory over the Orioles Tuesday that gave them the lead in the World Series.

And then he answered his own question:
"God is a Met fan."

"We," added Manager Gil Hodges, "certainly picked up some more non-believers with this one."

But they didn't pick up any of the Orioles.
"They're not super men," said outfielder Frank Robinson. "They're flesh and blood. The writers want to make it look like somebody's looking over them, but there's nothing to that."

"They tell me," said Manager Earl Weaver, "that man up there likes us all the same. Magic? They don't have any magic. They're just good."

"Heck, if Agee has an ingrown toe nail we got five runs."

Agee is Tommie Agee, the Mets center fielder. He didn't give an ingrown toe nail Tuesday, but he did have a leadoff homer that gave the Mets a lead they never relinquished and two spine-tingling catches that preserved the victory.

The catches and shutout pitching by Gary Gentry and Nolan Ryan pulled the Mets into a 2-1 lead after three games of the World Series and gave them a substantial edge the odds-makers and experts never expected.

With two more games in New York, today and Thursday, and with their ace—Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman—lined up to handle the pitching, they have put themselves in position to complete the miracle that has seen them move from ninth place last year to the top this season.

"Do we have our backs against the wall? No," said Robinson. "When they need only one more than we have our backs against the wall. They have only the advantage of being one-up just the same as when we won the first game."

"But it certainly gives them an edge. It was a pivotal game. They got by it. They're in good shape."

"It's only one win in the whole series," said Weaver. "The fourth win is the most important. If you get the fourth win it makes the other three important. If you win the fourth it wipes out all the losses."

"Who knows—(Tuesday's victory) might not be important when it's all over."

When it's all over—no matter who wins—there are two things that happened in the third game that will never be wiped out—Agee's catches, already ranked among the best made in the entire history of the series along with those by Al Glavito and Sandy Amoros.

The first was made in the fourth inning with two men on when Agee chased a drive by Ellie Hendricks to the wall in left center, spearing it one-handed in the web of his glove before grazing up against the wall.

The second was made in the seventh inning with the bases loaded when Agee had to go the other way into right center for a liner by Paul Blair, diving for it one-handed at the last second as the wind kept carrying the ball away from him.

Although the second catch was more dramatic because of the acrobatics involved, both Agee and Hodges agreed the first was the better of the two.

"It was," said Hodges, "better than Glavito's and as good as Amoros."

Hodges witnessed both those catches also.
He was a young catcher with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947 when Glavito made a leaping one-handed catch of Joe DiMaggio's bid for a homer in the sixth game.

In 1955, Hodges was playing first base for the Dodgers when Amoros made a game-saving catch of a drive by Yogi Berra in the seventh game, racing toward the left field foul line with his glove hand extended to grab the drive as the Dodgers won their first Series.

While ranking his first catch over his second, Agee also ranked them over his homer.

"The homer meant only one run," he said simply. "The catches saved more than that."

The homer came off Jim Palmer, who gave up two more runs in the second inning when Gentry doubled after a walk to Jerry Grote and a single by Bud Harrelson.

The Mets pecked way for a sixth inning run on Ken Boswell's single and a double by Grote, then wrapped up the scoring with a seventh-inning homer by Ed Kranepool.

Gentry had the Orioles stopped on three singles until he loaded the bases with three walks and Ryan came on to throw the pitch that Blair lashed to right center and led to Agee's acrobatics.

Then, in the ninth, a pinch single by Dave May around a pair of walks loaded the bases with two out and put Ryan in jeopardy. But he ended it by getting Blair on three straight strikes.

That sends the teams back to Saturday's opening game pitchers for today's fourth game. Seaver starting against Mike Cuellar, Cuellar won that one 4-1.

After that game, no one was talking about someone up there liking the Mets.

But now they are again.

The Orioles continued to lead in Defense against rushing allowing only 269 yards. Arkadelphia leads in Pass Offense with 938 yards and Magnolia on defense against passes with 354 yds. Arkadelphia leads in team scoring with 185 points and Hope

Badgers Only Unbeaten Dist. Team

The Arkadelphia Badgers are the only undefeated team in Div. 4AA football after six weeks of the schedule and their most serious opposition for the balance of the season is Fairview on Nov. 7th and Hope on Nov. 21st.

The Badgers further proved their claim to a top ranking in Class AA ball by defeating Magnolia 25 to 8 this past week.

In 4AA West Hope leads with 1-0 (Arkadelphia has not played a West conference game) but also faces a big test this week when they play at Fairview.

In other action Arkadelphia plays at Malvern; Lincoln and Warren open.

Other results from last week: Fairview 48 Lincoln 0; Camden 27 Malvern 16; Hope 47 NLR Oak Grove 7; Warren 13 Smackover 0.

Highlights of last week's play included: Hope's Ronny Brown, a guard, scored one touchdown, two field goals, and five extra points for total of 17 points; Fairview's Lewis Pryor scored on a 96-yard kickoff return and a 55 yard punt return plus a three yard sneak for 18 points; Camden's Bill Jordan had a 70-yard scoring run from scrimmage. Arkadelphia had 176 yards passing and 175 yards rushing in a balanced attack against Magnolia.

Jimmy Harris of Fairview increased his lead in the individual scoring leadership. He now has 59 points on seven td's and 17 extra points. Thomas Dansby of Camden moved into second place with 46 points.

Harris of Fairview and Brown of Hope now share the lead in the PAT department with 17 each. Brown takes the field goal lead with two.

Camden has taken over the team rushing leadership with 1,266 yards and Hope is second with 1,235. Fairview continues to lead in Defense against rushing allowing only 269 yards. Knicks Out to Ruin Another Coaches' Debut

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK (AP) — Having spoiled one National Basketball Association coaching debut Tuesday night, the New York Knicks are out to ruin another tonight. This one may be more difficult.

The Knicks opened the NBA's 24th season with an easy 126-101 victory over Lennie Wilkens' Seattle SuperSonics. Tonight they go up against the Royals in Cincinnati, with Bob C Cousy, ex-Boston Celtic great and later coach at Boston College, handling a pro team for the first time.

The Knicks trailed Seattle only in the opening minutes as Bob Rule, who finished with 27, scored the Sonics' first 11 points. But Bill Bradley and Willis Reed shot the Knicks into the lead and Reed and Dick Barnett paced a 22-6 burst that opened a 95-63 spread late in the third period.

Reed finished with 28 points, Barnett 22, Walt Frazier 16, Dave DeBusschere 13 and Bradley and Mike Riordan 12 apiece.

The game also marked the return of New York's Dave Stallworth, who suffered a heart attack two years ago. Stallworth scored eight points and grabbed six rebounds.

The Knicks, among the favored teams in the NBA's Eastern Division, discounted their easy triumph as a true measure of their ability.

"Ask me how good we are after we've played 81 games, not one," said Bradley. "Playing Oscar Robertson and Cincinnati will be a good graduated test. We must consider that Cincinnati is a better team than Seattle."

Captain Reed echoed Bradley. "We played very well but the Cincinnati game will tell us more," he said. "I don't mean to belittle Seattle, but Cincinnati is a better organized team and always gives us trouble."

Key College Games Are on Tap Sat.

By HERSCHEL MISSIONSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets and Baltimore Orioles aren't the only ones involved in important action this week. College football has some key games on tap Saturday.

For openers, there's the third-ranked Southern California against No. 11 Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. Then there's fifth-ranked Penn State at Syracuse, with the winner a good bet to capture the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of Eastern supremacy.

Seventh-ranked Tennessee and Alabama, No. 20, have a crucial Southeastern Conference clash at Birmingham, California faces eighth-ranked UCLA in Los Angeles with the loser becoming a Rose Bowl spectator and Michigan, ranked 13th, is at Michigan State and very little has to be at stake for that one to be a thriller.

Whoever said quit while you're ahead has our thanks, after a 43-13 week, best of the season. But we can't, since there's still more than a month to go.

Notre Dame over Southern California — Both teams walked Northwestern, USC by a 48-6 count and Notre Dame by 35-10. But ND's Joe Theismann has come of age as a quarterback while USC's Jimmy Jones and Clarence Davis have never played in the South Bend snake pit.

Penn State over Syracuse — Syracuse ranks sixth nationally in total defense. Penn State doesn't care about the numbers — just about its own defense, which put the clamps on high-powered West Virginia last Saturday.

Alabama over Tennessee — Bama may have been looking ahead during last week's incredible loss to Vanderbilt. Bear Bryant will make sure the Crimson Tide is looking in the right direction this time.

UCLA over California — Dennis Dummit, Greg Jones and Mickey Cureton lead Bruins' potent offense past Cal's sticky defense.

Michigan over Michigan State — Wolverines smell roses, the Pasadena, Calif., kind, after last week's 30-21 upset of Purdue.

Ohio State over Minnesota — Merrily we roll along.

Louisiana State over Kentucky — Kentucky only wins on alternate weekends, and this isn't one of them.

Florida over North Carolina — Gators have only beaten the Tar Heels once, but super sophs John Reaves and Carlos Alvarez don't know that.

Oklahoma over Colorado — Sooners lost a tough one to Texas, and Colorado will pay for it.

Missouri over Oklahoma State — State had last week off, and this will be an off-week, too.

Post Keeps Rushing Lead in the AFL

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Post, the speedy San Diego Chargers running back, maintained his American Football League rushing lead, according to league statistics released today.

However, Floyd Little of the Denver Broncos, who gained over 100 yards for the third time Sunday, has edged to within eight yards of Post. Little ran for 102 yards and a total of 364 for the year. Post, held to 31 yards in 14 carries, has 372.

In the three other major offensive categories the leaders remained unchanged. Rookie quarterback Greg Cook of Cincinnati is the No. 1 passer with 34 of 61 pass completions good for 601 yards and six touchdowns. Oakland's Fred Biletnikoff leads the pass receivers with 29 catches for 391 yards and four TDs while Jim Turner of the New York Jets has accounted for the most points with 45 on 11 field goals and 12 extra points.

Other leaders are: Paul Maguire, Buffalo, punting, 48.4 average; Butch Byrd, Buffalo, interceptions with six; Mercury Morris, Miami, kickoff returns, with a 33.1 yard average; and Nolan Smith, Kansas City, a 14.2 average on six punt returns.

Can't Vision Mets as Team of Destiny

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles haven't been swept along by the emotional tide of enthusiasm shown by New York fans for their darling Mets.

The Orioles don't look on the Mets as a team of destiny, a bunch of supermen, or even a ball club with momentum.

But, unless they break out of a horrid hitting slump, the favored Orioles could lose the 1969 World Series. After dropping a 5-0 decision Tuesday, Baltimore fell behind 2-1 in the best-of-7 series.

"When I walk past them, I hear them breathing," Baltimore right fielder Frank Robinson said. "So I know they're human. When one of them takes off and flies, I'll believe that superman stuff."

"Team of destiny?" Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said after Tuesday's game. "It wasn't destiny today. It was Agee's good legs and fielding ability. It was the good arms of Gentry and Ryan."

Tommye Agee, who belted a home run leading off the New York Mets first inning, made two spectacular catches in the outfield to prevent five Baltimore runs from scoring.

Rookie Gary Gentry, a winner in his first World Series start, allowed Baltimore three singles in 6 2-3 innings, and Nolan Ryan yielded an infield single in relief the rest of the way.

The Orioles left 11 runners stranded, twice being retired with the bases loaded, as their team batting average for three games dipped to .133. They have had six singles in the last 22 innings.

The Mets, with only a .194 average, have made the most of their few hits and have come up with the big defensive plays to throttle Baltimore threats.

Agee snared a drive to deep left center by Ellie Hendricks with two on and two out in the fourth inning Tuesday, and made a diving catch of Paul Blair's bases-loaded five with two outs in the seventh.

"Our players aren't down on themselves," Robinson said. "I can see that. They aren't hanging their heads, feeling sorry for themselves, cursing the other team and hollering 'lucky guys.' We're just giving credit to the Mets for good plays."

"They don't have momentum," Weaver said in answer to a question about the Mets' comeback after losing the opening game.

"If (Mike) Cuellar one-hits them tomorrow and we score one run on two hits and win, does that give us the momentum?" he asked rhetorically.

"We've snapped out of hitting slumps before," Weaver said. "We had two tough games in the playoffs against Minnesota, and then we got 18 hits in the third game."

Cuellar, the left-hander who won the first game 4-1 on a six-hitter, will again be matched against Tom Seaver. Cuellar won 23 games during the regular season and Seaver won 25.

"Good pitching is tough, no matter who you are," Weaver said. "But I think we'll do better these pitchers the second time around. We have some good hitters who are due to break loose."

Weaver, who has maintained all along that he respected the underdog Mets, said he has had only two surprises so far.

"The biggest surprise," he said, "is that Gentry is a much better pitcher than I had been told."

"I also expected more excitement out of the New York fans. I thought they were rather subdued."

Michigan Ends Is Lineman of the Week

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Preseason promotion billed Michigan tight end Jim Mandich as a prime All-American candidate.

Weakened by flu, the senior captain of the Wolverines played a poor opening game. The next week he got better and the week after that stayed about the same.

But last Saturday Mandich lived up to his billing when he caught 10 of Don Moorhead's passes for 156 yards and a touchdown as Michigan upset ninth-ranked Purdue 31-20.

He also set up two other touchdowns and a field goal with his sure-handed receiving, earning him Lineman of the Week honors from the Associated Press.

"It's a great honor," he said. "But most of my interest now lies with the team. We're well on our way to a Big Ten championship."

Those are confident words for a member of a team that has only played one Big Ten game this season. But the feeling at Ann Arbor is that the Purdue game could have been the biggest hurdle of the season towards a Rose Bowl trip.

"As far as pass receiving goes, I would have to say Saturday was my best game so far, although I have blocked better," Mandich said, admitting fine play and criticizing himself in the same breath.

He said he felt the game untracked him and the team and gave "a tremendous boost essential for any Big Ten championship hopes."

The dark-haired economics major, who is a look-alike to all time great All-American half-back Willie Heston of Michigan (1901-1904), has grabbed 20 passes this season for 262 yards and two touchdowns. Purdue coach Jack Mollenkopf summed up the story of his team's first loss this way: "We couldn't stop Mandich from catching the ball."

"He's a very reliable receiver," said U-M coach Bo Schembechler, who is not one to heap individual praise.

The record book proves Schembechler right. Mandich ranks second in career receptions at Michigan with 89 to Jack Clancy's 132 and third in yardage with 1,094, although he should pass Lowell Perry for second place in a week or two.

The 6-foot-3, 220-pound Mandich, who is from Solon, Ohio, threw the football into the stands after his TD Saturday and the Wolverines drew 15-yard penalty as a result.

"I can't forgive him for throwing the ball in the stands," deadpanned Schembechler. "But," he added, breaking into a grin, "I love that guy."

Basketball on Scene in Conference

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Play for keeps doesn't start until Dec. 1, but Southwest Conference basketball teams will edge into the sporting scene today with the opening of fall workouts.

Texas A&M's defending SWC champions will be trying to fill three big gaps—the losses to graduation of Ronnie Peret, Billy Bob Barnett and Sonny Benefield.

Coach Shelby Metcalf will have senior forward Mike Heilmann and seven-foot center Steve Niles returning. Other lettermen reporting include seniors Bill Brown and Oliver Biggers, juniors, Bill Cooksey, and Roddy McAlpine.

Second-place Baylor returns two-time All-SWC forward Tommy Bowman and the No. 4 scorer in the conference last year, Larry Gatewood.

Baylor's 10-4 record last year was second to A&M's 12-2.

Along with David Sibley, Baylor has outstanding potential.

Only five of last year's top 12 scorers return. Besides the Baylor duo there's Gene Phillips of SMU (the leader at 21.3 points), Wayne Doyal of Texas (9th) and Tom Myer of Rice (12th).

Bob Bass will have 10 letter winners, including four starters, on hand for his first season at Texas Tech. Steve Hardin is the only senior in the group. Besides Doyal, Texas returns four lettermen. However, the Longhorns draw off an outstanding 1969 freshman team and expect help from Lynn Howden and Terry Mullins.

Texas Christian returns guards Rick Wittenbracker and Jeff Harp, along with forwards Doug Boyd and Norm Wintermeyer. TCU's Johnny Swaim also looks for help from 6-foot-7 Steve Speiny a star at Bakersfield, Calif., Junior College last season.

Arkansas boasts promising newcomers Almer Lee, who averaged 25 points in junior college last year, and Vernon Murphy, who set a school freshman scoring record. James Eldredge, Arkansas boasts promising newcomers Almer Lee, who averaged 25 points in junior college last year, and Vernon Murphy, who set a school freshman scoring record. James Eldredge, Rick Tanneberger and Robert McKenzie return.

Rice has four regulars off last year's 6-8 club, plus hot-shooting freshman Ted Melady and Don Snyder.

Sturgeon Caught in File Net

WELLINGTON, Ont. (AP) — Cecil B. Insley and his son, Bruce, caught more than they bargained for when they went fishing for herring. They landed a 154-pound, 7-foot-4 sturgeon in a file net.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — End zone tickets, usually sold for $6, will be available at $1 each to high school and junior high school students at the Arkansas Razorbacks' remaining Little Rock games this year.

Free-running Dog Ban Is Lifted by G&F

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — The state Game and Fish Commission voted 4-2 Tuesday to end its ban on free running dogs.

The vote was part of a compromise which included an agreement by the Arkansas Fox Hunters Association to drop a suit challenging the power of the commission.

The suit is pending before the state Supreme Court. The association has been one of the fiercest opponents of the regulation against free running dogs.

The commission also agreed to provide $155,000 for a four-year study to determine the status of free running dogs.

The 4-2 vote came on a motion by Commissioner Joe D. Scott of Nashville. Voting for it were Scott, Newt Halley of Rogers, Ed Gordon of Morrilton and Ralph Griffin of Jonesboro.

Those who voted against the motion were Tom Pugh of Portland and Raymond Farris of Biscoe. Commissioner Lloyd McCollum of Stuttgart abstained.

McCollum and Farris tried to persuade the other commissioners to delay a vote until those who approve of the regulation had a chance to give their side of the issue.

Razorbacks Work Out in Sweat Clothes

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Coach Frank Broyles put the Arkansas Razorbacks through a 90-minute workout in sweat clothes Tuesday and said they would work in pads the rest of this week.

Arkansas doesn't play this weekend. Its next game will be Oct. 25 in Little Rock against Wichita State, which has a 1-4 record.

Broyles said Dick Bumpas, a defensive tackle, and Cliff Powell, a middle linebacker, looked good in films of Arkansas' 21-7 victory over Baylor last week.

Bumpas made 2 tackles and six assists and Powell made 15 tackles and six assists.

Soviet Space Venture Gets Even Bigger

By MICHAEL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's biggest week in space got even bigger Tuesday with the opening of a new program of solar research, keyed to an unmanned satellite, while the three manned spaceflights sent up earlier continued their troika flight.

The Soviets apparently are carrying out two unrelated space operations simultaneously, and one of them—the three-manned flight—is among the most complicated operations ever undertaken.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the group flight of Soyuz 6, Soyuz 7 and Soyuz 8 "continues successfully" and the seven cosmonauts "feel fine." There was also the usual report of morning exercises, medical checkup and checking of instruments.

The announcement said the day's schedule called for "observations of separate regions of the earth's surface in mountainous areas, to watch the distribution of cloud and vortex formations over the Pacific and Atlantic oceans, to explore the reflecting factor of tracts of forest and desert regions."

But one again there was no word on plans to link up and weld together at least two of the spacecraft, the exercise in construction of a space platform that is believed to be the chief purpose of the flight.

Tass in another report late Tuesday dubbed the Soyuz crews "cosmonaut-assemblymen" and stressed the importance of their space welding tasks, which it noted would be extremely difficult because weightlessness in space restricts even the simplest movements.

"The assembly of space constructions, their repair and other work will necessitate the joining of metals," Tass said. "To fulfill these jobs, the cosmonaut-assemblymen must stay outside the ship for long periods of time."

Tass said different welding methods will be used, including "electron beam or plasma arc," which would give the space welders "the possibility of using a single instrument to both join metals and cut them."

Meanwhile, on Tuesday the Russians sent up a new unmanned satellite, Interkosmos 1, and said it would be used by radio observatories of East European Communist countries for a large-scale probe into the mysteries of the sun.

Senate-passed Poverty Bill Gives Veto Right to State Governors

By J. C. L. L.
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed overwhelmingly a two-year $4.78 billion extension of the antipoverty program but left unsettled the status of the controversial Legal Services aid.

In a sharp defeat for the program's backers, the Senate voted 45-40 Tuesday to add a rider to the bill giving governors the absolute right to veto any Legal Services projects.

But then, after the rider's sponsor, Republican Sen. George Murphy had left the chamber to go to California, the bill's managers came up with language which would allow President Nixon to override such vetoes.

Several senators contended Murphy's amendment was being emasculated in his absence.

The managers answered that Murphy should not have left the chamber before work on the legislation was completed, but they pledged they would drop the new language in Senate-House conference if Murphy objected.

The Legal Services lawyers, target of Murphy's amendment, have stepped on the toes of state and local officials in a number of states by filing lawsuits questioning various governmental practices.

Gov. Ronald Reagan in California has criticized their work in behalf of striking grape pickers, among others.

Under present law governors can veto most antipoverty programs in their states, but the Office of Economic Opportunity director can override the vetoes.

The bill to continue the OEO through fiscal 1971 passed the Senate 73-3 and was sent to the House.

Democrats and Republicans on the House Education and Labor Committee have been squabbling over OEO extension for months. There was no estimate on when the committee might act.

OEO already has gone through more than a quarter of the current financial year without knowing what its exact funding will be.

The Senate bill authorizes slightly over $2 billion for the present year, exactly what Nixon asked. The total is $100 million more than was spent last year.

The bill also authorizes $2.73 billion for fiscal 1971, considerably more than the administration has indicated it wants.

Urban Renewal Resolution Is Approved

A resolution was passed last night (Tuesday night) by the City Board of Directors approving and the filing of a survey and planning for urban renewal for area. The resolution was presented by Mike Kelly. This action had to be taken before projects for this area can be considered.

The board discussed aspects of the grand jury's report pertaining to city departments but no action was taken pending further study.

Charles Key, who leases land from the City, was given permission to post the city property against hunting.

Franze Gourley, director of the Ark-Tex Council of Governments, discussed the organization and asked the city join it. No action was taken on the matter.

Forrest City Rejects 3 Proposals

FORREST CITY, Ark. (AP) — Forrest City voters Tuesday rejected three proposed ordinances, thereby defeating efforts to set up a Neighborhood Development Program, establish an 11 p.m. curfew and double the size of the police force.

The development project was defeated 1,379 to 927. The proposed curfew for those age 17 and younger was rejected 1,580 to 643.

The other proposal involved an increase in fees for collection of garbage and other sanitation operations to bring in money for increasing the police manpower. It lost 1,871 to 348.

Absentee ballots are not included in the totals, but only about 40 absentee votes were cast, officials said.

Fighting Men Show Little Sympathy

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — A few American troops in Vietnam silently protested against the war today, wearing black arm bands while on combat patrol to show sympathy with the Moratorium Day protest in the United States.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces Vietnam, said he did not think the protest in the United States would make any difference on the battlefield in Vietnam.

"We've got our job to do here and that's what we're doing," Abrams told newsmen after a delegation from Mississippi presented him a resolution by their legislature supporting American forces in Vietnam.

Associated Press photographer Charles Ryan, on patrol south of Da Nang with a platoon from the U.S. Americal Division, said about half of the 30 troops were wearing black arm bands.

Feels Hanoi Exploiting Moratorium

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and GOP Senate Leader Hugh Scott, both speaking with White House blessings, say the Communists already are exploiting today's Vietnam moratorium movement.

And Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, linked the demonstrations to left wing groups and a "world peace conference" in East Berlin last June 25.

The vice president called upon leaders of the moratorium to repudiate a letter of support from Hanoi.

Agnew said the letter from Pham Van Dong, premier of North Vietnam, was "a shocking intrusion into the affairs of the American people by an enemy."

Scott got a copy of the letter from Bryce Harlow, President Nixon's chief congressional liaison man. The Pennsylvania Senator said he was sure all Americans, including the demonstrators, would resent Hanoi's message.

Allott would not disclose the source of his allegations, but he said "the basic strategy" for today's demonstration was shaped at a world peace conference in East Berlin. "That particular conference was Communist oriented," Allott said.

Although Allott said moratorium organizers were at that meeting, he named no one. He also said the Socialist Workers party, the Progressive Labor party, the Youth International party and the Students for a Democratic Society were involved in initial planning of the moratorium.

"They're on the extreme liberal end of our spectrum," Allott said.

Scott said he knew nothing of the Allott charges, adding "I assume that the moratorium is an honest, peaceful expression of dissent."

Marshal Kept on the Force

LUXORA, Ark. (AP) — City Marshal Willie Brown was retained on the police force after a mild reprimand from the City Council Monday night about his arrest in a gambling raid last week.

State Police and Alcoholic Beverage Control agents raided three night spots. Brown, a Negro, was charged with gambling. He forfeited $200 bond last week.

Mayor Fred George told the council he believed that Brown deserved a second chance "since he has been a good officer."

George told Brown that he believed the incident would make an even better officer of him.

Vietnam Moratorium Day Gets Underway

Some Don't Know What It's All About

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer
The Vietnam Moratorium is today and there are some who are in doubt as to what it's all about — including some participants.

The Vietnam Moratorium Committee is the official organizer and promoter of the event. It is based in Washington, D.C.

One of the committee's regional coordinators, Marge Skelnick, said the purpose of the moratorium is to express a desire for the immediate withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

"It is not to criticize the President or to support the President," she said. "It is not to support his time-table for pulling troops out, or to oppose the idea of pulling the troops out, but to support the idea that the troops, all of them, should be brought home now."

She emphasized that the demonstrations sanctioned by the committee are to be peaceful, and, in numerous cases, solemn and thoughtful.

The purpose is not to simply express opposition to war, she said.

"After all, nobody's in favor of war," Miss Skelnick said. "Nobody likes war. This protest is to show support for bringing the troops home now."

Some organizers of moratorium activities in Arkansas towns or on Arkansas campuses seem to misunderstand the official purpose of the activities as defined by the committee.

"It's to be a memorial to the Vietnam war dead," said one youthful worker.

In some cases, memorial services will be held for war casualties, but this is only a sidelight to the moratorium, not an expression of the moratorium's purpose.

James Rawlings, child care director of the Presbyterian Center at Little Rock, has organized some moratorium activities.

He said this week that the purpose was to show opposition to the U.S. participation in the war and to show "support for President Nixon's efforts to pull the troops out of the war."

Miss Skelnick heartily repeated, when asked about this, See SOME DON'T (on page two)

Large Balloon Causes Curiosity

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A large balloon has caused curiosity in Arkansas in the last 10 days as it drifted over the state.

The balloon, which resembles the cellophane-like bags some dry cleaners put over newly cleaned clothes, was sighted near Springfield last week.

Tuesday, a similar balloon—possibly the same one—was reported in the Stuttgart area.

A spokesman for the U.S. Weather Bureau at Little Rock said the balloon apparently is one of several launched near Palestine, Tex., in a study of U.S. air currents.

War Over in Three Years, Says Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says many of the troubles now plaguing his administration will be over within three years—about the time his present term comes to an end.

"I will say confidently that looking ahead just three years, the war will be over," Nixon said. "It will be over on a basis which will permit lasting peace in the Pacific."

The President also predicted two key domestic problems—inflation and crime—will be brought under control within three years. He spoke to a meeting of directors of the Associated Press Sunday. His text was released by the White House Tuesday.

The country is coming to grips with inflation, Nixon said, "because we went in at the heart of the problem and took our hard knocks now and later this winter so that we could have smoother sailing later."

Crime will go down, he said, "because the Congress has to pass the crime bills. The Congress can be political about everything else, but this is one area they will come up to. Because when it comes to narcotics, organized crime and obscenity and the rest, they will move on."

Leaders Ask Nonviolent Disruption

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Vietnam Moratorium Day demonstrations began generally peacefully today on college campuses and city streets, in churches and commuter terminals in many areas of the nation.

Lists of Americans killed in Vietnam were read in several places—ranging from the steps of the administration building at Ohio State University in Columbus to Trinity Church in New York's Wall Street financial district.

New York City's Hall was draped in black and purple mourning in accordance with Mayor John V. Lindsay's proclamation of the day as a day of observance. Both Lindsay and his Democratic opponent in the mayoral race, Mario Procaccino, attended special church services, two of hundreds of such observances.

Many persons wore the black armbands and small blue and white "Vietnam Moratorium" buttons urged by sponsors of the demonstration.

Students handed out moratorium and peace literature at Cambridge's Harvard Square, rallying point for a march to Boston Common. A 70-foot banner reading "Peace" was stretched across one street.

Economist John K. Galbraith, a professor at Harvard University, told a rally of about 1,000 persons at the Harvard Business school he thought ending the war now would bring the U.S. military establishment under control.

Opposition to the moratorium, surfaced in many areas. Merritt H. Taylor Jr., president of the Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co., draped his buses and trolleys with U.S. flags to express "a feeling of patriotism."

"I just think it's time the unheard element makes itself heard. We ought to stand behind our country and stop complaining so much," he said.

Opponents of the demonstration also had urged motorists to drive with their headlights on and cars with lights burning dotted roads and highways.

Students on several of the nation's college campuses held midnight convocations and candlelight parades as massive Vietnam Moratorium Day demonstrations got underway.

Hope Hasn't Beat Cards in 3 Years

By RALPH ROUTON
Star Sports Writer

About 48 hours from now, Hope and Camden Fairview will clash once more on the football gridiron. The stakes are considerable in 4-AA's Western Division for 1969 and statewide Class AA ranking, and nerves are already taut with anticipation.

The Fairview Cardinals are favored with their 4-1 record and an average of five touchdowns a game, and it has been three years since Hope has beaten the Cards.

Physically, both teams rank in a tie as the largest in 4-AA, with 190-pounders and up abounding in both camps.

You would think that Hope would be keyed to a pitch of fever intensity, but so far this has been not so. However, that will be the requirement Friday night to beat a loaded and cocky Fairview powerhouse.

With the attitude and determination to avoid mental let-down, the Bobcats cannot lose, Coach Ronnie Higgins can be proud of one of the state's top kicking games and an overflow of depth at the running-back positions.

Artis Martin got most of the headlines earlier as the workhorse, but fellow senior Thomas Lloyd has applied his speed well in accounting for four TD's this fall. Gary Jones has been commended all season for his fine blocking and power running, and Isaiah Hendrix is gaining confidence quickly after a touchdown against Oak Grove and a 92-yard scoring kickoff return Monday night for the "B" squad.

Then there are the pair of sophomores who also start on defense, Ray Wheelington and Rusty Quillin. Ray gained 191 yards rushing in an earlier "B" game and has been returning kicks well, but Rusty has to be the surprise runner.

A lineman for the Bobkittens last fall, Quillin has turned into a smart ball-carrier with a sense for daylight which got him 87 yards and two six- and one-yard touchdowns against Oak Grove and 110 yards on the ground in one half for the "B" squad Monday.

Up in the line, the first-teamers have moved the opponent out when the big play or drive was imperative, and the reserves are making much progress with their added experience on Friday nights in addition to the Monday "B" games.

Last year this writer lauded both Hope and Fairview for their tremendous kicking and kick returning and coverages, and what resulted was a night of short punts and fumbles.

Once more this time the two schools boast fine kickers (the same pair, in fact) in the Cardinals' Jimmy Harris and Bobcat David Still, and you have to think that their performing will share a big load on the outcome along with the defensive performing of both teams.

As injuries go, Hope defensive tackles Jim Alford and Lynn Norton should be able to start. Norton, with a broken thumb, will play in a plastic cast while Alford's recurring ankle problem is much better this week. Fairview lost their best blocking back, three-year starter Perry Johnson, to appendicitis, but Harris is an All-State fullback that can carry the load well.

In an early analysis, both Hope and Fairview hope to be able to move the ball on the ground, against a pair of mighty stingy defenses. As passing goes, the Cards' secondary won't match the Bobcats', but QB Lewis Pryor can scramble out of the pocket and be dangerous for the Redbirds if his receivers are covered.

Tomorrow night sends the Yer-

ger Junior High Bobkittens back into action at Nashville for the Scrappers' Homecoming, and the rivalry has become intense even on this lower level.

Game time is 7:30 p.m., as Coach Gaylord Solomon's Kittens try to pull out of a disappointing two-game losing string which ended hopes of an unbeaten season.

Slade, a possible first-round pro football draft choice, passed Davidson to a 37-7 rout of favored Richmond Saturday, completing 32 of 43 passes for 285 yards and two touchdowns while scoring three times himself.

For that performance he was named college Back of the Week by The Associated Press.

It put the Wildcats in the Southern Conference driver's seat and gave them an overall 4-0 record for the first time since 1927.

"Gordon's not just a great Southern Conference quarterback, he's a great athlete by any college standards," says Coach Homer Smith of the 6-foot-1, 195-pound senior from Evansville, Ind.

"His leadership means as much to us as his throwing arm. And he's got a marvelous throwing arm, quick and strong. But he relies on a good head as much as on his God-given throwing ability."

"In fact, he's so intelligent it's a challenge to me. He's a joy to coach, but it's also difficult to coach a boy that sharp. He remembers everything you've told him before."

Slade had one pass intercepted Saturday and Smith takes the blame for that.

"Gordon had already decided on a play which would have been the right one, but I sent in another pass play and they picked it off," said Smith.

Slade's outstanding game was last year against Connecticut when he completed 30 of 36 passes, including one on which he shifted the ball from his right hand to his left and shoveled a completion that way.

Pro football's gain may be baseball's loss. Slade is an outfielder on the Davidson team, beating .429 as a sophomore and .383 last season and being named to the NCAA District 3 team both years.

For this football season, Slade has connected on 84 of 124 passes for 1,010 yards and nine touchdowns.

Agee's Circus Catches Key to Victory

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommie Agee's circus catches plucked the Baltimore Orioles' feathers in the third game of the World Series. Little Bud Harrelson has been picking their pockets from the start.

"We're playing our game now — good defense," said Harrelson, New York's sure-handed shortstop, after the Mets trimmed the Orioles 5-0 Tuesday for a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series.

Harrelson handled eight chances flawlessly as the Mets stymied Baltimore's big hitters again with solid defensive baseball. He personally disposed of the Orioles in the fifth inning by gobbling up three tricky ground balls and tossing out the side.

"They tell me that ties a World Series record . . . and six million other guys," he joked.

"We didn't play our best in the first game," the 150-pound bantam continued. "We did in the second game and again today. Every time they got something started, we came up with the big plays and took them out of it."

"If Agee doesn't make the first catch they've got two runs. If he doesn't make the second one, it's three more and a whole different ball game."

"They did the same thing to us in the first game at Baltimore. But I'm sure we're making them believe in us now."

Harrelson has had 15 chances without an error in the first three Series games. He also has poked a pair of hits in seven trips to the plate, including a two-out single in the second inning Tuesday that gave pitcher Gary Gentry the opportunity to double home two big runs.

The Mets' shortstop was involved in the game's lone rhu-barb as well. On first base with a walk in the fourth, he broke for second when Oriole pitcher Jim Palmer's pickoff throw went astray.

Harrelson was awarded second on an interference call against Powell, bringing Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver onto the field for a brief, but heated, argument with the umpires.

"I guess Powell had reached around for the ball and I was going the same way," said Harrelson, who gave away five inches and about 90 pounds in his comic wrestling match with the hulking Baltimore slugger.

"He was a big octopus. I felt like a baby kangaroo in a pocket."

"It was a mismatch," commented Mets skipper Gil Hodges.

Hodges was optimistic about the odds which were stacked against them after the Orioles beat 25-game winner Tom Seaver in the Series opener.

"We're in good shape," he said. "The next step is winning the third one."

Seaver was set to start again today and Jerry Koosman the second-game winner, will follow on Thursday. "I couldn't plan for anything better," Hodges said.

"The left-handers got us into the Series by beating Atlanta," said Kranepool, who smacked an eight-inning homer for New York's last run. "It looks like the right-handers have got to carry us in the Series."

"This could be the only one I play. I might get one more chance if there's a sixth game. But what's the difference as long as we win it?"

"Winning is everything," added Gentry, who picked up the victory but needed seventh-inning relief help from Nolan Ryan. "I might have felt bad about coming out for a while, but you watch us play all year and see the moves Gil makes, and you know they're never wrong."

Army Shooter Wins 4th Medal
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Army Maj. Lones Wigger, Carter, Mont., won his fourth straight gold medal Monday in the ninth annual U.S. International Shooting Championships by winning the army rifle match.

Wigger, a long time member of the U.S. Army Marksmanship Unit and a veteran of Vietnam, scored 558 points.

"I hope my turn comes tomorrow," he said. "But as long as we win I don't need a turn. If we win it, I don't care if I get another hit."

The first known American-born composer of music was Francis Hopkinson, a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Orioles Still Believe They Will Win

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite a suspicion to the contrary, the Baltimore Orioles continue to deny that the New York Mets and the man upstairs have formed some sort of strange alliance.

"You know what somebody told me?" coach Joe Pignatano asked with a laugh in the Mets dressing room after the club nicknamed the Amazings had been just that in a 5-0 victory over the Orioles Tuesday that gave them the lead in the World Series.

And then he answered his own question:
"God is a Met fan."

"We," added Manager Gil Hodges, "certainly picked up some more non-believers with this one."

But they didn't pick up any of the Orioles.

"They're not super men," said outfielder Frank Robinson. "They're flesh and blood. The writers want to make it look like somebody's looking over them, but there's nothing to that."

"They tell me," said Manager Earl Weaver, "that man up there likes us all the same. Magic? They don't have any magic. They're just good."

"Heck, if Agee has an ingrown toe nail we got five runs."

Agee is Tommie Agee, the Mets center fielder. He didn't give an ingrown toe nail Tuesday, but he did have a leadoff homer that gave the Mets a lead they never relinquished and two spine-tingling catches that preserved the victory.

The catches and shutout pitching by Gary Gentry and Nolan Ryan pulled the Mets into a 2-1 lead after three games of the World Series and gave them a substantial edge the odds-makers and experts never expected.

With two more games in New York, today and Thursday, and with their aces—Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman—lined up to handle the pitching, they have put themselves in position to complete the miracle that has seen them move from ninth place last year to the top this season.

"Do we have our backs against the wall? No," said Robinson. "When they need only one more than we have our backs against the wall. They have only the advantage of being one-up just the same as when we won the first game."

"But it certainly gives them an edge. It was a pivotal game. They got by it. They're in good shape."

"It's only one win in the whole series," said Weaver. "The fourth win is the most important. If you get the fourth win it makes the other three important. If you win the fourth it wipes out all the losses."

"Who knows—if (Tuesday's victory) might not be important when it's all over."

When it's all over—no matter who wins—there are two things that happened in the third game that will never be wiped out—Agee's catches, already ranked among the best made in the entire history of the series along with those by Al Glonfrido and Sandy Amoros.

The first was made in the fourth inning with two men on when Agee chased a drive by Ellie Hendricks to the wall in left center, spearing it one-handed in the web of his glove before grazing up against the wall.

The second was made in the seventh inning with the bases loaded when Agee had to go the other way into right center for a liner by Paul Blair, diving for it one-handed at the last second as the wind kept carrying the ball away from him.

Although the second catch was more dramatic because of the acrobatics involved, both Agee and Hodges agreed the first was the better of the two.

Badgers Only Unbeaten Dist. Team

The Arkadelphia Badgers are the only undefeated team in Div. 4AA football after six weeks of the schedule and their most serious opposition for the balance of the season is Fairview on Nov. 7th and Hope on Nov. 21st.

The Badgers further proved their claim to a top ranking in Class AA ball by defeating Magnolia 25 to 8 this past week.

In 4AA West Hope leads with 1-0 (Arkadelphia has not played a West conference game) but also faces a big test this week when they play at Fairview.

In other action Arkadelphia plays at Smackover; Lincoln plays at Malvern; Magnolia and Warren open.

Other results from last week: Fairview 48 Lincoln 0; Camden 27 Malvern 16; Hope 47 NLR Oak Grove 7; Warren 13 Smackover 0.

Highlights of last week's play included: Hope's Ronny Brown, a guard, scored one touchdown, two field goals, and extra points for total of 17 points; Fairview's Lewis Pryor scored on a 96-yard kickoff return and a 55 yard punt return plus a three yard sneak for 18 points; Camden's Bill Jordan had a 70-yard scoring run from scrimmage. Arkadelphia had 176 yards passing and 175 yards rushing in a balanced attack against Magnolia.

Jimmy Harris of Fairview increased his lead in the individual scoring leadership. He now has 59 points on seven td's and 17 extra points. Thomas Damsby of Camden moved into second place with 46 points.

Harris of Fairview and Brown of Hope now share the lead in the PAT department with 17 each. Brown takes the field goal lead with two.

Camden has taken over the team rushing leadership with 1,266 yards and Hope is second with 1,235. Fairview continues to lead in Defense against rushing allowing only 269 yards. Arkadelphia leads in Pass Offense with 938 yards and Magnolia on defense against passes with 354 yds. Arkadelphia leads in team scoring with 185 points and Hope gle by Dave May around a pair of walks loaded the bases with two out and put Ryan in jeopardy. But he ended it by getting blair on three straight strikes.

That sends the teams back to Saturday's opening game pitchers for today's fourth game. Seaver starting against Mike Cuellar, Cuellar won that one 4-1.

After that game, no one was talking about someone up there liking the Mets.

But now they are again.

Knicks Out to Ruin Another Coaches' Debut

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK (AP) — Having spoiled one National Basketball Association coaching debut Tuesday night, the New York Knicks are out to ruin another tonight. This one may be more difficult.

The Knicks opened the NBA's 24th season with an easy 126-101 victory over Lennie Wilkens' Seattle SuperSonics. Tonight they go up against the Royals in Cincinnati, with Bob C Cousy, ex-Boston Celtic great and later coach at Boston College, handling a pro team for the first time.

The Knicks trailed Seattle only in the opening minutes as Bob Rule, who finished with 27, scored the Sonics' first 11 points. But Bill Bradley and Willis Reed shot the Knicks into the lead and Reed and Dick Barnett paced a 22-6 burst that opened a 95-63 spread late in the third period.

Reed finished with 28 points, Barnett 22, Walt Frazier 16, Dave DeBusschere 13 and Bradley and Mike Riordan 12 apiece.

The game also marked the return of New York's Dave Stallworth, who suffered a heart attack two years ago. Stallworth scored eight points and grabbed six rebounds.

The Knicks, among the favored teams in the NBA's Eastern Division, discounted their easy triumph as a true measure of their ability.

"Ask me how good we are after we've played 81 games, not one," said Bradley. "Playing Oscar Robertson and Cincinnati will be a good graduated test. We must consider that Cincinnati is a better team than Seattle."

Captain Reed echoed Bradley. "We played very well but the Cincinnati game will tell us more," he said. "I don't mean to belittle Seattle, but Cincinnati is a better organized team and always gives us trouble."

Key College Games Are on Tap Sat.

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets and Baltimore Orioles aren't the only ones involved in important action this week. College football has some key games on tap Saturday.

For openers, there's third-ranked Southern California against No. 11 Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. Then there's fifth-ranked Penn State at Syracuse, with the winner a good bet to capture the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of Eastern supremacy.

Seventh-ranked Tennessee and Alabama, No. 20, have a crucial Southeastern Conference clash at Birmingham, California faces eighth-ranked UCLA in Los Angeles with the loser becoming a Rose Bowl spectator and Michigan, ranked 13th, is at Michigan State and very little has to be at stake for that one to be a thriller.

Whoever said quit while you're ahead has our thanks, after a 43-13 week, best of the season. But we can't, since there's still more than a month to go.

Notre Dame over Southern California—Both teams walked Northwestern, USC by a 48-6 count and Notre Dame by 35-10. But ND's Joe Theismann has come of age as a quarterback while USC's Jimmy Jones and Clarence Davis have never played in the South Bend snake pit.

Penn State over Syracuse—Syracuse ranks sixth nationally in total defense. Penn State doesn't care about the numbers—just about its own defense, which put the clamps on high-powered West Virginia last Saturday.

Alabama over Tennessee—Bama may have been looking ahead during last week's incredible loss to Vanderbilt. Bear Bryant will make sure the Crimson Tide is looking in the right direction this time.

UCLA over California—Dennis Dummit, Greg Jones and Mickey Cureton lead Bruins' potent offense past Cal's sticky defense.

Michigan over Michigan State—Wolverines smell roses, the Pasadena, Calif., kind, after last week's 30-21 upset of Purdue.

Ohio State over Minnesota—Merrily we roll along.

Louisiana State over Kentucky—Kentucky only wins on alternate weekends, and this isn't one of them.

Florida over North Carolina—Gators have only beaten the Tar Heels once, but super sophs John Reeves and Carlos Alvarez don't know that.

Oklahoma over Colorado—Sooners lost a tough one to Texas, and Colorado will pay for it. Missouri over Oklahoma State—State had last week off, and this will be an off-week, too.

Post Keeps Rushing Lead in the AFL
NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Post, the speedy San Diego Chargers running back, maintained his American Football League rushing lead, according to league statistics released today.

However Floyd Little of the Denver Broncos, who gained over 100 yards for the third time Sunday, has edged to within eight yards of Post. Little ran for 102 yards and a total of 364 for the year. Post, held to 36 yards in 14 carries, has 372.

In the three other major offensive categories the leaders remained unchanged.

Rookie quarterback Greg Cook of Cincinnati is the No. 1 passer with 34 of 61 pass completions good for 601 yards and six touchdowns. Oakland's Fred Biletnikoff leads the pass receivers with 29 catches for 391 yards and four TDs while Jim Turner of the New York Jets has accounted for the most points with 45 on 11 field goals and 12 extra points.

Other leaders are: Paul Maguire, Buffalo, punting, 48.4 average; Butch Byrd, Buffalo, interceptions with six; Mercury Morris, Miami, kickoff returns, with a 33.1 yard average; and Nolan Smith, Kansas City, a 14.2 average on six punt returns.

Can't Vision Mets as Team of Destiny

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles haven't been swept along by the emotional tide of enthusiasm shown by New York fans for their darling Mets.

The Orioles don't look on the Mets as a team of destiny, a bunch of supermen, or even a ball club with momentum.

But, unless they break out of a horrid hitting slump, the favored Orioles could lose the 1969 World Series. After dropping a 5-0 decision Tuesday, Baltimore fell behind 2-1 in the best-of-7 series.

"When I walk past them, I hear them breathing," Baltimore right fielder Frank Robinson said. "So I know they're human. When one of them takes off and flies, I'll believe that superman stuff."

"Team of destiny?" Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said after Tuesday's game. "It wasn't destiny today. It was Agee's good legs and fielding ability. It was the good arms of Gentry and Ryan."

Tommie Agee, who belted a home run leading off the New York Mets first inning, made two spectacular catches in the outfield to prevent five Baltimore runs from scoring.

Rookie Gary Gentry, a winner in his first World Series start, allowed Baltimore three singles in 6 2-3 innings, and Nolan Ryan yielded an infield single in relief the rest of the way.

The Orioles left 11 runners stranded, twice being retired with the bases loaded, as their team batting average for three games dipped to .133. They have had six singles in the last 22 innings.

The Mets, with only a .194 average, have made the most of their few hits and have come up with the big defensive plays to throttle Baltimore threats.

Agee snared a drive to deep left center by Ellie Hendricks with two on and two out in the fourth inning Tuesday, and made a diving catch of Paul Blair's bases-loaded five with two outs in the seventh.

"Our players aren't down on themselves," Robinson said. "I can see that. They aren't hanging their heads, feeling sorry for themselves, cursing the other team and hollering 'lucky guys.' We're just giving credit to the Mets for good plays."

"They don't have momentum," Weaver said in answer to a question about the Mets' comeback after losing the opening game.

"If (Mike) Cuellar one-hits them tomorrow and we score one run on two hits and win, does that give us the momentum?" he asked rhetorically.

"We've snapped out of hitting slumps before," Weaver said. "We had two tough games in the playoffs against Minnesota, and then we got 18 hits in the third game."

Cuellar, the left-hander who won the first game 4-1 on a six-hitter, will again be matched against Tom Seaver. Cuellar won 23 games during the regular season and Seaver won 25.

"Good pitching is tough, no matter who you are," Weaver said. "But I think we'll do better these pitchers the second time around. We have some good hitters who are due to break loose."

Weaver, who has maintained all along that he respected the underdog Mets, said he has had only two surprises so far.

"The biggest surprise," he said, "is that Gentry is a much better pitcher than I had been told."

"I also expected more excitement out of the New York fans. I thought they were rather subdued."

Michigan End Is Lineman of the Week

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Preseason promotion billed Michigan tight end Jim Mandich as a prime All-American candidate.

Weakened by flu, the senior captain of the Wolverines played a poor opening game. The next week he got better and the week after that stayed about the same.

But last Saturday Mandich lived up to his billing when he caught 10 of Don Moorhead's passes for 156 yards and a touchdown as Michigan upset ninth-ranked Purdue 31-20.

He also set up two other touchdowns and a field goal with his sure-handed receiving, earning him Lineman of the Week honors from the Associated Press.

"It's a great honor," he said. "But most of my interest now lies with the team. We're well on our way to a Big Ten championship."

Those are confident words for a member of a team that has only played one Big Ten game this season. But the feeling at Ann Arbor is that the Purdue game could have been the biggest hurdle of the season towards a Rose Bowl trip.

"As far as pass receiving goes, I would have to say Saturday was my best game so far, although I have blocked better," Mandich said, admitting the play and criticizing himself in the same breath.

He said he felt the game untracked him and the team and gave "a tremendous boost essential for any Big Ten championship hopes."

The dark-haired economics major, who is a look-alike to all time great All-American half-back Willie Heston of Michigan (1901-1904), has grabbed 20 passes this season for 262 yards and two touchdowns. Purdue coach Jack Mollenkopf summed up the story of his team's first loss this way: "We couldn't stop Mandich from catching the ball."

"He's a very reliable receiver," said U-M coach Bo Schembechler, who is not one to heap individual praise.

The record book proves Schembechler right. Mandich ranks second in career receptions at Michigan with 89 to Jack Clancy's 132 and third in yardage with 1,094, although he should pass Lowell Perry for second place in a week or two.

The 6-foot-3, 220-pound Mandich, who is from Solon, Ohio, threw the football into the stands after his TD Saturday and the Wolverines drew 15-yard penalty as a result.

"I can't forgive him for throwing the ball in the stands," deadpanned Schembechler. "But," he added, breaking into a grin, "I love that guy."

Basketball on Scene in Conference

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Play for keeps doesn't start until Dec. 1, but Southwest Conference basketball teams will edge into the sporting scene today with the opening of fall workouts.

Texas A&M's defending SWC champions will be trying to fill three big gaps—the losses to graduation of Ronnie Peret, Billy Bob Barnett and Sonny Benefield.

Coach Shelby Metcalf will have senior forward Mike Heilmann and seven-foot center Steve Niles returning. Other lettermen reporting include seniors Bill Brown and Oliver Biggers, juniors, Bill Cooksey, and Roddy McAlpine.

Second-place Baylor returns two-time All-SWC forward Tommy Bowman and the No. 4 scorer in the conference last year, Larry Gatewood.

Baylor's 10-4 record last year was second to A&M's 12-2.

Along with David Sibley, Baylor has outstanding potential.

Only five of last year's top 12 scorers return. Besides the Baylor duo there's Gene Phillips of SMU (the leader at 21.3 points, Wayne Doyal of Texas (9th) and Tom Myer of Rice (10th).

Bob Bass will have 10 letter winners, including four starters, on hand for his first season at Texas Tech. Steve Hardin is the only senior in the group. Besides Doyal, Texas returns four lettermen. However, the Longhorns draw off an outstanding 1969 freshman team and expect help from Lynn Howden and Terry Mullins.

Texas Christian returns guards Rick Wittenbracker and Jeff Harp, along with forwards Doug Boyd and Norm Wintermeyer. TCU's Johnny Swalm also looks for help from 6-foot-7 Steve Spelny a star at Bakersfield, Calif., Junior College last season.

Arkansas boasts promising newcomers Almer Lee, who averaged 25 points in junior college last year, and Vernon Murphy, who set a school freshman scoring record. James Eldredge, Arkansas boasts promising newcomers Almer Lee, who averaged 25 points in junior college last year, and Vernon Murphy, who set a school freshman scoring record. James Eldredge, Rick Tanneberger and Robert McKenzie return.

Rice has four regulars off last year's 6-8 club, plus hot-shooting freshmen Ted Melady and Don Snyder.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — End zone tickets, usually sold for $6, will be available at $1 each to high school and junior high school students at the Arkansas Razorbacks' remaining Little Rock games this year.

The games match the fourth-ranked Razorbacks with lowly Wichita State and Southwest Conference for Texas Tech. Ticket Manager Vera Moody announced the price cut plan.

Free-running Dog Ban Is Lifted by G&F

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — The state Game and Fish Commission voted 4-2 Tuesday to end its ban on free running dogs.

The vote was part of a compromise which included an agreement by the Arkansas Fox Hunters Association to drop a suit challenging the power of the commission.

The suit is pending before the state Supreme Court. The association has been one of the fiercest opponents of the regulation against free running dogs.

The commission also agreed to provide $155,000 for a four-year study to determine the status of free running dogs.

The 4-2 vote came on a motion by Commissioner Joe D. Scott of Nashville. Voting for it were Scott, Newt Halley of Rogers, Ed Gordon of Morrilton and Ralph Griffin of Jonesboro.

Those who voted against the motion were Tom Pugh of Portland and Raymond Farris of Biscoe. Commissioner Lloyd McCollum of Stuttgart abstained.

McCollum and Farris tried to persuade the other commissioners to delay a vote until those who approve of the regulation had a chance to give their side of the issue.

Razorbacks Work Out in Sweat Clothes

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Coach Frank Broyles put the Arkansas Razorbacks through a 90-minute workout in sweat clothes Tuesday and said they would work in pads the rest of this week.

Arkansas doesn't play this weekend. Its next game will be Oct. 25 in Little Rock against Wichita State, which has a 1-4 record.

Broyles said Dick Bumpas, a defensive tackle, and Cliff Powell, a middle linebacker, looked good in films of Arkansas' 21-7 victory over Baylor last week.

Bumpas made 2 tackles and six assists and Powell made 15 tackles and six assists.

Get rid of your hangups.

By RALPH ROUTON
Star Sports Writer

About 48 hours from now, Hope and Camden Fairview will clash once more on the football gridiron. The stakes are considerable in 4-AA's Western Division for 1969 and statewide Class AA ranking, and nerves are already taut with anticipation.

The Fairview Cardinals are favored with their 4-1 record and an average of five touchdowns a game, and it has been three years since Hope has beaten the Cards.

Physically, both teams rank in a tie as the largest in 4-AA, with 190-pounders and up abounding in both camps.

You would think that Hope would be keyed to a pitch of fever intensity, but so far this year has been no such thing. However, that view 48, Camden Lincoln 0; Arkadelphia 17, Magnolia 8; Crossett 10, Bastrop (La.) 0.

With the attitude and determination to avoid mental letdown, the Bobcats cannot lose. Coach Ronnie Higgins can be proud of one of the state's top kicking games and an overflow of depth at the running-back positions.

Artis Martin got most of the headlines earlier as the workhorse, but fellow senior Thomas Lloyd has applied his speed well in accounting for four TD's this fall. Gary Jones has been commended all season for his fine blocking and power running, and Isaiah Hendrix is gaining confidence quickly after a touchdown against Oak Grove and a 92-yard scoring kickoff return Monday night for the "B" squad.

Then there are the pair of sophomores who also start on defense, Ray Wheelington and Rusty Quillin. Ray gained 191 yards rushing in an earlier "B" game and has been returning kicks well, but Rusty has to be the surprise runner.

A lineman for the Bobkittens last fall, Quillin has turned into a smart ball-carrier with a sense for daylight which got him 87 yards and two six-pointers against Oak Grove and 110 yards on the ground in one half for the "B" squad Monday.

Up in the line, the first-teamers have moved the opponent out when the big play or drive was imperative, and the reserves are making much progress with their added experience on Friday nights in addition to the Monday "B" games.

Last year this writer lauded both Hope and Fairview for their tremendous kicking and kick returning and coverages, and what resulted was a night of short punts and fumbles.

Once more this time the two schools boast fine kickers (the same pair, in fact) in the Cardinals' Jimmy Harris and Bobcat David Still, and you have to think that their performing will share a big load on the outcome along with the defensive performing of both teams.

As injuries go, Hope defensive tackles Jim Alford and Lynn Norton should be able to start. Norton, with a broken thumb, will play in a plastic cast while Alford's recurring ankle problem is much better this week. Fairview lost their best blocking back, three-year starter Perry Johnson, to appendicitis, but Harris is an All-State fullback that can carry the load well.

In an early analysis, both Hope and Fairview hope to be able to move the ball on the ground against a pair of mighty stingy defenses. As passing goes, the Cards' secondary won't match the Bobcats', but QB Lewis Pryor can scramble out of the pocket and be dangerous for the Redbirds if his receivers are covered.

Tomorrow night sends the Yer-

ger Junior High Bobkittens back into action at Nashville for the Scrappers' Homecoming, and the rivalry has become intense even on this lower level.

Game time is 7:30 p.m., as Coach Gaylord Solomon's Kittens try to pull out of a disappointing two-game losing string which ended hopes of an unbeaten season.

Davidson's Slade College Back of Week

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Gordon Slade will never make them forget basketball at hoops-crazed Davidson College but he's doing his best to erase the memory of a lot of losing football seasons.

Slade, a possible first-round pro football draft choice, passed Davidson to a 37-7 rout of favored Richmond Saturday, completing 32 of 43 passes for 285 yards and two touchdowns while scoring three times himself.

For that performance he was named college Back of the Week by The Associated Press.

It put the Wildcats in the Southern Conference driver's seat and gave them an over-all 4-0 record for the first time since 1927.

"Gordon's not just a great Southern Conference quarterback, he's a great athlete by any college standards," says Coach Homer Smith of the 6-foot-1, 195-pound senior from Evansville, Ind.

"His leadership means as much to us as his throwing arm. And he's got a marvelous throwing arm, quick and strong. But he relies on a good head as much as on his God-given throwing ability."

"In fact, he's so intelligent it's a challenge to me. He's a joy to coach, but it's also difficult to coach a boy that sharp. He remembers everything you've told him before."

Slade had one pass intercepted Saturday and Smith takes the blame for that.

"Gordon had already decided on a play which would have been the right one, but I sent in another pass play and they picked it off," said Smith.

Slade's outstanding game was last year against Connecticut when he completed 30 of 36 passes, including one on which he shifted the ball from his right hand to his left and shoveled a completion that way.

Pro football's gain may be baseball's loss. Slade is an outfielder on the Davidson team, beating .429 as a sophomore and .383 last season and being named to the NCAA District 3 team both years.

For this football season, Slade has connected on 84 of 124 passes for 1,010 yards and nine touchdowns.

Agee's Circus Catches Key to Victory

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommie Agee's circus catches plucked the Baltimore Orioles' feathers in the third game of the World Series. Little Bud Harrelson has been picking their pockets from the start.

"We're playing our game now — good defense," said Harrelson. "New York's sure-handed shortstop, after the Mets trimmed the Orioles 5-0 Tuesday for a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series."

Harrelson handled eight chances flawlessly as the Mets stymied Baltimore's big hitters again with solid defensive baseball. He personally disposed of the Orioles in the fifth inning by gobbling up three tricky ground balls and tossing out the side.

"They tell me that that ties a World Series record . . . me and six million other guys," he joked.

"We didn't play our best in the first game," the 150-pound bantam continued. "We did in the second game and again today. Every time they got something started, we came up with the big plays and took them out of it."

"If Agee doesn't make the first catch they've got two runs. If he doesn't make the second one, it's three more and a whole different ball game."

"They did the same thing to us in the first game at Baltimore. But I'm sure we're making them believe in us now."

Harrelson has had 15 chances without an error in the first three Series games. He also has poked a pair of hits in seven trips to the plate, including a two-out single in the second inning Tuesday that gave pitcher Gary Gentry the opportunity to double home two big runs.

The Mets' shortstop was involved in the game's lone rhabarb as well. On first base with a walk in the fourth, he broke for second when Oriole pitcher Jim Palmer's pickoff throw went astray . . .

Harrelson was awarded second on an interference call against Powell, bringing Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver onto the field for a brief, but heated, argument with the umpires.

"I guess Powell had reached around for the ball and I was going the same way," said Harrelson, who gave away five inches and about 90 pounds in his comic wrestling match with the hulking Baltimore slugger.

"He was a big octopus. I felt like a baby kangaroo in a pocket."

"It was a mismatch," commented Mets skipper Gil Hodges.

Hodges was optimistic about the Mets' chances of upsetting the odds which were stacked against them after the Orioles beat 25-game winner Tom Seaver in the Series opener.

"We're in good shape," he said. "The next step is winning the third one."

Seaver was set to start again today and Jerry Koosmann the second-game winner, will follow on Thursday. "I couldn't plan for anything better," Hodges said.

"The left-handers got us into the Series by beating Atlanta," said Kranepool, who smacked an eight-inning homer for New York's last run. "It looks like the right-handers have got to carry us in the Series."

"This could be the only one I play. I might get one more chance if there's a sixth game. But what's the difference as long as we win it?"

"Winning is everything," added Gentry, who picked up the victory but needed seventh-inning relief help from Nolan Ryan. "I might have felt bad about coming out for a while, but you watch us play all year and see the moves Gil makes, and you know they're never wrong."

Cleon Jones, who batted .340 during the regular season but has had just one hit — a first-inning single in the opener — in 12 Series at-bats, wasn't complaining either.

"I hope my turn comes tomorrow," he said. "But as long as we win I don't need a turn. If we win it, I don't care if I get another hit."

Army Shooter Wins 4th Medal
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Army Maj. Lones Wigger, Carter, Mont., won his fourth straight gold medal Monday in the ninth annual U.S. International Shooting Championships by winning the army rifle match.

Wigger, a long time member of the U.S. Army Marksmanship Unit and a veteran of Vietnam, scored 558 points.

Orioles Still Believe They Will Win

By MIKE RATHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite a suspicion to the contrary, the Baltimore Orioles continue to deny that the New York Mets and the man upstairs have formed some sort of strange alliance.

"You know what somebody told me?" coach Joe Pignatano asked with a laugh in the Mets dressing room after the club nicknamed the Amazings had been just that in a 5-0 victory over the Orioles Tuesday that gave them the lead in the World Series.

And then he answered his own question: "God is a Met fan."

"We," added Manager Gil Hodges, "certainly picked up some more non-believers with this one."

But they didn't pick up any of the Orioles.

"They're not super men," said outfielder Frank Robinson. "They're flesh and blood. The writers want to make it look like somebody's looking over them, but there's nothing to that."

"They tell me," said Manager Earl Weaver, "that man up there likes us all the same. Magic? They don't have any magic. They're just good."

"Heck, if Agee has an ingrown toe nail we got five runs."

Agee is Tommie Agee, the Mets center fielder. He didn't give an ingrown toe nail Tuesday, but he did have a leadoff homer that gave the Mets a lead they never relinquished and two spine-tingling catches that preserved the victory.

The catches and shutout pitching by Gary Gentry and Nolan Ryan pulled the Mets into a 2-1 lead after three games of the World Series and gave them a substantial edge in the odds-makers and experts never expected.

With two more games in New York, today and Thursday, and with their aces—Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman—lined up to handle the pitching, they have put themselves in position to complete the miracle that has seen them move from ninth place last year to the top this season.

"Do we have our backs against the wall? No," said Robinson. "When they need only one more than we have our backs against the wall. They have only the advantage of being one-up just the same as when we won the first game."

"But it certainly gives them an edge. It was a pivotal game. They got by it. They're in good shape."

"It's only one win in the whole series," said Weaver. "The fourth win is the most important. If you get the fourth win it makes the other three important. If you win the fourth it wipes out all the losses."

"Who knows—(Tuesday's victory) might not be important when it's all over."

When it's all over—no matter who wins—there are two things that happened in the third game that will never be wiped out—Agee's catches, already ranked among the best made in the entire history of the series along with those by Al Glavito and Sandy Amoros.

The first was made in the fourth inning with two men on when Agee chased a drive by Ellie Hendricks to the wall in left center, spearing it one-handed in the web of his glove before grazing up against the wall.

The second was made in the seventh inning with the bases loaded when Agee had to go the other way into right center for a liner by Paul Blair, diving for it one-handed at the last second as the wind kept carrying the ball away from him.

Although the second catch was more dramatic because of the acrobatics involved, both Agee and Hodges agreed the first was the better of the two.

"It was," said Hodges, "better than Glavito's and as good as Amoros."

Hodges witnessed both those catches also.

He was a young catcher with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947 when Glavito made a leaping one-handed catch of Joe DiMaggio's bid for a homer in the sixth game.

In 1955, Hodges was playing first base for the Dodgers when Amoros made a game-saving catch of a drive by Yogi Berra in the seventh game, racing toward the left field foul line with his glove hand extended to grab the drive as the Dodgers won their first Series.

While ranking his first catch over his second, Agee also ranked them over his homer.

"The homer meant only one run," he said simply. "The catches saved more than that."

The homer came off Jim Palmer, who gave up two more runs in the second inning when Gentry doubled after a walk to Jerry Grote and a single by Bud Harrelson.

The Mets pecked way for a sixth inning run on Ken Boswell's single and a double by Grote, then wrapped up the scoring with a seventh-inning homer by Ed Kranepool.

Gentry had the Orioles stopped on three singles until he loaded the bases with three walks and Ryan came on to throw the pitch that Blair lashed to right center and led to Agee's acrobatics.

Then, in the ninth, a pinch-s-

Badgers Only Unbeaten Dist. Team

The Arkadelphia Badgers are the only undefeated team in Div. 4AA football after six weeks of the schedule and their most serious opposition for the balance of the season is Fairview on Nov. 7th and Hope on Nov. 21st.

The Badgers further proved their claim to a top ranking in Class AA ball by defeating Magnolia 25 to 8 this past week.

In 4AA West Hope leads with 1-0 (Arkadelphia has not played a West conference game) but also faces a big test this week when they play at Fairview.

In other action Arkadelphia plays at Smackover; Lincoln plays at Malvern; Magnolia and Warren open.

Other results from last week: Fairview 48 Lincoln 0; Camden 27 Malvern 16; Hope 47 NLR Oak Grove 7; Warren 13 Smackover 0.

Highlights of last week's plays included: Hope's Ronny Brown, a guard, scored one touchdown, two field goals, and 5 extra points for total of 17 points; Fairview's Lewis Pryor scored on a 96-yard kickoff return and a 55 yard punt return plus a three yard sneak for 18 points; Camden's Bill Jordan had a 70-yard scoring run from scrimmage. Arkadelphia had 176 yards passing and 175 yards rushing in a balanced attack against Magnolia.

Jimmy Harris of Fairview increased his lead in the individual scoring leadership. He now has 59 points on seven td's and 17 extra points. Thomas Dancy of Camden moved into second place with 46 points.

Harris of Fairview and Brown of Hope now share the lead in the PAT department with 17 each. Brown takes the field goal lead with two.

Camden has taken over the team rushing leadership with 1,266 yards and Hope is second with 1,235. Fairview continues to lead in Defense against rushing allowing only 269 yards. Arkadelphia leads in Pass Offense with 938 yards and Magnolia on defense against passes with 354 yds. Arkadelphia leads in team scoring with 185 points and Hope

That sends the teams back to Saturday's opening game pitchers for today's fourth game. Seaver starting against Mike Cuellar, Cuellar won that one 4-1.

After that game, no one was talking about someone up there liking the Mets.

But now they are again.

Knicks Out to Ruin Another Coaches' Debut

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK (AP) — Having spoiled one National Basketball Association coaching debut Tuesday night, the New York Knicks are out to ruin another tonight. This one may be more difficult.

The Knicks opened the NBA's 24th season with an easy 126-101 victory over Lennie Wilkens' Seattle SuperSonics. Tonight they go up against the Royals in Cincinnati, with Bob C Cousy, ex-Boston Celtic great and later coach at Boston College, handling a pro team for the first time.

The Knicks trailed Seattle only in the opening minutes as Bob Rule, who finished with 27, scored the Sonics' first 11 points. But Bill Bradley and Willis Reed shot the Knicks into the lead and Reed and Dick Barnett paced a 22-6 burst that opened a 95-63 spread late in the third period.

Reed finished with 28 points, Barnett 22, Walt Frazier 16, Dave DeBusschere 13 and Bradley and Mike Riordan 12 apiece.

The game also marked the return of New York's Dave Stallworth, who suffered a heart attack two years ago. Stallworth scored eight points and grabbed six rebounds.

The Knicks, among the favored teams in the NBA's Eastern Division, discounted their easy triumph as a true measure of their ability.

"Ask me how good we are after we've played 81 games, not one," said Bradley. "Playing Oscar Robertson and Cincinnati will be a good graduated test. We must consider that Cincinnati is a better team than Seattle."

Captain Reed echoed Bradley. "We played very well but the Cincinnati game will tell us more," he said. "I don't mean to belittle Seattle, but Cincinnati is a better organized team and always gives us trouble."

Key College Games Are on Tap Sat.

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets and Baltimore Orioles aren't the only ones involved in important action this week. College football has some key games on tap Saturday.

For openers, there's third-ranked Southern California against No. 11 Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. Then there's fifth-ranked Penn State at Syracuse, with the winner a good bet to capture the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of Eastern supremacy.

Seventh-ranked Tennessee and Alabama, No. 20, have a crucial Southeastern Conference clash at Birmingham, California faces eighth-ranked UCLA in Los Angeles with the loser becoming a Rose Bowl spectator and Michigan, ranked 13th, is at Michigan State and very little has to be at stake for that one to be a thriller.

Whoever said quit while you're ahead has our thanks, after a 43-13 week, best of the season. But we can't, since there's still more than a month to go.

Notre Dame over Southern California — Both teams walked Northwestern, USC by a 46-6 count and Notre Dame by 35-10. But ND's Joe Theismann has come of age as a quarterback while USC's Jimmy Jones and Clarence Davis have never played in the South Bend snake pit.

Penn State over Syracuse — Syracuse ranks sixth nationally in total defense. Penn State doesn't care about the numbers — just about its own defense, which put the clamps on high-powered West Virginia last Saturday.

Alabama over Tennessee — 'Bama may have been looking ahead during last week's incredible loss to Vanderbilt. Bear Bryant will make sure the Crimson Tide is looking in the right direction this time.

UCLA over California — Dennis Dummit, Greg Jones and Mickey Cureton lead Bruins' potent offense past Cal's sticky defense.

Michigan over Michigan State — Wolverines smell roses, the Pasadena, Calif., kind, after last week's 30-21 upset of Purdue.

Ohio State over Minnesota — Merrily we roll along.

Louisiana State over Kentucky — Kentucky only wins on alternate weekends, and this isn't one of them.

Florida over North Carolina — Gators have only beaten the Tar Heels once, but super sophs John Reeves and Carlos Alvarez don't know that.

Oklahoma over Colorado — Sooners lost a tough one to Texas, and Colorado will pay for it.

Missouri over Oklahoma State — State had last week off, and this will be an off-week, too.

Post Keeps Rushing Lead in the AFL

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Post, the speedy San Diego Chargers running back, maintained his American Football League rushing lead, according to league statistics released today.

However Floyd Little of the Denver Broncos, who gained over 100 yards for the third time Sunday, has edged to within eight yards of Post. Little ran for 102 yards and a total of 364 for the year. Post, held to 31 yards in 14 carries, has 372.

In the three other major offensive categories the leaders remained unchanged.

Rookie quarterback Greg Cook of Cincinnati is the No. 1 passer with 34 of 61 pass completions good for 601 yards and six touchdowns. Oakland's Fred Biletnikoff leads the pass receivers with 29 catches for 391 yards and four TDs while Jim Turner of the New York Jets has accounted for the most points with 45 on 11 field goals and 12 extra points.

Other leaders are: Paul Maguire, Buffalo, punting, 48.4 average; Butch Byrd, Buffalo, interceptions with six; Mercury Morris, Miami, kickoff returns, with a 33.1 yard average; and Nolan Smith, Kansas City, a 14.2 average on six punt returns.

Can't Vision Mets as Team of Destiny

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles haven't been swept along by the emotional tide of enthusiasm shown by New York fans for their darling Mets.

The Orioles don't look on the Mets as a team of destiny, a bunch of supermen, or even a ball club with momentum.

But, unless they break out of a horrid hitting slump, the favored Orioles could lose the 1969 World Series. After dropping a 5-0 decision Tuesday, Baltimore fell behind 2-1 in the best-of-7 series.

"When I walk past them, I hear them breathing," Baltimore right fielder Frank Robinson said. "So I know they're human. When one of them takes off and flies, I'll believe that superman stuff."

"Team of destiny?" Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said after Tuesday's game. "It wasn't destiny today. It was Agee's good legs and fielding ability. It was the good arms of Gentry and Ryan."

Tommie Agee, who belted a home run leading off the New York Mets first inning, made two spectacular catches in the outfield to prevent five Baltimore runs from scoring.

Rookie Gary Gentry, a winner in his first World Series start, allowed Baltimore three singles in 6 2-3 innings, and Nolan Ryan yielded an infield single in relief the rest of the way.

The Orioles left 11 runners stranded, twice being retired with the bases loaded, as their team batting average for three games dipped to .133. They have had six singles in the last 22 innings.

The Mets, with only a .194 average, have made the most of their few hits and have come up with the big defensive plays to throttle Baltimore threats.

Agee snared a drive to deep left center by Ellie Hendricks with two on and two out in the fourth inning Tuesday, and made a diving catch of Paul Blair's bases-loaded five with two outs in the seventh.

"Our players aren't down on themselves," Robinson said. "I can see that. They aren't hanging their heads, feeling sorry for themselves, cursing the other team and hollering 'lucky guys.' We're just giving credit to the Mets for good plays."

"They don't have momentum," Weaver said in answer to a question about the Mets' comeback after losing the opening game.

"If (Mike) Cuellar one-hits them tomorrow and we score one run on two hits and win, does that give us the momentum?" he asked rhetorically.

"We've snapped out of hitting slumps before," Weaver said. "We had two tough games in the playoffs against Minnesota, and then we got 18 hits in the third game."

Cuellar, the left-hander who won the first game 4-1 on a six-hitter, will again be matched against Tom Seaver. Cuellar won 23 games during the regular season and Seaver won 25.

"Good pitching is tough, no matter who you are," Weaver said. "But I think we'll do better these pitchers the second time around. We have some good hitters who are due to break loose."

Weaver, who has maintained all along that he respected the underdog Mets, said he has had only two surprises so far.

"The biggest surprise," he said, "is that Gentry is a much better pitcher than I had been told."

"I also expected more excitement out of the New York fans. I thought they were rather subdued."

Michigan End Is Lineman of the Week

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Preseason promotion billed Michigan tight end Jim Mandich as a prime All-American candidate.

Weakened by flu, the senior captain of the Wolverines passed for 156 yards and a touchdown as Michigan upset ninth-ranked Purdue 31-20.

He also set up two other touchdowns and a field goal with his sure-handed receiving, earning him Lineman of the Week honors from the Associated Press.

"It's a great honor," he said. "But most of my interest now lies with the team. We're well on our way to a Big Ten championship."

Those are confident words for a member of a team that has only played one Big Ten game this season. But the feeling at Ann Arbor is that the Purdue game could have been the biggest hurdle of the season towards a Rose Bowl trip.

"As far as pass receiving goes, I would have to say Saturday was my best game so far, although I have blocked better," Mandich said, admitting fine play and criticizing himself in the same breath.

He said he felt the game untracked him and the team and gave "a tremendous boost essential for any Big Ten championship hopes."

The dark-haired economics major, who is a look-alike to all time great All-American half-back Willie Heston of Michigan (1901-1904), has grabbed 20 passes this season for 262 yards and two touchdowns. Purdue coach Jack Mollenkopf summed up the story of his team's first loss this way: "We couldn't stop Mandich from catching the ball."

"He's a very reliable receiver," said U-M coach Bo Schembechler, who is not one to heap individual praise.

The record book proves Schembechler right. Mandich ranks second in career receptions at Michigan with 89 to Jack Clancy's 132 and third in yardage with 1,094, although he should pass Lowell Perry for second place in a week or two.

The 6-foot-3, 220-pound Mandich, who is from Solon, Ohio, threw the football into the stands after his TD Saturday and the Wolverines drew 15-yard penalty as a result.

"I can't forgive him for throwing the ball in the stands," deadpanned Schembechler. "But," he added, breaking into a grin, "I love that guy."

Basketball on Scene in Conference

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Play for keeps doesn't start until Dec. 1, but Southwest Conference basketball teams will edge into the sporting scene today with the opening of fall workouts.

Texas A&M's defending SWC champions will be trying to fill three big gaps—the losses to graduation of Ronnie Peret, Billy Bob Barnett and Sonny Benefield.

Coach Shelby Metcalf will have senior forward Mike Heilmann and seven-foot center Steve Niles returning. Other lettermen reporting include seniors Bill Brown and Oliver Biggers, juniors, Bill Cooksey, and Roddy McAlpine.

Second-place Baylor returns two-time All-SWC forward Tommy Bowman and the No. 4 scorer in the conference last year, Larry Gatewood.

Baylor's 10-4 record last year was second to A&M's 12-2.

Along with David Sibley, Baylor has outstanding potential. Only five of last year's top 12 scorers return. Besides the Baylor duo there's Gene Phillips of SMU (the leader at 21.3 points, Wayne Doyal of Texas (9th) and Tom Myer of Rice (12th).

Bob Bass will have 10 letter winners, including four starters, on hand for his first season at Texas Tech. Steve Hardin is the only senior in the group. Besides Doyal, Texas returns four lettermen. However, the Longhorns draw off an outstanding 1969 freshman team and expect help from Lynn Howden and Terry Mullins.

Texas Christian returns guards Rick Wittenbracker and Jeff Harp, along with forwards Doug Boyd and Norm Wintermeyer. TCU's Johnny Swaim also looks for help from 6-foot-7 Steve Spelny a star at Bakersfield, Calif., Junior College last season.

Arkansas boasts promising newcomers Almer Lee, who averaged 25 points in junior college last year, and Vernon Murphy, who set a school freshman scoring record, James Eldredge, Arkansas boasts promising newcomers Almer Lee, who averaged 25 points in junior college last year, and Vernon Murphy, who set a school freshman scoring record, James Eldredge, Rick Tanneberger and Robert McKenzie return.

Rice has four regulars off last year's 6-8 club, plus hot-shooting freshmen Ted Melady and Don Snyder.

Sturgeon Caught in File Net

WELLINGTON, Ont. (AP) — Cecil B. Insley and his son, Bruce, caught more than they bargained for when they went fishing for herring. They landed a 154-pound, 7-foot-4 sturgeon in a file net.

Franklin Pierce was the only U.S. president to retain the same Cabinet for four years without any changes.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — End zone tickets, usually sold for $6, will be available at $1 each to high school and junior high school students at the Arkansas Razorbacks' remaining Little Rock games this year.

The games match the fourth-ranked Razorbacks with lowly Wichita State and Southwest Conference for Texas Tech. Ticket Manager Vera Moody announced the price cut plan.

Free-running Dog Ban Is Lifted by G&F

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — The state Game and Fish Commission voted 4-2 Tuesday to end its ban on free running dogs.

The vote was part of a compromise which included an agreement by the Arkansas Fox Hunters Association to drop a suit challenging the power of the commission.

The suit is pending before the state Supreme Court. The association has been one of the fiercest opponents of the regulation against free running dogs.

The commission also agreed to provide $155,000 for a four-year study to determine the status of free running dogs.

The 4-2 vote came on a motion by Commissioner Joe D. Scott of Nashville. Voting for it were Scott, Newt Halley of Rogers, El Gordon of Morrilton and Ralph Griffin of Jonesboro.

Those who voted against the motion were Tom Pugh of Portland and Raymond Farris of Bliscoe. Commissioner Lloyd McCollum of Stuttgart abstained.

McCollum and Farris tried to persuade the other commissioners to delay a vote until those who approve of the regulation had a chance to give their side of the issue.

Razorbacks Work Out in Sweat Clothes

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Coach Frank Broyles put the Arkansas Razorbacks through a 90-minute workout in sweat clothes Tuesday and said they would work in pads the rest of this week.

Arkansas doesn't play this weekend. Its next game will be Oct. 25 in Little Rock against Wichita State, which has a 1-4 record.

Broyles said Dick Bumpas, a defensive tackle, and Cliff Powell, a middle linebacker, looked good in films of Arkansas' 21-7 victory over Baylor last week.

Bumpas made 2 tackles and six assists and Powell made 15 tackles and six assists.

Hope Hasn't Beat Cards in 3 Years

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

About 48 hours from now, Hope and Camden Fairview will clash once more on the football gridiron. The stakes are considerable in 4-AA's Western Division for 1969 and statewide Class AA ranking, and nerves are already taut with anticipation.

The Fairview Cardinals are favored with their 4-1 record and an average of five touchdowns a game, and it has been three years since Hope has beaten the Cards.

Physically, both teams rank in a tie as the largest in 4-AA, with 190-pounders and up abounding in both camps.

You would think that Hope would be keyed to a pitch of fever intensity, but so far this has been not so. However, that will be the requirement Friday night to beat a loaded and cocky Fairview powerhouse.

With the attitude and determination to avoid mental letdown, the Bobcats cannot lose. Coach Ronnie Higgins can be proud of one of the state's top kicking games and an overflow of depth at the running-back positions.

Artis Martin got most of the headlines earlier as the workhorse, but fellow senior Thomas Lloyd has applied his speed well in accounting for four TD's this fall. Gary Jones has been commended all season for his fine blocking and power running, and Isaiah Hendrix is gaining confidence quickly after a touchdown against Oak Grove and a 92-yard scoring kickoff return Monday night for the "B" squad.

Then there are the pair of sophomores who also start on defense, Ray Wheelington and Rusty Quillin. Ray gained 191 yards rushing in an earlier "B" game and has been returning kicks well, but Rusty has to be the surprise runner.

A lineman for the Bobkittens last fall, Quillin has turned into a smart ball-carrier with a sense for daylight which got him 87 yards and two six-pointers against Oak Grove and 110 yards on the ground in one half for the "B" squad Monday.

Up in the line, the first-teamers have moved the opponent out when the big play or drive was imperative, and the reserves are making much progress with their added experience on Friday nights in addition to the Monday "B" games.

Last year this writer lauded both Hope and Fairview for their tremendous kicking and kick returning and coverages, and what resulted was a night of short punts and fumbles.

Once more this time the two schools boast fine kickers (the same pair, in fact) in the Cardinals' Jimmy Harris and Bobcat David Still, and you have to think that their performing will share a big load on the outcome along with the defensive performing of both teams.

As injuries go, Hope defensive tackles Jim Alford and Lynn Norton should be able to start. Norton, with a broken thumb, will play in a plastic cast while Alford's recurring ankle problem is much better this week. Fairview lost their best blocking back, three-year starter Perry Johnson, to appendicitis, but Harris is an All-State fullback that can carry the load well.

In an early analysis, both Hope and Fairview hope to be able to move the ball on the ground against a pair of mighty stingy defenses. As passing goes, the Cards' secondary won't match the Bobcats', but QB Lewis Pryor can scramble out of the pocket and be dangerous for the Redbirds if his receivers are covered.

Tomorrow night sends the Yer-

ger Junior High Bobkittens back into action at Nashville for the Scrappers' Homecoming, and the rivalry has become intense even on this lower level.

Game time is 7:30 p.m., as Coach Gaylord Solomon's Kittens try to pull out of a disappointing two-game losing string which ended hopes of an unbeaten season.

Davidson's Slade College Back of Week

By HEIRSCHL NISSESON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Gordon Slade will never make them forget basketball at hoop-crazy Davidson College but he's doing his best to erase the memory of a lot of losing football seasons.

Slade, a possible first-round pro football draft choice, passed Davidson to a 37-7 rout of favored Richmond Saturday, completing 32 of 43 passes for 285 yards and two touchdowns while scoring three times himself.

For that performance he was named college Back of the Week by The Associated Press.

It put the Wildcats in the Southern Conference driver's seat and gave them an over-all 4-0 record for the first time since 1927.

"Gordon's not just a great Southern Conference quarterback, he's a great athlete by any college standards," says Coach Homer Smith of the 6-foot-1, 195-pound senior from Evansville, Ind.

"His leadership means as much to us as his throwing arm. And he's got a marvelous throwing arm, quick and strong. But he relies on a good head as much as on his God-given throwing ability."

"In fact, he's so intelligent it's a challenge to me. He's a joy to coach, but it's also difficult to coach a boy that sharp. He remembers everything you've told him before."

Slade had one pass intercepted Saturday and Smith takes the blame for that.

"Gordon had already decided on a play which would have been the right one, but I sent in another pass play and they picked it off," said Smith.

Slade's outstanding game was last year against Connecticut when he completed 30 of 36 passes, including one on which he shifted the ball from his right hand to his left and shoveled a completion that way.

Pro football's gain may be baseball's loss. Slade is an outfielder on the Davidson team, beating .429 as a sophomore and .383 last season and being named to the NCAA District 3 team both years.

For this football season, Slade has connected on 84 of 124 passes for 1,010 yards and nine touchdowns.

Agee's Circus Catches Key to Victory

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Tommie Agee's circus catches plucked the Baltimore Orioles' feathers in the third game of the World Series. Little Bud Harrelson has been picking their pockets from the start.

"We're playing our game now — good defense," said Harrelson, New York's sure-handed shortstop, after the Mets trimmed the Orioles 5-0 Tuesday for a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series.

Harrelson handled eight chances flawlessly as the Mets stymied Baltimore's big hitters again with solid defensive baseball. He personally disposed of the Orioles in the fifth inning by gobbling up three tricky ground balls and tossing out the side.

"They tell me that ties a World Series record . . . means six million other guys," he joked.

"We didn't play our best in the first game," the 150-pound bantam continued. "We did in the second game and again today. Every time they got something started, we came up with the big plays and took them out of it."

"If Agee doesn't make the first catch they've got two runs. If he doesn't make the second one, it's three more and a whole different ball game."

"They did the same thing to us in the first game at Baltimore. But I'm sure we're making them believe in us now."

Harrelson has had 15 chances without an error in the first three Series games. He also has poked a pair of hits in seven trips to the plate, including a two-out single in the second inning Tuesday that gave pitcher Gary Gentry the opportunity to double home two big runs.

The Mets' shortstop was involved in the game's lone rhabarb as well. On first base with a walk in the fourth, he broke for second when Oriole pitcher Jim Palmer's pickoff throw went astray . . .

Harrelson was awarded second on an interference call against Powell, bringing Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver onto the field for a brief, but heated, argument with the umpires.

"I guess Powell had reached around for the ball and I was going the same way," said Harrelson, who gave away five inches and about 90 pounds in his comic wrestling match with the hulking Baltimore slugger.

"He was a big octopus. I felt like a baby kangaroo in a pocket."

"It was a mismatch," commented Mets skipper Gil Hodges.

Hodges was optimistic about the odds which were stacked against them after the Orioles beat 25-game winner Tom Seaver in the Series opener.

"We're in good shape," he said. "The next step is winning the third one."

Seaver was set to start again today and Jerry Koosman's second-game winner, will follow on Thursday. "I couldn't plan for anything better," Hodges said.

"The left-handers got us into the Series by beating Atlanta," said Kranepool, who smacked an eight-inning homer for New York's last run. "It looks like the right-handers have got to carry us in the Series."

"This could be the only one I play. I might get one more chance if there's a sixth game. But what's the difference as long as we win it?"

"Winning is everything," added Gentry, who picked up the victory but needed seventh-inning relief help from Nolan Ryan. "I might have felt bad about coming out for a while, but you watch us play all year and see the moves Gil makes, and you know they're never wrong."

Cleon Jones, who batted .340 during the regular season but has had just one hit—a first-inning single in the opener—in 12 Series at-bats, wasn't complaining either.

"I hope my turn comes tomorrow," he said. "But as long as we win I don't need a turn. If we win it, I don't care if I get another hit."

The first known American-born composer of music was Francis Hopkinson, a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Orioles Still Believe They Will Win

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Despite a suspicion to the contrary, the Baltimore Orioles continue to deny that the New York Mets and the man upstairs have formed some sort of strange alliance.

"You know what somebody told me?" coach Joe Pignatano asked with a laugh in the Mets dressing room after the club nicknamed the Amazin' game that happened in the third game that will never be wiped out—Agee's catches, already ranked among the best made in the entire history of the series along with those by Al Glonfriddo and Sandy Amoros.

The first was made in the fourth inning with two men on when Agee chased a drive by Ellie Hendricks to the wall in left center, spearing it one-handed in the web of his glove before grazing up against the wall.

The second was made in the seventh inning with the bases loaded when Agee had to go the other way into right center for a liner by Paul Blair, diving for it one-handed at the last second as the wind kept carrying the ball away from him.

Although the second catch was more dramatic because of the acrobatics involved, both Agee and Hodges agreed the first was the better of the two. "It was," said Hodges, "better than Glonfriddo's and as good as Amoros."

Hodges witnessed both those catches also. He was a young catcher with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947 when Glonfriddo made a leaping one-handed catch of Joe DiMaggio's bid for a homer in the sixth game.

In 1955, Hodges was playing first base for the Dodgers when Amoros made a game-saving catch of a drive by Yogi Berra in the seventh game, racing toward the left field foul line with his glove hand extended to grab the drive as the Dodgers won their first Series.

While ranking his first catch over his second, Agee also ranked them over his homer. "The homer meant only one run," he said simply. "The catches saved more than that."

The homer came off Jim Palmer, who gave up two more runs in the second inning when Gentry doubled after a walk to Jerry Grote and a single by Bud Harrelson.

The Mets pecked way for a sixth-inning run on Ken Boswell's single and a double by Grote, then wrapped up the scoring with a seventh-inning homer by Ed Kranepool.

Gentry had the Orioles stopped on three singles until he loaded the bases with three walks and Ryan came on to throw the pitch that Blair lashed to right center and led to Agee's acrobatics.

Then, in the ninth, a pinch shape.

"It's only one win in the whole series," said Weaver. "The fourth win is the most important. If you get the fourth win it makes the other three important. If you win the fourth it wipes out all the losses."

"Who knows—it (Tuesday's victory) might not be important when it's all over."

When it's all over—no matter who wins—there are two things that happened in the third game that will never be wiped out—Agee's catches, already ranked among the best made in the entire history of the series along with those by Al Glonfriddo and Sandy Amoros.

The first was made in the fourth inning with two men on when Agee chased a drive by Ellie Hendricks to the wall in left center, spearing it one-handed in the web of his glove before grazing up against the wall.

Badgers Only Unbeaten Dist. Team

The Arkadelphia Badgers are the only undefeated team in Div. 4AA football after six weeks of the schedule and their most serious opposition for the balance of the season is Fairview on Nov. 7th and Hope on Nov. 21st.

The Badgers further proved their claim to a top ranking in Class AA ball by defeating Magnolia 25 to 8 this past week.

In 4AA West Hope leads with 1-0 (Arkadelphia has not played a West conference game) but also faces a big test this week when they play at Fairview.

In other action Arkadelphia plays at Malvern; Lincoln and Warren open.

Other results from last week: Fairview 48 Lincoln 0; Camden 27 Malvern 16; Hope 47 NLR Oak Grove 7; Warren 13 Smackover 0.

Highlights of last week's play included: Hope's Ronny Brown, a guard, scored one touchdown, two field goals, and 5 extra points for total of 17 points; Fairview's Lewis Pryor scored on a 96-yard kickoff return and a 55-yard punt return plus a three yard sneak for 18 points; Camden's Bill Jordan had a 70-yard scoring run from scrimmage, Arkadelphia had 176 yards passing and 175 yards rushing in a balanced attack against Magnolia.

Jimmy Harris of Fairview increased his lead in the individual scoring leadership. He now has 59 points on seven TD's and 17 extra points. Thomas Dansby of Camden moved into second place with 46 points.

Harris of Fairview and Brown of Hope now share the lead in the PAT department with 17 each. Brown takes the field goal lead with two.

Camden has taken over the team rushing leadership with 1,266 yards and Hope is second with 1,235. Fairview continues to lead in Defense against rushing allowing only 269 yards. Arkadelphia leads in Pass Offense with 938 yards and Magnolia on defense against passes with 354 yds. Arkadelphia leads in team scoring with 185 points and Hope gle by Dave May around a pair of walks loaded the bases with two out and put Ryan in jeopardy. But he ended it by getting Blair on three straight strikes.

That sends the teams back to Saturday's opening game pitchers for today's fourth game. Seaver starting against Mike Cuellar, Cuellar won that one 4-1.

After that game, no one was talking about someone up there liking the Mets.

But now they are again.

Knicks Out to Ruin Another Coaches' Debut

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK (AP) — Having spoiled one National Basketball Association coaching debut Tuesday night, the New York Knicks are out to ruin another tonight. This one may be more difficult.

The Knicks opened the NBA's 24th season with an easy 126-101 victory over Lennie Wilkens' Seattle SuperSonics. Tonight they go up against the Royals in Cincinnati, with Bob Cousy, ex-Boston Celtic great and later coach at Boston College, handling a pro team for the first time.

The Knicks trailed Seattle only in the opening minutes as Bob Rule, who finished with 27, scored the Sonics' first 11 points. But Bill Bradley and Willis Reed shot the Knicks into the lead and Reed and Dick Barnett paced a 22-6 burst that opened a 95-63 spread late in the third period.

Reed finished with 28 points, Barnett 22, Walt Frazier 16, Dave DeBusschere 13 and Bradley and Mike Riordan 12 apiece.

The game also marked the return of New York's Dave Stallworth, who suffered a heart attack two years ago. Stallworth scored eight points and grabbed six rebounds.

The Knicks, among the favored teams in the NBA's Eastern Division, discounted their easy triumph as a true measure of their ability.

"Ask me how good we are after we've played 81 games, not one," said Bradley. "Playing Oscar Robertson and Cincinnati will be a good graduated test. We must consider that Cincinnati is a better team than Seattle."

Captain Reed echoed Bradley. "We played very well but the Cincinnati game will tell us more," he said. "I don't mean to belittle Seattle, but Cincinnati is a better organized team and always gives us trouble."

After that game, no one was talking about someone up there liking the Mets.

But now they are again.

Key College Games Are on Tap Sat.

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets and Baltimore Orioles aren't the only ones involved in important action this week. College football has some key games on tap Saturday.

For openers, there's third-ranked Southern California against No. 11 Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. Then there's fifth-ranked Penn State at Syracuse, with the winner a good bet to capture the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of Eastern supremacy.

Seventh-ranked Tennessee and Alabama, No. 20, have a crucial Southeastern Conference clash at Birmingham, California faces eighth-ranked UCLA in Los Angeles with the loser becoming a Rose Bowl spectator and Michigan, ranked 13th, is at Michigan State and very little has to be at stake for that one to be a thriller.

Whoever said quit while you're ahead has our thanks, after a 43-13 week, best of the season. But we can't, since there's still more than a month to go.

Notre Dame over Southern California — Both teams walked Northwestern, USC by a 48-6 count and Notre Dame by 35-10. But ND's Joe Theismann has come of age as a quarterback while USC's Jimmy Jones and Clarence Davis have never played in the South Bend snake pit.

Penn State over Syracuse — Syracuse ranks sixth nationally in total defense. Penn State doesn't care about the numbers — just about its own defense, which put the clamps on high-powered West Virginia last Saturday.

Alabama over Tennessee — 'Bama may have been looking ahead during last week's incredible loss to Vanderbilt. Bear Bryant will make sure the Crimson Tide is looking in the right direction this time.

UCLA over California — Dennis Dummit, Greg Jones and Mickey Cureton lead Bruins' potent offense past Cal's sticky defense.

Michigan over Michigan State — Wolverines smell roses, the Pasadena, Calif., kind, after last week's 30-21 upset of Purdue.

Ohio State over Minnesota — Merrily we roll along.

Louisiana State over Kentucky — Kentucky only wins on alternate weekends, and this isn't one of them.

Florida over North Carolina — Gators have only beaten the Tar Heels once, but super soph John Reeves and Carlos Alvarez don't know that.

Oklahoma over Colorado — Sooners lost a tough one to Texas, and Colorado will pay for it.

Missouri over Oklahoma State — State had last week off, and this will be an off-week, too.

Post Keeps Rushing Lead in the AFL

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Post, the speedy San Diego Chargers running back, maintained his American Football League rushing lead, according to league statistics released today.

However Floyd Little of the Denver Broncos, who gained over 100 yards for the third time Sunday, has edged to within eight yards of Post. Little ran for 102 yards and a total of 364 for the year. Post, held to 31 yards in 14 carries, has 372. In the three other major offensive categories the leaders remained unchanged.

Rookie quarterback Greg Cook of Cincinnati is the No. 1 passer with 34 of 61 pass completions good for 601 yards and six touchdowns. Oakland's Fred Biletnikoff leads the pass receivers with 29 catches for 391 yards and four TDs while Jim Turner of the New York Jets has accounted for the most points with 45 on 11 field goals and 12 extra points.

Other leaders are: Paul Maguire, Buffalo, punting, 48.4 average; Butch Byrd, Buffalo, interceptions with six; Mercury Morris, Miami, kickoff returns, with a 33.1 yard average; and Nolan Smith, Kansas City, a 14.2 average on six punt returns.

Can't Vision Mets as Team of Destiny

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles haven't been swept along by the emotional tide of enthusiasm shown by New York fans for their darling Mets.

The Orioles don't look on the Mets as a team of destiny, a bunch of supermen, or even a ball club with momentum.

But, unless they break out of a horrid hitting slump, the favored Orioles could lose the 1969 World Series. After dropping a 5-0 decision Tuesday, Baltimore fell behind 2-1 in the best-of-7 series.

"When I walk past them, I hear them breathing," Baltimore right fielder Frank Robinson said. "So I know they're human. When one of them takes off and flies, I'll believe that superman stuff."

"Team of destiny?" Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said after Tuesday's game. "It wasn't destiny today. It was Agee's good legs and fielding ability. It was the good arms of Gentry and Ryan."

Tommie Agee, who belted a home run leading off the New York Mets first inning, made two spectacular catches in the outfield to prevent five Baltimore runs from scoring.

Rookie Gary Gentry, a winner in his first World Series start, allowed Baltimore three singles in 6 2-3 innings, and Nolan Ryan yielded an infield single in relief the rest of the way.

The Orioles left 11 runners stranded, twice being retired with the bases loaded, as their team batting average for three games dipped to .133. They have had six singles in the last 22 innings.

The Mets, with only a .194 average, have made the most of their few hits and have come up with the big defensive plays to throttle Baltimore threats.

Agee snared a drive to deep left center by Ellie Hendricks with two on and two out in the fourth inning Tuesday, and made a diving catch of Paul Blair's bases-loaded five with two outs in the seventh.

"Our players aren't down on themselves," Robinson said. "I can see that. They aren't hanging their heads, feeling sorry for themselves, cursing the other team and hollering 'lucky guys.' We're just giving credit to the Mets for good plays."

"They don't have momentum," Weaver said in answer to a question about the Mets' comeback after losing the opening game.

"If (Mike) Cuellar one-hits them tomorrow and we score one run on two hits and win, does that give us the momentum?" he asked rhetorically.

"We've snapped out of hitting slumps before," Weaver said. "We had two tough games in the playoffs against Minnesota, and then we got 18 hits in the third game."

Cuellar, the left-hander who won the first game 4-1 on a six-hitter, will again be matched against Tom Seaver. Cuellar won 23 games during the regular season and Seaver won 25.

"Good pitching is tough, no matter who you are," Weaver said. "But I think we'll do better these pitchers the second time around. We have some good hitters who are due to break loose."

Weaver, who has maintained all along that he respected the underdog Mets, said he has had only two surprises so far.

"The biggest surprise," he said, "is that Gentry is a much better pitcher than I had been told."

"I also expected more excitement out of the New York fans. I thought they were rather subdued."

Novena of Grace

A novena is a nine-day period of devotion for the purpose of seeking a special gift from God. It is patterned after the action of the apostles, who gathered together for prayer during the nine days between Ascension Thursday and the Pentecost.

Michigan Ends Is Lineman of the Week

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Preseason promotion billed Michigan tight end Jim Mandich as a prime All-American candidate.

Weakened by flu, the senior captain of the Wolverines played a poor opening game. The next week he got better and the week after that stayed about the same.

But last Saturday Mandich lived up to his billing when he caught 10 of Don Moorhead's passes for 156 yards and a touchdown as Michigan upset ninth-ranked Purdue 31-20.

He also set up two other touchdowns and a field goal with his sure-handed receiving, earning him Lineman of the Week honors from the Associated Press.

"It's a great honor," he said. "But most of my interest now lies with the team. We're well on our way to a Big Ten championship."

Those are confident words for a member of a team that has only played one Big Ten game this season. But the feeling at Ann Arbor is that the Purdue game could have been the biggest hurdle of the season towards a Rose Bowl trip.

"As far as pass receiving goes, I would have to say Saturday was my best game so far, although I have blocked better," Mandich said, admitting fine play and criticizing himself in the same breath.

He said he felt the game untracked him and the team and gave "a tremendous boost essential for any Big Ten championship hopes."

The dark-haired economics major, who is a look-alike to all time great All-American half-back Willie Heston of Michigan (1901-1904), has grabbed 20 passes this season for 262 yards and two touchdowns. Purdue coach Jack Mollenkopf summed up the story of his team's first loss this way: "We couldn't stop Mandich from catching the ball."

"He's a very reliable receiver," said U-M coach Bo Schembechler, who is not one to heap individual praise.

The record book proves Schembechler right. Mandich ranks second in career receptions at Michigan with 89 to Jack Clancy's 132 and third in yardage with 1,094, although he should pass Lowell Perry for second place in a week or two.

The 6-foot-3, 220-pound Mandich, who is from Solon, Ohio, threw the football into the stands after his TD Saturday and the Wolverines drew 15-yard penalty as a result.

"I can't forgive him for throwing the ball in the stands," deadpanned Schembechler. "But," he added, breaking into a grin, "I love that guy."

Basketball on Scene in Conference

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Play for keeps doesn't start until Dec. 1, but Southwest Conference basketball teams will edge into the sporting scene today with the opening of fall workouts.

Texas A&M's defending SWC champions will be trying to fill three big gaps—the losses to graduation of Ronnie Peret, Billy Bob Barnett and Sonny Benefield.

Coach Shelby Metcalf will have senior forward Mike Heilmann and seven-foot center Steve Niles returning. Other lettermen reporting include seniors Bill Brown and Oliver Biggers, Juniors, Bill Cooksey, and Roddy McAlpine.

Second-place Baylor returns two-time All-SWC forward Tommy Bowman and the No. 4 scorer in the conference last year, Larry Gatewood.

Baylor's 10-4 record last year was second to A&M's 12-2.

Along with David Sibley, Baylor has outstanding potential. Only five of last year's top 12 scorers return. Besides the Baylor duo there's Gene Phillips of SMU (the leader at 21.3 points, Wayne Doyal of Texas (9th) and Tom Myer of Rice (12th).

Bob Bass will have 10 letter winners, including four starters, on hand for his first season at Texas Tech. Steve Hardin is the only senior in the group. Besides Doyal, Texas returns four lettermen. However, the Longhorns draw off an outstanding 1969 freshman team and expect help from Lynn Howden and Terry Mullins.

Texas Christian returns guards Rick Wittenbracker and Jeff Harp, along with forwards Doug Boyd and Norm Wintermeyer. TCU's Johnny Swaim also looks for help from 6-foot-7 Steve Spelny a star at Bakersfield, Calif., Junior College last season.

Arkansas boasts promising newcomers Almer Lee, who averaged 25 points in junior college last year, and Vernon Murphy, who set a school freshman scoring record. James Eldredge, Rick Tanneberger and Robert McKenzie return.

Rice has four regulars off last year's 6-8 club, plus hot-shooting freshmen Ted Melady and Don Snyder.

Sturgeon Caught in File Net

WELLINGTON, Ont. (AP) — Cecil B. Insley and his son, Bruce, caught more than they bargained for when they went fishing for herring. They landed a 154-pound, 7-foot-4 sturgeon in a file net.

Franklin Pierce was the only U.S. president to retain the same Cabinet for four years without any changes.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — End zone tickets, usually sold for $6, will be available at $1 each to high school and junior high school students at the Arkansas Razorbacks' remaining Little Rock games this year.

The games match the fourth-ranked Razorbacks with lowly Wichita State and Southwest Conference for Texas Tech. Ticket Manager Vera Moody announced the price cut plan.

Free-running Dog Ban Is Lifted by G&F

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — The state Game and Fish Commission voted 4-2 Tuesday to end its ban on free running dogs.

The vote was part of a compromise which included an agreement by the Arkansas Fox Hunters Association to drop a suit challenging the power of the commission.

The suit is pending before the state Supreme Court. The association has been one of the fiercest opponents of the regulation against free running dogs.

The commission also agreed to provide $155,000 for a four-

Wednesday, October 15, 1969

year study to determine the status of free running dogs.

The 4-2 vote came on a motion by Commissioner Joe D. Scott of Nashville. Voting for it were Scott, Newt Hailey of Rogers, Ed Gordon of Morrilton and Ralph Griffin of Jonesboro.

Those who voted against the motion were Tom Pugh of Portland and Raymond Farris of Biscoe. Commissioner Lloyd McCollum of Stuttgart abstained.

McCollum and Farris tried to persuade the other commissioners to delay a vote until those who approve of the regulation had a chance to give their side of the issue.

Razorbacks Work Out in Sweat Clothes

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Coach Frank Broyles put the Arkansas Razorbacks through a 90-minute workout in sweat clothes Tuesday and said they would work in pads the rest of this week.

Arkansas doesn't play this weekend. Its next game will be Oct. 25 in Little Rock against Wichita State, which has a 1-4 record.

Broyles said Dick Bumpas, a defensive tackle, and Cliff Powell, a middle linebacker, looked good in films of Arkansas' 21-7 victory over Baylor last week.

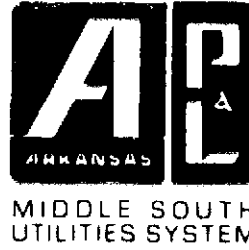

Bumpas made 2 tackles and six assists and Powell made 15 tackles and six assists.

Get rid of your hangups.

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

About 48 hours from now, Hope and Camden Fairview will clash once more on the football gridiron. The stakes are considerable in 4-AA's Western Division for 1969 and statewide Class AA ranking, and nerves are already taut with anticipation.

The Fairview Cardinals are favored with their 4-1 record and an average of five touchdowns a game, and it has been three years since Hope has beaten the Cards.

Physically, both teams rank in a tie as the largest in 4-AA, with 190-pounders and up abounding in both camps.

You would think that Hope would be keyed to a pitch of fever intensity, but so far this has been not so. However, that will be the requirement Friday night to beat a loaded and cocky Fairview powerhouse.

With the attitude and determination to avoid mental letdown, the Bobcats cannot lose. Coach Ronnie Higgins can be proud of one of the state's top kicking games and an overflow of depth at the running-back positions.

Artis Martin got most of the headlines earlier as the workhorse, but fellow senior Thomas Lloyd has applied his speed well in accounting for four TD's this fall. Gary Jones has been commended all season for his fine blocking and power running, and Isaiah Hendrix is gaining confidence quickly after a touchdown against Oak Grove and a 92-yard scoring kickoff return Monday night for the "B" squad.

Then there are the pair of sophomores who also start on defense, Ray Wheelington and Rusty Quillin. Ray gained 191 yards rushing in an earlier "B" game and has been returning kicks well, but Rusty has to be the surprise runner.

A lineman for the Bobkittens last fall, Quillin has turned into a smart ball-carrier with a sense for daylight which got him 87 yards and two six-pointers against Oak Grove and 110 yards on the ground in one half for the "B" squad Monday.

Up in the line, the first-teamers have moved the opponent out when the big play or drive was imperative, and the reserves are making much progress with their added experience on Friday nights in addition to the Monday "B" games.

Last year this writer lauded both Hope and Fairview for their tremendous kicking and kick returning and coverages, and what resulted was a night of short punts and fumbles.

Once more this time the two schools boast fine kickers (the same pair, in fact) in the Cardinals' Jimmy Harris and Bobcat David Still, and you have to think that their performing will share a big load on the outcome along with the defensive performing of both teams.

As injuries go, Hope defensive tackles Jim Alford and Lynn Norton should be able to start. Norton, with a broken thumb, will play in a plastic cast while Alford's recurring ankle problem is much better this week.

Fairview lost their best blocking back, three-year starter Perry Johnson, to appendicitis, but Harris is an All-State fullback that can carry the load well.

In an early analysis, both Hope and Fairview would be able to move the ball on the ground against a pair of mighty stingy defenses. As passing goes, the Cards' secondary won't match the Bobcats', but QB Lewis Pryor can scramble out of the pocket and be dangerous for the Redbirds if his receivers are covered.

Tomorrow night sends the Yer-

ger Junior High Bobkittens back into action at Nashville for the Scrappers' Homecoming, and the rivalry has become intense even on this lower level.

Gametime is 7:30 p.m., as Coach Gaylord Solomon's Kittens try to pull out of a disappointing two-game losing string which ended hopes of an unbeaten season.

Davidson's Slade College Back of Week

By HERSCHEL NISSENER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Gordon Slade will never make them forget basketball at hoop-crazy Davidson College but he's doing his best to erase the memory of a lot of losing football seasons.

Slade, a possible first-round pro football draft choice, passed Davidson to a 37-7 rout of favored Richmond Saturday, completing 32 of 43 passes for 285 yards and two touchdowns while scoring three times himself.

For that performance he was named college Back of the Week by The Associated Press.

It put the Wildcats in the Southern Conference driver's seat and gave them an over-all 4-0 record for the first time since 1927.

"Gordon's not just a great Southern Conference quarterback, he's a great athlete by any college standards," says Coach Homer Smith of the 6-foot-1, 195-pound senior from Evansville, Ind.

"His leadership means as much to us as his throwing arm. And he's got a marvelous throwing arm, quick and strong. But he relies on a good head as much as on his God-given throwing ability."

"In fact, he's so intelligent it's a challenge to me. He's a joy to coach, but it's also difficult to coach a boy that sharp. He remembers everything you've told him before."

Slade had one pass intercepted Saturday and Smith takes the blame for that.

"Gordon had already decided on a play which would have been the right one, but I sent in another pass play and they picked it off," said Smith.

Slade's outstanding game was last year against Connecticut when he completed 30 of 36 passes, including one on which he shifted the ball from his right hand to his left and shoveled a completion that way.

Pro football's gain may be baseball's loss. Slade is an outfielder on the Davidson team, beating .429 as a sophomore and .383 last season and being named to the NCAA District 3 team both years.

For this football season, Slade has connected on 84 of 124 passes for 1,010 yards and nine touchdowns.

Agee's Circus Catches Key to Victory

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Tommie Agee's circus catches plucked the Baltimore Orioles' feathers in the third game of the World Series. Little Bud Harrelson has been picking their pockets from the start.

"We're playing our game now — good defense," said Harrelson, New York's sure-handed shortstop, after the Mets trimmed the Orioles 5-0 Tuesday for a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series.

Harrelson handled eight chances flawlessly as the Mets stymied Baltimore's big hitters again with solid defensive baseball. He personally disposed of the Orioles in the fifth inning by gobbling up three tricky ground balls and tossing out the side.

"They tell me that ties a World Series record . . . means six million other guys," he joked.

"We didn't play our best in the first game," the 150-pound bantam continued. "We did in the second game and again today. Every time they got something started, we came up with the big plays and took them out of it."

"If Agee doesn't make the first catch they've got two runs. If he doesn't make the second one, it's three more and a whole different ball game."

"They did the same thing to us in the first game at Baltimore. But I'm sure we're making them believe in us now."

Harrelson has had 15 chances without an error in the first three Series games. He also has poked a pair of hits in seven trips to the plate, including a two-out single in the second inning Tuesday that gave pitcher Gary Gentry the opportunity to double home two big runs.

The Mets' shortstop was involved in the game's lone ruckus as well. On first base with a walk in the fourth, he broke for second when Oriole pitcher Jim Palmer's pickoff throw went astray.

Harrelson was awarded second on an interference call against Powell, bringing Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver onto the field for a brief, but heated, argument with the umpires.

"I guess Powell had reached around for the ball and I was going the same way," said Harrelson, who gave away five inches and about 90 pounds in his comic wrestling match with the hulking Baltimore slugger.

"He was a big octopus. I felt like a baby kangaroo in a pocket."

"It was a mismatch," commented Mets skipper Gil Hodges.

Hodges was optimistic about the Mets' chances of upsetting the odds which were stacked against them after the Orioles beat 25-game winner Tom Seaver in the Series opener.

"We're in good shape," he said. "The next step is winning the third one."

Seaver was set to start again today and Jerry Koosman's second-game winner, will follow on Thursday. "I couldn't plan for anything better," Hodges said.

"The left-handers got us into the Series by beating Atlanta," said Kranepool, who smacked an eight-inning homer for New York's last run. "It looks like the right-handers have got to carry us in the Series."

"This could be the only one I play. I might get one more chance if there's a sixth game. But what's the difference as long as we win it?"

Army Shooter Wins 4th Medal
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Army Maj. Lones Wigger, Carter, Mont., won his fourth straight gold medal Monday in the ninth annual U.S. International Shooting Championships by winning the army rifle match.

Wigger, a long time member of the U.S. Army Marksmanship Unit and a veteran of Vietnam, scored 558 points.

Cleon Jones, who batted .340 during the regular season but has had just one hit—a first-inning single in the opener—in 12 Series at-bats, wasn't complaining either.

"I hope my turn comes tomorrow," he said. "But as long as we win I don't need a turn. If we win it, I don't care if I get another hit."

The first known American-born composer of music was Francis Hopkinson, a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Orioles Still Believe They Will Win

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Despite a suspicion to the contrary, the Baltimore Orioles continue to deny that the New York Mets and the man upstairs have formed some sort of strange alliance.

"You know what somebody told me?" coach Joe Pignatano asked with a laugh in the Mets dressing room after the club nicknamed the Amazin' had been just that in a 5-0 victory over the Orioles Tuesday that gave them the lead in the World Series.

And then he answered his own question:
"God is a Met fan."

"We," added Manager Gil Hodges, "certainly picked up some more non-believers with this one."

But they didn't pick up any of the Orioles.

"They're not super men," said outfielder Frank Robinson. "They're flesh and blood. The writers want to make it look like somebody's looking over them, but there's nothing to that."

"They tell me," said Manager Earl Weaver, "that man up there likes us all the same. Magic? They don't have any magic. They're just good."

"Heck, if Agee has an ingrown toe nail we got five runs."

Agee is Tommie Agee, the Mets center fielder. He didn't give an ingrown toe nail Tuesday, but he did have a leadoff homer that gave the Mets a lead they never relinquished and two spine-tingling catches that preserved the victory.

The catches and shutout pitching by Gary Gentry and Nolan Ryan pulled the Mets into a 2-1 lead after three games of the World Series and gave them a substantial lead in the odds-makers and experts never expected.

With two more games in New York, today and Thursday, and with their aces—Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman—lined up to handle the pitching, they have put themselves in position to complete the miracle that has seen them move from ninth place last year to the top this season.

"Do we have our backs against the wall? No," said Robinson. "When they need only one more than we have our backs against the wall. They have only the advantage of being one-up just the same as when we won the first game."

"But it certainly gives them an edge. It was a pivotal game. They got by it. They're in good shape."

"It's only one win in the whole series," said Weaver. "The fourth win is the most important. If you get the fourth win it makes the other three important. If you win the fourth it wipes out all the losses."

"Who knows—if (Tuesday's victory) might not be important when it's all over."

When it's all over—no matter who wins—there are two things that happened in the third game that will never be wiped out—Agee's catches, already ranked among the best made in the entire history of the series along with those by Al Gionfriddo and Sandy Amoros.

The first was made in the fourth inning with two men on when Agee chased a drive by Ellie Hendricks to the wall in left center, spearing it one-handed in the web of his glove before grazing up against the wall.

The second was made in the seventh inning with the bases loaded when Agee had to go the other way into right center for a liner by Paul Blair, diving for it one-handed at the last second as the wind kept carrying the ball away from him.

Although the second catch was more dramatic because of the acrobatics involved, both Agee and Hodges agreed the first was the better of the two.

Badgers Only Unbeaten Dist. Team

The Arkadelphia Badgers are the only undefeated team in Div. 4AA football after six weeks of the schedule and their most serious opposition for the balance of the season is Fairview on Nov. 7th and Hope on Nov. 21st.

The Badgers further proved their claim to a top ranking in Class AA ball by defeating Magnolia 25 to 8 this past week.

In 4AA West Hope leads with 1-0 (Arkadelphia has not played a West conference game) but also faces a big test this week when they play at Fairview.

In other action Arkadelphia plays at Smackover; Lincoln plays at Malvern; Magnolia and Warren open.

Other results from last week: Fairview 48 Lincoln 0; Camden 27 Malvern 16; Hope 47 NLR Oak Grove 7; Warren 13 Smackover 0.

Highlights of last week's play included: Hope's Ronny Brown, a guard, scored one touchdown, two field goals, and 5 extra points for total of 17 points; Fairview's Lewis Pryor scored on a 96-yard kickoff return and a 55-yard punt return plus a three yard sneak for 18 points; Camden's Bill Jordan had a 70-yard scoring run from scrimmage. Arkadelphia had 176 yards passing and 175 yards rushing in a balanced attack against Magnolia.

Jimmy Harris of Fairview increased his lead in the individual scoring leadership. He now has 59 points on seven TD's and 17 extra points. Thomas Dansby of Camden moved into second place with 46 points.

Harris of Fairview and Brown of Hope now share the lead in the PAT department with 17 each. Brown takes the field goal lead with two.

Camden has taken over the team rushing leadership with 1,266 yards and Hope is second with 1,235. Fairview continues to lead in Defense against rushing allowing only 269 yards. Arkadelphia leads in Pass Offense with 938 yards and Magnolia on defense against passes with 354 yds. Arkadelphia leads in team scoring with 185 points and Hope gle by Dave May around a pair of walks loaded the bases with two out and put Ryan in jeopardy. But he ended it by getting blair on three straight strikes.

That sends the teams back to Saturday's opening game pitchers for today's fourth game. Seaver starting against Mike Cuellar, Cuellar won that one 4-1.

After that game, no one was talking about someone up there liking the Mets.

But now they are again.

Knicks Out to Ruin Another Coaches' Debut

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK (AP) — Having spoiled one National Basketball Association coaching debut Tuesday night, the New York Knicks are out to ruin another tonight. This one may be more difficult.

The Knicks opened the NBA's 24th season with an easy 126-101 victory over Lennie Wilkens' Seattle SuperSonics. Tonight they go up against the Royals in Cincinnati, with Bob C Cousy, ex-Boston Celtic great and later coach at Boston College, handling a pro team for the first time.

The Knicks trailed Seattle only in the opening minutes as Bob Rule, who finished with 27, scored the Sonics' first 11 points. But Bill Bradley and Willis Reed shot the Knicks into the lead and Reed and Dick Barnett paced a 22-6 burst that opened a 95-63 spread late in the third period.

Reed finished with 28 points, Barnett 22, Walt Frazier 16, Dave DeBusschere 13 and Bradley and Mike Riordan 12 apiece.

The game also marked the return of New York's Dave Stallworth, who suffered a heart attack two years ago. Stallworth scored eight points and grabbed six rebounds.

The Knicks, among the favored teams in the NBA's Eastern Division, discounted their easy triumph as a true measure of their ability.

"Ask me how good we are after we've played 81 games, not one," said Bradley. "Playing Oscar Robertson and Cincinnati will be a good graduated test. We must consider that Cincinnati is a better team than Seattle."

Captain Reed echoed Bradley. "We played very well but the Cincinnati game will tell us more," he said. "I don't mean to belittle Seattle, but Cincinnati is a better organized team and always gives us trouble."

After that game, no one was talking about someone up there liking the Mets.

But now they are again.

Key College Games Are on Tap Sat.

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets and Baltimore Orioles aren't the only ones involved in important action this week. College football has some key games on tap Saturday.

For openers, there's third-ranked Southern California against No. 11 Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. Then there's fifth-ranked Penn State at Syracuse, with the winner a good bet to capture the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of Eastern supremacy.

Seventh-ranked Tennessee and Alabama, No. 20, have a crucial Southeastern Conference clash at Birmingham, California faces eighth-ranked UCLA in Los Angeles with the loser becoming a Rose Bowl spectator and Michigan, ranked 13th, is at Michigan State and very little has to be at stake for that one to be a thriller.

Whoever said quit while you're ahead has our thanks, after a 43-13 week, best of the season. But we can't, since there's still more than a month to go.

Notre Dame over Southern California—Both teams walked Northwestern, USC by a 48-6 count and Notre Dame by 35-10. But ND's Joe Theismann has come of age as a quarterback while USC's Jimmy Jones and Clarence Davis have never played in the South Bend snake pit.

Penn State over Syracuse—Syracuse ranks sixth nationally in total defense. Penn State doesn't care about the numbers—just about its own defense, which put the clamps on high-powered West Virginia last Saturday.

Alabama over Tennessee—Bama may have been looking ahead during last week's incredible loss to Vanderbilt. Bear Bryant will make sure the Crimson Tide is looking in the right direction this time.

UCLA over California—Dennis Dummit, Greg Jones and Mickey Cureton lead Bruins' potent offense past Cal's sticky defense.

Michigan over Michigan State—Wolverines smell roses, the Pasadena, Calif., kind, after last week's 30-21 upset of Purdue.

Ohio State over Minnesota—Merrily we roll along.

Louisiana State over Kentucky—Kentucky only wins on alternate weekends, and this isn't one of them.

Florida over North Carolina—Gators have only beaten the Tar Heels once, but super sophs John Reeves and Carlos Alvarez don't know that.

Oklahoma over Colorado—Sooners lost a tough one to Texas, and Colorado will pay for it.

Missouri over Oklahoma State—State had last week off, and this will be an off-week, too.

Post Keeps Rushing Lead in the AFL

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Post, the speedy San Diego Chargers running back, maintained his American Football League rushing lead, according to league statistics released today.

However Floyd Little of the Denver Broncos, who gained over 100 yards for the third time Sunday, has edged to within eight yards of Post. Little ran for 102 yards and a total of 364 for the year. Post, held to 31 yards in 14 carries, has 372. In the three other major offensive categories the leaders remained unchanged.

Rookie quarterback Greg Cook of Cincinnati is the No. 1 passer with 34 of 61 pass completions good for 601 yards and six touchdowns. Oakland's Fred Biletnikoff leads the pass receivers with 29 catches for 391 yards and four TDs while Jim Turner of the New York Jets has accounted for the most points with 45 on 11 field goals and 12 extra points.

Other leaders are: Paul Maguire, Buffalo, punting, 48.4 average; Butch Byrd, Buffalo, interceptions with six; Mercury Morris, Miami, kickoff returns, with a 33.1 yard average; and Nolan Smith, Kansas City, a 14.2 average on six punt returns.

Can't Vision Mets as Team of Destiny

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles haven't been swept along by the emotional tide of enthusiasm shown by New York fans for their darling Mets.

The Orioles don't look on the Mets as a team of destiny, a bunch of supermen, or even a ball club with momentum.

But, unless they break out of a horrid hitting slump, the favored Orioles could lose the 1969 World Series. After dropping a 5-0 decision Tuesday, Baltimore fell behind 2-1 in the best-of-7 series.

"When I walk past them, I hear them breathing," Baltimore right fielder Frank Robinson said. "So I know they're human. When one of them takes off and flies, I'll believe that superman stuff."

"Team of destiny?" Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said after Tuesday's game. "It wasn't destiny today. It was Agee's good legs and fielding ability. It was the good arms of Gentry and Ryan."

Tommie Agee, who belted a home run leading off the New York Mets first inning, made two spectacular catches in the outfield to prevent five Baltimore runs from scoring.

Rookie Gary Gentry, a winner in his first World Series start, allowed Baltimore three singles in 6 2-3 innings, and Nolan Ryan yielded an infield single in relief the rest of the way.

The Orioles left 11 runners stranded, twice being retired with the bases loaded, as their team batting average for three games dipped to .133. They have had six singles in the last 22 innings.

The Mets, with only a .194 average, have made the most of their few hits and have come up with the big defensive plays to throttle Baltimore threats.

Agee snared a drive to deep left center by Ellie Hendricks with two on and two out in the fourth inning Tuesday, and made a diving catch of Paul Blair's bases-loaded five with two outs in the seventh.

"Our players aren't down on themselves," Robinson said. "I can see that. They aren't hanging their heads, feeling sorry for themselves, cursing the other team and hollering 'lucky guys.' We're just giving credit to the Mets for good plays."

"They don't have momentum," Weaver said in answer to a question about the Mets' comeback after losing the opening game.

"If (Mike) Cuellar one-hits them tomorrow and we score one run on two hits and win, does that give us the momentum?" he asked rhetorically.

"We've snapped out of hitting slumps before," Weaver said. "We had two tough games in the playoffs against Minnesota, and then we got 18 hits in the third game."

Cuellar, the left-hander who won the first game 4-1 on a six-hitter, will again be matched against Tom Seaver. Cuellar won 23 games during the regular season and Seaver won 25.

"Good pitching is tough, no matter who you are," Weaver said. "But I think we'll do better these pitchers the second time around. We have some good hitters who are due to break loose."

Weaver, who has maintained all along that he respected the underdog Mets, said he has had only two surprises so far.

"The biggest surprise," he said, "is that Gentry is a much better pitcher than I had been told."

"I also expected more excitement out of the New York fans. I thought they were rather subdued."

Michigan End Is Lineman of the Week

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Preseason promotion billed Michigan tight end Jim Mandich as a prime All-American candidate.

Weakened by flu, the senior captain of the Wolverines played a poor opening game. The next week he got better and the week after that stayed about the same.

But last Saturday Mandich lived up to his billing when he caught 10 of Don Moorhead's passes for 156 yards and a touchdown as Michigan upset ninth-ranked Purdue 31-20.

He also set up two other touchdowns and a field goal with his sure-handed receiving, earning him Lineman of the Week honors from the Associated Press.

"It's a great honor," he said. "But most of my interest now lies with the team. We're well on our way to a Big Ten championship."

Those are confident words for a member of a team that has only played one Big Ten game this season. But the feeling at Ann Arbor is that the Purdue game could have been the biggest hurdle of the season towards a Rose Bowl trip.

"As far as pass receiving goes, I would have to say Saturday was my best game so far, although I have blocked better," Mandich said, admitting fine play and criticizing himself in the same breath.

He said he felt the game untracked him and the team and gave "a tremendous boost essential for any Big Ten championship hopes."

The dark-haired economics major, who is a look-alike to all time great All-American half-back Willie Heston of Michigan (1901-1904), has grabbed 20 passes this season for 262 yards and two touchdowns. Purdue coach Jack Mollenkopf summed up the story of his team's first loss this way: "We couldn't stop Mandich from catching the ball."

"He's a very reliable receiver," said U-M coach Bo Schembechler, who is not one to heap individual praise.

The record book proves Schembechler right. Mandich ranks second in career receptions at Michigan with 89 to Jack Clancy's 132 and third in yardage with 1,094, although he should pass Lowell Perry for second place in a week or two.

The 6-foot-3, 220-pound Mandich, who is from Solon, Ohio, threw the football into the stands after his TD Saturday and the Wolverines drew 15-yard penalty as a result.

"I can't forgive him for throwing the ball in the stands," deadpanned Schembechler. "But," he added, breaking into a grin, "I love that guy."

Basketball on Scene in Conference

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Play for keeps doesn't start until Dec. 1, but Southwest Conference basketball teams will edge into the sporting scene today with the opening of fall workouts.

Texas A&M's defending SWC champions will be trying to fill three big gaps—the losses to graduation of Ronnie Peret, Billy Bob Barnett and Sonny Benefield.

Coach Shelby Metcalf will have senior forward Mike Heilmann and seven-foot center Steve Niles returning. Other lettermen reporting include seniors Bill Brown and Oliver Biggers, juniors, Bill Cooksey, and Roddy McAlpine.

Second-place Baylor returns two-time All-SWC forward Tommy Bowman and the No. 4 scorer in the conference last year, Larry Gatewood.

Baylor's 10-4 record last year was second to A&M's 12-2.

Along with David Sibley, Baylor has outstanding potential. Only five of last year's top 12 scorers return. Besides the Baylor duo there's Gene Phillips of SMU (the leader at 21.3 points), Wayne Doyal of Texas (9th) and Tom Myer of Rice (12th).

Bob Bass will have 10 letter winners, including four starters, on hand for his first season at Texas Tech. Steve Hardin is the only senior in the group. Besides Doyal, Texas returns four lettermen. However, the Longhorns draw off an outstanding 1969 freshman team expected help from Lynn Howden and Terry Mullins.

Texas Christian returns guards Rick Wittenbracker and Jeff Harp, along with forwards Doug Boyd and Norm Wintermeyer. TCU's Johnny Swaim also looks for help from 6-foot-7 Steve Speiny a star at Bakersfield, Calif., Junior College last season.

Arkansas boasts promising newcomers Almer Lee, who averaged 25 points in junior college last year, and Vernon Murphy, who set a school freshman scoring record. James Eldredge, Arkansas boasts promising newcomers Almer Lee, who averaged 25 points in junior college last year, and Vernon Murphy, who set a school freshman scoring record. James Eldredge, Rick Tanneberger and Robert McKenzie return.

Rice has four regulars off last year's 6-8 club, plus hot-shooting freshmen Ted Melady and Don Snyder.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — End zone tickets, usually sold for $6, will be available at $1 each to high school and junior high school students at the Arkansas Razorbacks' remaining Little Rock games this year.

The games match the fourth-ranked Razorbacks with lowly Wichita State and Southwest Conference for Texas Tech. Ticket Manager Vera Moody announced the price cut plan.

Free-running Dog Ban Is Lifted by G&F

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — The state Game and Fish Commission voted 4-2 Tuesday to end its ban on free running dogs.

The vote was part of a compromise which included an agreement by the Arkansas Fox Hunters Association to drop a suit challenging the power of the commission.

The suit is pending before the state Supreme Court. The association has been one of the fiercest opponents of the regulation against free running dogs.

The commission also agreed to provide $155,000 for a four-year study to determine the status of free running dogs.

The 4-2 vote came on a motion by Commissioner Joe D. Scott of Nashville. Voting for it were Scott, Newt Halley of Rogers, Ed Gordon of Morrilton and Ralph Griffin of Jonesboro.

Those who voted against the motion were Tom Pugh of Portland and Raymond Farris of Biscoe. Commissioner Lloyd McCollum of Stuttgart abstained.

McCollum and Farris tried to persuade the other commissioners to delay a vote until those who approve of the regulation had a chance to give their side of the issue.

Razorbacks Work Out in Sweat Clothes

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Coach Frank Broyles put the Arkansas Razorbacks through a 90-minute workout in sweat clothes Tuesday and said they would work in pads the rest of this week.

Arkansas doesn't play this weekend. Its next game will be Oct. 25 in Little Rock against Wichita State, which has a 1-4 record.

Broyles said Dick Bumpas, a defensive tackle, and Cliff Powell, a middle linebacker, looked good in films of Arkansas' 21-7 victory over Baylor last week.

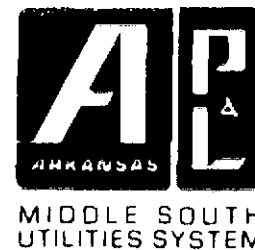

Bumpas made 2 tackles and six assists and Powell made 15 tackles and six assists.

Hope Hasn't Beat Cards in 3 Years

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

About 48 hours from now, Hope and Camden Fairview will clash once more on the football gridiron. The stakes are considerable in 4-AA's Western Division for 1969 and statewide Class AA ranking, and nerves are already taut with anticipation.

The Fairview Cardinals are favored with their 4-1 record and an average of five touchdowns a game, and it has been three years since Hope has beaten the Cards.

Physically, both teams rank in a tie as the largest in 4-AA, with 190-pounders and up abounding in both camps.

You would think that Hope would be keyed to a pitch of fever intensity, but so far this has been not so. However, that will be the requirement Friday night to beat a loaded and cocky Fairview powerhouse.

With the attitude and determination to avoid mental letdown, the Bobcats cannot lose. Coach Ronnie Higgins can be proud of one of the state's top kicking games and an overflow of depth at the running-back positions.

Artis Martin got most of the headlines earlier as the workhorse, but fellow senior Thomas Lloyd has applied his speed well in accounting for four TD's this fall. Gary Jones has been commended all season for his fine blocking and power running, and Isaiah Hendrix is gaining confidence quickly after a touchdown against Oak Grove and a 92-yard scoring kickoff return Monday night for the "B" squad.

Then there are the pair of sophomores who also start on defense, Ray Wheelington and Rusty Quillin. Ray gained 191 yards rushing in an earlier "B" game and has been returning kicks well, but Rusty has to be the surprise runner.

A lineman for the Bobkittens last fall, Quillin has turned into a smart ball-carrier with a sense for daylight which got him 87 yards and two six-pointers against Oak Grove and 110 yards on the ground in one half for the "B" squad Monday.

Up in the line, the first-teamers have moved the opponent out when the big play or drive was imperative, and the reserves are making much progress with their added experience on Friday nights in addition to the Monday "B" games.

Last year this writer lauded both Hope and Fairview for their tremendous kicking and kick returning and coverages, and what resulted was a night of short punts and fumbles.

Once more this time the two schools boast fine kickers (the same pair, in fact) in the Cardinals' Jimmy Harris and Bobcat David Still, and you have to think that their performing will share a big load on the outcome along with the defensive performing of both teams.

As injuries go, Hope defensive tackles Jim Alford and Lynn Norton should be able to start, Norton, with a broken thumb, will play in a plastic cast while Alford's recurring ankle problem is much better this week. Fairview lost their best blocking back, three-year starter Perry Johnson, to appendicitis, but Harris is an All-State fullback that can carry the load well.

In an early analysis, both Hope and Fairview hope to be able to move the ball on the ground against a pair of mighty stingy defenses. As passing goes, the Cards' secondary won't match the Bobcats', but QB Lewis Pryor can scramble out of the pocket and be dangerous for the Redbirds if his receivers are covered.

Tomorrow night sends the Yer-

ger Junior High Bobkittens back into action at Nashville for the Scrappers' Homecoming, and the rivalry has become intense even on this lower level.

Game time is 7:30 p.m., as Coach Gaylord Solomon's Kittens try to pull out of a disappointing two-game losing string which ended hopes of an unbeaten season.

Davidson's Slade College Back of Week

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Gordon Slade will never make them forget basketball at hoops-crazed Davidson College but he's doing his best to erase the memory of a lot of losing football seasons.

Slade, a possible first-round pro football draft choice, passed Davidson to a 37-7 rout of favored Richmond Saturday, completing 32 of 43 passes for 285 yards and two touchdowns while scoring three times himself.

For that performance he was named College Back of the Week by The Associated Press.

It put the Wildcats in the Southern Conference driver's seat and gave them an over-all 4-0 record for the first time since 1927.

"Gordon's not just a great Southern Conference quarterback, he's a great athlete by any college standards," says Coach Homer Smith of the 6-foot-1, 195-pound senior from Evansville, Ind.

"His leadership means as much to us as his throwing arm. And he's got a marvelous throwing arm, quick and strong. But he relies on a good head as much as on his God-given throwing ability."

"In fact, he's so intelligent it's a challenge to me. He's a joy to coach, but it's also difficult to coach a boy that sharp. He remembers everything you've told him before."

Slade had one pass intercepted Saturday and Smith takes the blame for that.

"Gordon had already decided on a play which would have been the right one, but I sent in another pass play and they picked it off," said Smith.

Slade's outstanding game was last year against Connecticut when he completed 30 of 36 passes, including one on which he shifted the ball from his right hand to his left and shoved a completion that way.

Pro football's gain may be baseball's loss. Slade is an outfielder on the Davidson team, beating .429 as a sophomore and .383 last season and being named to the NCAA District 3 team both years.

For this football season, Slade has connected on 84 of 124 passes for 1,010 yards and nine touchdowns.

Agee's Circus Catches Key to Victory

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommie Agee's circus catches plucked the Baltimore Orioles' feathers in the third game of the World Series. Little Bud Harrelson has been picking their pockets from the start.

"We're playing our game now — good defense," said Harrelson, New York's sure-handed shortstop, after the Mets trimmed the Orioles 5-0 Tuesday for a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series.

Harrelson handled eight chances flawlessly as the Mets stymied Baltimore's big hitters again with solid defensive baseball. He personally disposed of the Orioles in the fifth inning by gobbling up three tricky ground balls and tossing out the side.

"They tell me that ties a World Series record . . . me and six million other guys," he joked.

"We didn't play our best in the first game," the 150-pound bantam continued. "We did in the second game and again today. Every time they got something started, we came up with the big plays and took them out of it."

"If Agee doesn't make the first catch they've got two runs. If he doesn't make the second one, it's three more and a whole different ball game."

"They did the same thing to us in the first game at Baltimore. But I'm sure we're making them believe in us now."

Harrelson has had 15 chances without an error in the first three Series games. He also has poked a pair of hits in seven trips to the plate, including a two-out single in the second inning Tuesday that gave pitcher Gary Gentry the opportunity to double home two big runs.

The Mets' shortstop was involved in the game's lone rhabarb as well. On first base with a walk in the fourth, he broke for second when Oriole pitcher Jim Palmer's pickoff throw went astray . . .

Harrelson was awarded second on an interference call against Powell, bringing Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver onto the field for a brief, but heated, argument with the umpires.

"I guess Powell had reached around for the ball and I was going the same way," said Harrelson, who gave away five inches and about 90 pounds in his comic wrestling match with the hulking Baltimore slugger.

"He was a big octopus. I felt like a baby kangaroo in a pocket."

"It was a mismatch," commented Mets skipper Gil Hodges.

Hodges was optimistic about the Mets' chances of upsetting the odds which were stacked against them after the Orioles beat 25-game winner Tom Seaver in the Series opener.

"We're in good shape," he said. "The next step is winning the third one."

Seaver was set to start again today and Jerry Koosman, the second-game winner, will follow on Thursday. "I couldn't plan for anything better," Hodges said.

"The left-handers got us into the Series by beating Atlanta," said Kranepool, who smacked an eight-inning homer for New York's last run. "It looks like the right-handers have got to carry us in the Series."

"This could be the only one I play. I might get one more chance if there's a sixth game. But what's the difference as long as we win it?"

"Winning is everything," added Gentry, who picked up the victory but needed seventh-inning relief help from Nolan Ryan. "I might have felt bad about coming out for a while, but you watch us play all year and see the moves Gil makes, and you know they're never wrong."

Cleon Jones, who batted .340 during the regular season but has had just one hit—a first-inning single in the opener—in 12 Series at-bats, wasn't complaining either.

"I hope my turn comes tomorrow," he said. "But as long as we win I don't need a turn. If we win it, I don't care if I get another hit."

The first known American-born composer of music was Francis Hopkinson, a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Army Shooter Wins 4th Medal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) —

Army Maj. Lones Wigger, Carter, Mont., won his fourth straight gold medal Monday in the ninth annual U.S. International Shooting Championships by winning the army rifle match.

Wigger, a long time member of the U.S. Army Marksmanship Unit and a veteran of Vietnam, scored 558 points.

Orioles Still Believe They Will Win

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite a suspicion to the contrary, the Baltimore Orioles continue to deny that the New York Mets and the man upstairs have formed some sort of strange alliance.

"You know what somebody told me?" coach Joe Pignatano asked with a laugh in the Mets dressing room after the club nicknamed the Amazings had been just that in a 5-0 victory over the Orioles Tuesday that gave them the lead in the World Series.

And then he answered his own question:

"God is a Met fan."

"We," added Manager Gil Hodges, "certainly picked up some more non-believers with this one."

But they didn't pick up any of the Orioles.

"They're not super men," said outfielder Frank Robinson. "They're flesh and blood. The writers want to make it look like somebody's looking over them, but there's nothing to that."

"They tell me," said Manager Earl Weaver, "that man up there likes us all the same. Magic? They don't have any magic. They're just good."

"Heck, if Agee has an ingrown toe nail we got five runs."

Agee is Tommie Agee, the Mets center fielder. He didn't give an ingrown toe nail Tuesday, but he did have a leadoff homer that gave the Mets a lead they never relinquished and two spine-tingling catches that preserved the victory.

The catches and shutout pitching by Gary Gentry and Nolan Ryan pulled the Mets into a 2-1 lead after three games of the World Series and gave them a substantial edge the odds-makers and experts never expected.

With two more games in New York, today and Thursday, and with their aces—Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman—lined up to handle the pitching, they have put themselves in position to complete the miracle that has seen them move from ninth place last year to the top this season.

"Do we have our backs against the wall? No," said Robinson. "When they need only one more than we have our backs against the wall. They have only the advantage of being one-up just the same as when we won the first game."

"But it certainly gives them an edge. It was a pivotal game. They got by it. They're in good shape."

When it's all over—no matter who wins—there are two things that happened in the third game that will never be wiped out—Agee's catches, already ranked among the best made in the entire history of the series along with those by Al Glonfriddo and Sandy Amoros.

The first was made in the fourth inning with two men on when Agee chased a drive by Ellie Hendricks to the wall in left center, spearing it one-handed in the web of his glove before grazing up against the wall.

The second was made in the seventh inning with the bases loaded when Agee had to go the other way into right center for a liner by Paul Blair, diving for it one-handed at the last second as the wind kept carrying the ball away from him.

Although the second catch was more dramatic because of the acrobatics involved, both Agee and Hodges agreed the first was the better of the two.

"It was," said Hodges, "better than Glonfriddo's and as good as Amoros."

Hodges witnessed both those catches also.

He was a young catcher with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947 when Glonfriddo made a leaping one-handed catch of Joe DiMaggio's bid for a homer in the sixth game.

In 1955, Hodges was playing first base for the Dodgers when Amoros made a game-saving catch of a drive by Yogi Berra in the seventh game, racing toward the left field foul line with his glove hand extended to grab the drive as the Dodgers won their first Series.

While ranking his first catch over his second, Agee also ranked them over his homer.

"The homer meant only one run," he said simply. "The catches saved more than that."

The homer came off Jim Palmer, who gave up two more runs in the second inning when Gentry doubled after a walk to Jerry Grote and a single by Bud Harrelson.

The Mets pecked way for a sixth inning run on Ken Boswell's single and a Doubie by Grote, then wrapped up the scoring with a seventh-inning homer by Ed Kranepool.

Gentry had the Orioles stopped on three singles until he loaded the bases with three walks and Ryan came on to throw the pitch that Blair lashed to right center and led to Agee's acrobatics.

Then, in the ninth, a pinch shape.

Badgers Only Unbeaten Dist. Team

The Arkadelphia Badgers are the only undefeated team in Div. 4AA football after six weeks of the schedule and their most serious opposition for the balance of the season is Fairview on Nov. 7th and Hope on Nov. 21st.

The Badgers further proved their claim to a top ranking in Class AA ball by defeating Magnolia 25 to 8 this past week.

In 4AA West Hope leads with 1-0 (Arkadelphia has not played a West conference game) but also faces a big test this week when they play at Fairview.

In other action Arkadelphia plays at Smackover; Lincoln plays at Malvern; Magnolia and Warren open.

Other results from last week: Fairview 48 Lincoln 0; Camden 27 Malvern 16; Hope 47 NLR Oak Grove 7; Warren 13 Smackover 0.

Highlights of last week's play included: Hope's Ronny Brown, a guard, scored one touchdown, two field goals, and 5 extra points for total of 17 points; Fairview's Lewis Pryor scored on a 96-yard kickoff return and a 55-yard punt return plus a three yard sneak for 18 points; Camden's Bill Jordan had a 70-yard scoring run from scrimmage, Arkadelphia had 176 yards passing and 175 yards rushing in a balanced attack against Magnolia.

Jimmy Harris of Fairview increased his lead in the individual scoring leadership. He now has 59 points on seven td's and 17 extra points. Thomas Dansby of Camden moved into second place with 46 points.

Harris of Fairview and Brown of Hope now share the lead in the PAT department with 17 each. Brown takes the field goal lead with two.

Camden has taken over the team rushing leadership with 1,266 yards and Hope is second with 1,235. Fairview continues to lead in Defense against rushing allowing only 269 yards. Arkadelphia leads in Pass Offense with 938 yards and Magnolia on defense against passes with 354 yds. Arkadelphia leads in team scoring with 185 points and Hope gle by Dave May around a pair of walks loaded the bases with two out and put Ryan in jeopardy. But he ended it by getting Blair on three straight strikes.

That sends the teams back to Saturday's opening game pitchers for today's fourth game. Seaver starting against Mike Cuellar, Cuellar won that one 4-1.

After that game, no one was talking about someone up there liking the Mets.

But now they are again.

Knicks Out to Ruin Another Coaches' Debut

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK (AP) — Having spoiled one National Basketball Association coaching debut Tuesday night, the New York Knicks are out to ruin another tonight. This one may be more difficult.

The Knicks opened the NBA's 24th season with an easy 126-101 victory over Lennie Wilkens' Seattle SuperSonics. Tonight they go up against the Royals in Cincinnati, with Bob Cousy, ex-Boston Celtic great and later coach at Boston College, handling a pro team for the first time.

The Knicks trailed Seattle only in the opening minutes as Bob Rule, who finished with 27, scored the Sonics' first 11 points. But Bill Bradley and Willis Reed shot the Knicks into the lead and Reed and Dick Barnett paced a 22-6 burst that opened a 95-63 spread late in the third period.

Reed finished with 28 points, Barnett 22, Walt Frazier 16, Dave DeBusschere 13 and Bradley and Mike Riordan 12 apiece.

The game also marked the return of New York's Dave Stallworth, who suffered a heart attack two years ago. Stallworth scored eight points and grabbed six rebounds.

The Knicks, among the favored teams in the NBA's Eastern Division, discounted their easy triumph as a true measure of their ability.

"Ask me how good we are after we've played 81 games, not one," said Bradley. "Playing Oscar Robertson and Cincinnati will be a good graduated test. We must consider that Cincinnati is a better team than Seattle."

Captain Reed echoed Bradley. "We played very well but the Cincinnati game will tell us more," he said. "I don't mean to belittle Seattle, but Cincinnati is a better organized team and always gives us trouble."

Key College Games Are on Tap Sat.

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets and Baltimore Orioles aren't the only ones involved in important action this week. College football has some key games on tap Saturday.

For openers, there's third-ranked Southern California against No. 11 Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. Then there's fifth-ranked Penn State at Syracuse, with the winner a good bet to capture the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of Eastern supremacy.

Seventh-ranked Tennessee and Alabama, No. 20, have a crucial Southeastern Conference clash at Birmingham, California faces eighth-ranked UCLA in Los Angeles with the loser becoming a Rose Bowl spectator and Michigan, ranked 19th, is at Michigan State and very little has to be at stake for that one to be a thriller.

Whoever said quit while you're ahead has some thanks, after a 43-13 week, best of the season. But we can't, since there's still more than a month to go.

Notre Dame over Southern California—Both teams walked Northwestern, USC by a 48-6 count and Notre Dame by 35-10. But ND's Joe Theismann has come of age as a quarterback while USC's Jimmy Jones and Clarence Davis have never played in the South Bend snake pit.

Penn State over Syracuse—Syracuse ranks sixth nationally in total defense. Penn State doesn't care about the numbers—just about its own defense, which put the clamps on high-powered West Virginia last Saturday.

Alabama over Tennessee—Bama may have been looking ahead during last week's incredible loss to Vanderbilt. Bear Bryant will make sure the Crimson Tide is looking in the right direction this time.

UCLA over California—Dennis Dummit, Greg Jones and Mickey Cureton lead Bruins' potent offense past Cal's sticky defense.

Michigan over Michigan State—Wolverines smell roses, the Pasadena, Calif., kind, after last week's 30-21 upset of Purdue.

Ohio State over Minnesota—Merrily we roll along.

Louisiana State over Kentucky—Kentucky only wins on alternate weekends, and this isn't one of them.

Florida over North Carolina—Gators have only beaten the Tar Heels once, but super soph John Reeves and Carlos Alvarez don't know that.

Oklahoma over Colorado—Sooners lost a tough one to Texas, and Colorado will pay for it.

Missouri over Oklahoma State—State had last week off, and this will be an off-week, too.

Post Keeps Rushing Lead in the AFL

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Post, the speedy San Diego Chargers running back, maintained his American Football League rushing lead, according to league statistics released today.

However Floyd Little of the Denver Broncos, who gained over 100 yards for the third time Sunday, has edged to within eight yards of Post. Little ran for 102 yards and a total of 364 for the year. Post, held to 31 yards in 14 carries, has 372.

In the three other major offensive categories the leaders remained unchanged.

Rookie quarterback Greg Cook of Cincinnati is the No. 1 passer with 34 of 61 pass completions good for 601 yards and six touchdowns. Oakland's Fred Biletnikoff leads the pass receivers with 29 catches for 391 yards and four TDs while Jim Turner of the New York Jets has accounted for the most points with 45 on 11 field goals and 12 extra points.

Other leaders are: Paul Maguire, Buffalo, punting, 48.4 average; Butch Byrd, Buffalo, interceptions with six; Mercury Morris, Miami, kickoff returns, with a 33.1 yard average; and Nolan Smith, Kansas City, a 14.2 average on six punt returns.

Can't Vision Mets as Team of Destiny

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles haven't been swept along by the emotional tide of enthusiasm shown by New York fans for their darling Mets.

The Orioles don't look on the Mets as a team of destiny, a bunch of supermen, or even a ball club with momentum.

But, unless they break out of a horrid hitting slump, the favored Orioles could lose the 1969 World Series. After dropping a 5-0 decision Tuesday, Baltimore fell behind 2-1 in the best-of-7 series.

"When I walk past them, I hear them breathing," Baltimore right fielder Frank Robinson said. "So I know they're human. When one of them takes off and flies, I'll believe that superman stuff."

"Team of destiny?" Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said after Tuesday's game. "It wasn't destiny today. It was Agee's good legs and fielding ability. It was the good arms of Gentry and Ryan."

Tommie Agee, who belted a home run leading off the New York Mets first inning, made two spectacular catches in the outfield to prevent five Baltimore runs from scoring.

Rookie Gary Gentry, a winner in his first World Series start, allowed Baltimore three singles in 6-2-3 innings, and Nolan Ryan yielded an infield single in relief the rest of the way.

The Orioles left 11 runners stranded, twice being retired with the bases loaded, as their team batting average for three games dipped to .133. They have had six singles in the last 22 innings.

The Mets, with only a .194 average, have made the most of their few hits and have come up with the big defensive plays to throttle Baltimore threats.

Agee snared a drive to deep left center by Ellie Hendricks with two on and two out in the fourth inning Tuesday, and made a diving catch of Paul Blair's bases-loaded five with two outs in the seventh.

"Our players aren't down on themselves," Robinson said. "I can see that. They aren't hanging their heads, feeling sorry for themselves, cursing the other team and hollering 'lucky guys.' We're just giving credit to the Mets for good plays."

"They don't have momentum," Weaver said in answer to a question about the Mets' comeback after losing the opening game.

"If (Mike) Cuellar one-hits them tomorrow and we score one run on two hits and win, does that give us the momentum?" he asked rhetorically.

"We've snapped out of hitting slumps before," Weaver said. "We had two tough games in the playoffs against Minnesota, and then we got 18 hits in the third game."

Cuellar, the left-hander who won the first game 4-1 on a six-hitter, will again be matched against Tom Seaver. Cuellar won 23 games during the regular season and Seaver won 25.

"Good pitching is tough, no matter who you are," Weaver said. "But I think we'll do better these pitchers the second time around. We have some good hitters who are due to break loose."

Weaver, who has maintained all along that he respected the underdog Mets, said he has had only two surprises so far.

"The biggest surprise," he said, "is that Gentry is a much better pitcher than I had been told."

"I also expected more excitement out of the New York fans. I thought they were rather subdued."

Michigan End Is Lineman of the Week

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Preseason promotion billed Michigan tight end Jim Mandich as a prime All-American candidate.

Weakened by flu, the senior captain of the Wolverines played a poor opening game. The next week he got better and the week after that stayed about the same.

But last Saturday Mandich lived up to his billing when he caught 10 of Don Moorhead's passes for 156 yards and a touchdown as Michigan upset ninth-ranked Purdue 31-20.

He also set up two other touchdowns and a field goal with his sure-handed receiving, earning him Lineman of the Week honors from the Associated Press.

"It's a great honor," he said. "But most of my interest now lies with the team. We're well on our way to a Big Ten championship."

Those are confident words for a member of a team that has only played one Big Ten game this season. But the feeling at Ann Arbor is that the Purdue game could have been the biggest hurdle of the season towards a Rose Bowl trip.

"As far as pass receiving goes, I would have to say Saturday was my best game so far, although I have blocked better," Mandich said, admitting fine play and criticizing himself in the same breath.

He said he felt the game untracked him and the team and gave "a tremendous boost essential for any Big Ten championship hopes."

The dark-haired economics major, who is a look-alike to all time great All-American half-back Willie Heston of Michigan (1901-1904), has grabbed 20 passes this season for 262 yards and two touchdowns. Purdue coach Jack Mollenkopf summed up the story of his team's first loss this way: "We couldn't stop Mandich from catching the ball."

"He's a very reliable receiver," said U-M coach Bo Schembechler, who is not one to heap individual praise.

The record book proves Schembechler right. Mandich ranks second in career receptions at Michigan with 89 to Jack Clancy's 132 and third in yardage with 1,094, although he should pass Lowell Perry for second place in a week or two.

The 6-foot-3, 220-pound Mandich, who is from Solon, Ohio, threw the football into the stands after his TD Saturday and the Wolverines drew 15-yard penalty as a result.

"I can't forgive him for throwing the ball in the stands," deadpanned Schembechler. "But," he added, breaking into a grin, "I love that guy."

Basketball on Scene in Conference

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Play for keeps doesn't start until Dec. 1, but Southwest Conference basketball teams will edge into the sporting scene today with the opening of fall workouts.

Texas A&M's defending SWC champions will be trying to fill three big gaps—the losses to graduation of Ronnie Perel, Billy Bob Barnett and Sonny Benefield.

Coach Shelby Metcalf will have senior forward Mike Heitmann and seven-foot center Steve Niles returning. Other lettermen reporting include seniors Bill Brown and Oliver Biggers, juniors, Bill Cooksey and Roddy McAlpine.

Second-place Baylor returns two-time All-SWC forward Tommy Bowman and the No. 4 scorer in the conference last year, Larry Gatewood.

Baylor's 10-4 record last year was second to A&M's 12-2. Along with David Sibley, Baylor has outstanding potential.

Only five of last year's top 12 scorers return. Besides the Baylor duo there's Gene Phillips of SMU (the leader at 21.3 points, Wayne Doyal of Texas (9th) and Tom Myer of Rice (12th).

only senior in the group. Besides Doyal, Texas returns four lettermen. However, the Longhorns draw off an outstanding 1969 freshman team expected help from Lynn Howden and Terry Mullins.

Texas Christian returns guards Rick Wittenbracker and Jeff Harp, along with forwards Doug Boyd and Norm Wintermeyer. TCU's Johnny Swaim also looks for help from 6-foot-7 Steve Speiny a star at Bakersfield, Calif., Junior College last season.

Arkansas boasts promising newcomers Almer Lee, who averaged 25 points in junior college last year, and Vernon Murphy, who set a school freshman scoring record, James Eldredge.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — End zone tickets, usually sold for $6, will be available at $1 each to high school and junior high school students at the Arkansas Razorbacks' remaining Little Rock games this year.

The games match the fourth-ranked Razorbacks with lowly Wichita State and Southwest Conference for Texas Tech. Ticket Manager Vera Moody announced the price cut plan.

Free-running Dog Ban Is Lifted by G&F

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — The state Game and Fish Commission voted 4-2 Tuesday to end its ban on free running dogs.

The vote was part of a compromise which included an agreement by the Arkansas Fox Hunters Association to drop a suit challenging the power of the commission.

The suit is pending before the state Supreme Court. The association has been one of the fiercest opponents of the regulation against free running dogs.

The commission also agreed to provide $155,000 for a four-year study to determine the status of free running dogs.

The 4-2 vote came on a motion by Commissioner Joe D. Scott of Nashville. Voting for it were Scott, Newt Hailey of Rogers, Ed Gordon of Morrilton and Ralph Griffin of Jonesboro.

Those who voted against the motion were Tom Pugh of Portland and Raymond Farris of Biscoe. Commissioner Lloyd McCollum of Stuttgart abstained.

McCollum and Farris tried to persuade the other commissioners to delay a vote until those who approve of the regulation had a chance to give their side of the issue.

Razorbacks Work Out in Sweat Clothes

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Coach Frank Broyles put the Arkansas Razorbacks through a 90-minute workout in sweat clothes Tuesday and said they would work in pads the rest of this week.

Arkansas doesn't play this weekend. Its next game will be Oct. 25 in Little Rock against Wichita State, which has a 1-1 record.

Broyles said Dick Bumpas, a defensive tackle, and Cliff Powell, a middle linebacker, looked good in films of Arkansas' 21-7 victory over Baylor last week.

Bumpas made 2 tackles and six assists and Powell made 15 tackles and six assists.

Hope Hasn't Beat Cards in 3 Years

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports writer

About 48 hours from now, Hope and Camden Fairview will clash once more on the football gridiron. The stakes are considerable in 4-AA's Western Division for 1969 and statewide Class AA ranking, and nerves are already taut with anticipation.

The Fairview Cardinals are favored with their 4-1 record and an average of five touchdowns a game, and it has been three years since Hope has beaten the Cards.

Physically, both teams rank in a tie as the largest in 4-AA, with 190-pounders and up abounding in both camps.

You would think that Hope would be keyed to a pitch of fever intensity, but so far this year has been no. However, that will be the requirement Friday night to beat a loaded and cocky Fairview powerhouse.

With the attitude and determination to avoid mental let-down, the Bobcats cannot lose. Coach Ronnie Higgins can be proud of one of the state's top kicking games and an overflow of depth at the running-back positions.

Artis Martin got most of the headlines earlier as the workhorse, but fellow senior Thomas Lloyd has applied his speed well in accounting for four TD's this fall. Gary Jones has been commended all season for his fine blocking and power running, and Isaiah Hendrix is gaining confidence quickly after a touchdown against Oak Grove and a 92-yard scoring kickoff return Monday night for the "B" squad.

Then there are the pair of sophomores who also start on defense, Ray Wheelington and Rusty Quillin. Ray gained 191 yards rushing in an earlier "B" game and has been returning kicks well, but Rusty has to be the surprise runner.

A lineman for the Bobkittens last fall, Quillin has turned into a smart ball-carrier with a sense for daylight which got him 87 yards and two six-pointers against Oak Grove and 110 yards on the ground in one half for the "B" squad Monday.

Up in the line, the first-teamers have moved the opponent out when the big play or drive was imperative, and the reserves are making much progress with their added experience on Friday nights in addition to the Monday "B" games.

Last year this writer lauded both Hope and Fairview for their tremendous kicking and kick returning and coverages, and what resulted was a night of short punts and fumbles.

Once more this time the two schools boast fine kickers (the same pair, in fact) in the Cardinals' Jimmy Harris and Bobcat David Still, and you have to think that their performing will share a big load on the outcome along with the defensive performing of both teams.

As injuries go, Hope defensive tackles Jim Alford and Lynn Norton should be able to start. Norton, with a broken thumb, will play in a plastic cast while Alford's recurring ankle problem is much better this week. Fairview lost their best blocking back, three-year starter Perry Johnson, to appendicitis, but Harris is an All-State fullback that can carry the load well.

In an early analysis, both Hope and Fairview hope to be able to move the ball on the ground against a pair of mighty stingy defenses. As passing goes, the Cards' secondary won't match the Bobcats', but QB Lewis Pryor can scramble out of the pocket and be dangerous for the Redbirds if his receivers are covered.

Tomorrow night sends the Yer-get Junior High Bobkittens back into action at Nashville for the Scrappers' Homecoming, and the rivalry has become intense even on this lower level.

Game time is 7:30 p.m., as Coach Gaylord Solomon's Kittens try to pull out of a disappointing two-game losing string which ended hopes of an unbeaten season.

Davidson's Slade College Back of Week

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Gordon Slade will never make them forget basketball at hoop-crazed Davidson College but he's doing his best to erase the memory of a lot of losing football seasons.

Slade, a possible first-round pro football draft choice, passed Davidson to a 37-7 rout of favored Richmond Saturday, completing 32 of 43 passes for 285 yards and two touchdowns while scoring three times himself.

For that performance he was named college Back of the Week by The Associated Press.

It put the Wildcats in the Southern Conference driver's seat and gave them an over-all 4-0 record for the first time since 1927.

"Gordon's not just a great Southern Conference quarterback, he's a great athlete by any college standards," says Coach Homer Smith of the 6-foot-1, 195-pound senior from Evansville, Ind.

"His leadership means as much to us as his throwing arm. And he's got a marvelous throwing arm, quick and strong. But he relies on a good head as much as on his God-given throwing ability."

"In fact, he's so intelligent it's a challenge to me. He's a joy to coach, but it's also difficult to coach a boy that sharp. He remembers everything you've told him before."

Slade had one pass intercepted Saturday and Smith takes the blame for that.

"Gordon had already decided on a play which would have been the right one, but I sent in another pass play and they picked it off," said Smith.

Slade's outstanding game was last year against Connecticut when he completed 30 of 36 passes, including one on which he shifted the ball from his right hand to his left and shoveled a completion that way.

Pro football's gain may be baseball's loss. Slade is an outfielder on the Davidson team, beating .429 as a sophomore and .383 last season and being named to the NCAA District 3 team both years.

For this football season, Slade has connected on 84 of 124 passes for 1,010 yards and nine touchdowns.

Agee's Circus Catches Key to Victory

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Tommie Agee's circus catches plucked the Baltimore Orioles' feathers in the third game of the World Series. Little Bud Harrelson has been picking their pockets from the start.

"We're playing our game now — good defense," said Harrelson, New York's sure-handed shortstop, after the Mets trimmed the Orioles 5-0 Tuesday for a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series.

Harrelson handled eight chances flawlessly as the Mets stymied Baltimore's big hitters again with solid defensive baseball. He personally disposed of the Orioles in the fifth inning by gobbling up three tricky ground balls and tossing out the side.

"They tell me that ties a World Series record... me and six million other guys," he joked.

"We didn't play our best in the first game," the 150-pound bantam continued. "We did in the second game and again today. Every time they got something started, we came up with the big plays and took them out of it."

"If Agee doesn't make the first catch they've got two runs. If he doesn't make the second one, it's three more and a whole different ball game."

"They did the same thing to us in the first game at Baltimore. But I'm sure we're making them believe in us now."

Harrelson has had 15 chances without an error in the first three Series games. He also has poked a pair of hits in seven trips to the plate, including a two-out single in the second inning Tuesday that gave pitcher Gary Gentry the opportunity to double home two big runs.

The Mets' shortstop was involved in the game's lone rhabarb as well. On first base with a walk in the fourth, he broke for second when Oriole pitcher Jim Palmer's pickoff throw went astray...

Harrelson was awarded second on an interference call against Powell, bringing Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver onto the field for a brief, but heated, argument with the umpires.

"I guess Powell had reached around for the ball and I was going the same way," said Harrelson, who gave away five inches and about 90 pounds in his comic wrestling match with the hulking Baltimore slugger.

"He was a big octopus. I felt like a baby kangaroo in a pocket."

"It was a mismatch," commented Mets skipper Gil Hodges.

Hodges was optimistic about the Mets' chances of upsetting the odds which were stacked against them after the Orioles beat 25-game winner Tom Seaver in the Series opener.

"We're in good shape," he said. "The next step is winning the third one."

Seaver was set to start again today and Jerry Koosman the second-game winner, will follow on Thursday. "I couldn't plan for anything better," Hodges said.

"The left-handers got us into the Series by beating Atlanta," said Kranepool, who smacked an eight-inning homer for New York's last run. "It looks like the right-handers have got to carry us in the Series."

"This could be the only one I play. I might get one more chance if there's a sixth game. But what's the difference as long as we win it?"

"Winning is everything," added Gentry, who picked up the victory but needed seventh-inning relief help from Nolan Ryan. "I might have felt bad about coming out for a while, but you watch us play all year and see the moves Gil makes, and you know they're never wrong."

Cleon Jones, who batted .340 during the regular season but has had just one hit—a first-inning single in the opener—in 12 Series at-bats, wasn't complaining either.

"I hope my turn comes tomorrow," he said. "But as long as we win I don't need a turn. If we win it, I don't care if I get another hit."

The first known American-born composer of music was Francis Hopkinson, a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Army Shooter Wins 4th Medal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) —

Army Maj. Lones Wigger, Carter, Mont., won his fourth straight gold medal Monday in the ninth annual U.S. International Shooting Championships by winning the army rifle match.

Wigger, a long time member of the U.S. Army Marksmanship Unit and a veteran of Vietnam, scored 558 points.

Orioles Still Believe They Will Win

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Despite a suspicion to the contrary, the Baltimore Orioles continue to deny that the New York Mets and the man upstairs have formed some sort of strange alliance.

"You know what somebody told me?" coach Joe Pignatano asked with a laugh in the Mets dressing room after the club nicknamed the Amazings had been just that in a 5-0 victory over the Orioles Tuesday that gave them the lead in the World Series.

And then he answered his own question:

"God is a Met fan."

"We," added Manager Gil Hodges, "certainly picked up some more non-believers with this one."

But they didn't pick up any of the Orioles.

"They're not super men," said outfielder Frank Robinson. "They're flesh and blood. The writers want to make it look like somebody's looking over them, but there's nothing to that."

"They tell me," said Manager Earl Weaver, "that man up there likes us all the same."

"Magic? They don't have any magic. They're just good."

"Heck, if Agee has an ingrown toe nail we got five runs."

Agee is Tommie Agee, the Mets center fielder. He didn't give an ingrown toe nail Tuesday, but he did have a leadoff homer that gave the Mets a lead they never relinquished and two spine-tingling catches that preserved the victory.

The catches and shutout pitching by Gary Gentry and Nolan Ryan pulled the Mets into a 2-1 lead after three games of the World Series and gave them a substantial edge the odds-makers and experts never expected.

With two more games in New York, today and Thursday, and with their aces—Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman—lined up to handle the pitching, they have put themselves in position to complete the miracle that has seen them move from ninth place last year to the top this season.

"Do we have our backs against the wall? No," said Robinson. "When they need only one more than we have our backs against the wall. They have only the advantage of being one-up just the same as when we won the first game."

"But it certainly gives them an edge. It was a pivotal game. They got by it. They're in good shape."

Then, in the ninth, a pinch-shape." "It's only one win in the whole series," said Weaver. "The fourth win is the most important. If you get the fourth win it makes the other three important. If you win the fourth it wipes out all the losses."

"Who knows—It (Tuesday's victory) might not be important when it's all over."

When it's all over—no matter who wins—there are two things that happened in the third game that will never be wiped out—Agee's catches, already ranked among the best made in the entire history of the series along with those by Al Giofriddo and Sandy Amoros.

The first was made in the fourth inning with two men on when Agee chased a drive by Ellie Hendricks to the wall in left center, spearing it one-handed in the web of his glove before grazing up against the wall.

The second was made in the seventh inning with the bases loaded when Agee had to go the other way into right center for a liner by Paul Blair, diving for it one-handed at the last second as the wind kept carrying the ball away from him.

Although the second catch was more dramatic because of the acrobatics involved, both Agee and Hodges agreed the first was the better of the two. "It was," said Hodges, "better than Giofriddo's and as good as Amoros."

Hodges witnessed both those catches also.

He was a young catcher with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947 when Giofriddo made a leaping one-handed catch of Joe DiMaggio's bid for a homer in the sixth game.

In 1955, Hodges was playing first base for the Dodgers when Amoros made a game-saving catch of a drive by Yogi Berra in the seventh game, racing toward the left field foul line with his glove hand extended to grab the drive as the Dodgers won their first Series.

While ranking his first catch over his second, Agee also ranked them over his homer.

"The homer meant only one run," he said simply. "The catches saved more than that."

The homer came off Jim Palmer, who gave up two more runs in the second inning when Gentry doubled after a walk to Jerry Grote and a single by Bud Harrelson.

The Mets pecked way for a sixth inning run on Ken Boswell's single and a Doubie by Grote, then wrapped up the scoring with a seventh-inning homer by Ed Kranepool.

Gentry had the Orioles stopped on three singles until he loaded the bases with three walks and Ryan came on to throw the pitch that Blair lashed to right center and led to Agee's acrobatics.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT

The fear of falling sick without any friends or relatives to turn to haunts many an elderly person who lives alone. Precious time is often lost in treating such persons because no one is available to provide ambulance attendants and doctors with information that could make the difference between life and death. To improve this situation the Maimonides Medical Center in New York has distributed medical emergency data cards to some 3,000 persons who are over 65.

The cards are filled out and posted on the back of the bedroom door. Ambulance attendants, policemen and firemen have been requested to look for these cards when answering calls for assistance and to turn them over to the hospital on arrival. The information includes the name of the subject's physician, hospital of choice, health insurance data, drug sensitivity and medical history. These cards should expedite treatment and help reduce the number of deaths that result from delay or faulty medical information.

Q—I am now pregnant. In the fifth month of this pregnancy, I had a very light case of German measles.
What are the chances of my baby being normal?

A—They are very good since the harmful effects of German measles on the fetus are usually limited to the first three months of pregnancy.

Q—What causes herpes simplex? What is the treatment? Does it ever become cancerous?

A—Herpes simplex, canker sores, fever blisters and cold sores are all caused by the same virus. Idoxuridine (Stoxil) cures some victims.
A new enzyme preparation,
Sorlyte, applied locally relieves the pain and promotes healing. Both are prescription drugs. Recurrences, however, are common.
Although the terms "canker" and "cancer" are related, the diseases are not.

Q—If one discontinues taking cortisone because of the growth of hair on the face and the development of moon face, how long will it take for these side effects to disappear?

A—They usually clear up within a few days after you stop taking the drug.

$100 Reward!

For information leading to the arrest and conviction of the persons who stole seven newspaper vending machines in downtown Hope the morning of Sept. 26 the undersigned newspapers will pay a cash reward of $100.

Information should be given either to the police or to the Hope Star office, and payment of the reward is guaranteed by Hope Star, which will reimburse by the other newspapers for their share.

All the stolen vending machines bear their newspaper names. Two were stolen from Arkansas Gazette; two from Shreveport Times; and three from Texarkana Gazette.

Please help us track down the guilty persons.

Bat Boy Tells Traits of the Orioles

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — Catcher Elrod Hendricks swings the heaviest bat in the Orioles' lineup, pitcher Mike Cuellar is the most superstitious and third baseman Brooks Robinson is the most finicky, says Baltimore's bat boy, Jay Mazzone.

Mazzone, 16-year-old Baltimore 10th-grader, figures he is custodian of 500 bats and handles between 100 and 120 in every game.

What's so special about that? Nothing, maybe, but—your size—Jay has no hands.

"It happened near Atlantic City, N.J.," the slender, dark-eyed youngster explained today. "I was burning some stuff in the back yard and playing with a can of kerosene. I must have got some kerosene on my clothes. I caught fire."

"My mother tried to help me. Her dress caught on fire, too. Then a neighbor ran across the field and threw dirt on us and put out the fire. But, for me, it was too late."

Both of young Mazzone's hands were burned off at the wrists, leaving him two charred nubs. He also was burned around the face and on the body.

Nevertheless, four years ago, Jay won a bat-boy contest and became bat boy for the Orioles, who in that span now have won two American League titles and are shooting for their second World Series victory.

Vikings Are Co-leaders in Statistics

NEW YORK (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings, co-leaders in the Century Division of the National Football League are all alone as the top defensive club according to league statistics release today.

The Vikings, a 31-0 winner over the Chicago Bears last Sunday, have allowed but 847 yards in four games. The Bears were in the runnerup spot, giving up 979 yards. However the Bears were the toughest team to pass against, with an outlay of only 426 yards in four contests.

An Advisory Committee for Adult Education was held at Red River Vocational Technical School which included representatives of several agencies. Left to right are J.W. Rowe, Director, Red River Vocational Technical School; Barney B. Smith, NYC Arkansas Farmers Union, Nashville; Mrs. Peggy Cooper, SWADC Mainstream, Hope and Texarkana; Mrs. Doyle Huff, Instructor-Adult Education, Red River Vocational Technical School; Rev. "I'm wearing it to show that I sympathize with the antiwar demonstration back home," said the platoon leader, 1st Lt. Jesse Rosen of New York City. "It's just my way of silently protesting. Personally, I think the demonstrating should go on until President Nixon gets the idea that every American should be pulled out of here now."

Ryan reported that the platoon killed two Viet Cong, including a woman armed with a Chinese rifle, and that four of the Americans were wounded by booby traps.

A spokesman for the American Division said the protest was being investigated and he didn't know yet whether any disciplinary action would be taken against Rosen.

President Nguyen Van Thieu said in a statement that the antiwar demonstrations could prolong the war if they encouraged the enemy to wait for more concessions. Some members of the South Vietnamese House of Representatives called for a full-scale legislative debate on the demonstrations.

A poll this week provided further indications of the nation's readiness to alter the welfare system. It showed 47 per cent favoring President Nixon's plan, 17 per cent opposed, and 36 per cent undecided.

The House Committee hearings also involved a look at a companion measure to boost Social Security benefits 10 per

Warrant Is Issued for Frank Sinatra

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — An arrest warrant has been issued for Frank Sinatra, who failed to heed a subpoena to an investigation on organized crime. An aide to Sinatra said he was out of the country.

The warrant, enforceable only in New Jersey, was issued Tuesday at the request of the State Investigation Commission.

In Beverly Hills, Calif., a spokesman for the singer-actor said Tuesday, "Mr. Sinatra left New York City this morning for the Caribbean and at present is unaware of the situation. We are trying to locate him now and I am certain that when he is advised of the matter he will have some comment."

The SIC said Sinatra had been served with a subpoena June 25 in connection with an investigation of organized crime throughout the state. At that time, Sinatra was aboard his yacht off Highlands, N.J.

He was ordered to appear at a private hearing Aug. 19, but his Los Angeles attorney, Milton Rudin, obtained a month's delay.

The SIC said it had not heard from Rudin or Sinatra since, and Superior Court Judge Frank J. Kingfield issued the warrant, charging the entertainer with contempt.

If convicted, he would face up to six months in jail.

Sinatra is a native of Hoboken and has frequently visited the state.

He was forced to sell his interests in two Nevada resorts in 1963 when state officials charged that he had been host to a Chicago underworld figure.

Sinatra once owned 50 per cent of the Cal-Neva Lodge in Lake Tahoe and 9 per cent of the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas. He sold his interests, which he said were worth $3.5 million, after the State Gaming Control Board recommended revocation of gambling licenses at the two resorts.

State officials said Sinatra had entertained Sam Giancana, who was officially nongrata in Nevada.

According to New Jersey court papers, Sinatra was offered a standard $2 witness fee and a $2 travel allowance. "He would not take the money," court papers said.

Hart Holds Rushing Lead in AIC Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Tommy Hart of Henderson holds the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference 4 football rushing lead after his 229-yard effort against Southern State last weekend.

The Reddie senior lost the passing lead to Jerry Copeland of Harding College.

Copeland has 523 yards passing on 48 completions in 94 attempts. Hart is next with 421 yards on 33 completions in 64 attempts.
